Rev. Dr. George T. Purves spoke against revision, as did Rev. Dr. George D. Baker. Dr. McKibben favored a modified change. There are 250 commissioners committed to dismissal, but they have expressed themselves as open to conviction.

Army of the Potomac Officers.

Tremaine, New York; recording secretary, Colonel W. F. Fox, Albany; treasurer, Colonel Samuel Truesdell, New York city. At 2 o'clock there was a parade of the local companies and visitors, after which a bronze tablet to the memory of General Daniel Butterfield was presented the Oneida Historical society. It has been erected on the wall of the historical building.

Kaiser to Exclude Reporters.

BERLIN, May 24.—Emperor William has issued stringent orders henceforth to exclude newspaper reporters from all public and semipublic functions where the emperor intends to speak. The emperor's entourage and the police have been given instructions to render impossible the stenographic reporting of his speeches or the taking of notes thereon. The emperor is said to be extremely wroth that his address to the Emperor Alexander regiment became public in spite of the great precautions taken to prevent it. Emperor William has ordered that these instructions first go into effect at the unveiling of the Bismarck monument, which occurs June 3.

Grants of Land Under Water.

ALBANY, May 24.—The state land board has made 13 grants of land under water within the corporate limits of New York city aggregating 13 acres. The aggregate of the price received was $8,000. Three grants were made at Astoria, three in Richmond county and the remainder in Kings county. These matters had been pending for some time and were acted upon in view of the decision of the court of appeals in the Astoria case, which held that the state land board has the right to grant land under water within New York city.

Eighty Indictments Found.

FREEHOLD, N. J., May 24.—The grand jury of Monmouth county has handed up a batch of 80 indictments, an unusually large number. What they cover has not been learned, but in view of the recent charge of Judge Fost concerning the Long Branch resorts many believe the indictments to be for illegal beer selling and gambling. The court granted the jurymen a recess until July 18.

JOHN R. TANNER DEAD.

Former Governor of Illinois a Victim of Rheumatism of the Heart.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., May 24.—Former Governor John R. Tanner died here suddenly in the Leland hotel yesterday afternoon from rheumatism of the heart. He had been confined to his room since his return from Chicago last Saturday with rheumatism of the left side, but the case was not considered at all serious. He felt much worse yesterday, and Dr. John Dixon, the family physician, was called. He found the governor dying.

Governor Tanner had held various positions besides that of governor, having been a member of the Illinois legislature, United States marshal for the southern district of Illinois, state treasurer and assistant attorney at the United States subtreasury at Chicago and was for many years a member of the Republican state central committee and chairman of the same. He was a candidate for United States senator this year against Senator Cullom. He leaves a widow, one son, Colonel J. M. Tanner of Springfield and colonel of the Fourth infantry, Illinois national guard, and one daughter, Mrs. John A. Barnes of Chicago.

Governor Tanner was 57 years old. He served as a private in the Fifty-eighth and Sixty-first Illinois infantry regiments. He was also formerly a member of the railroad and warehouse commission.

Dowieites In Trouble.

CHICAGO, May 24.—The coroner's jury which for two days has listened to the evidence in the case of Mrs. Emma Lucy Judd, who was one of the officials of John Alexander Dowie's Zion, last night returned a verdict holding Dowie, H. W. Judd, husband of the woman; Mrs. S. Presher and Mrs. Bratsch to await the action of the grand jury. The two women named in the verdict were in attendance upon Mrs. Judd prior to her death. The charge against them is "criminal responsibility" for the death of Mrs. Judd. The evidence given at the inquest by some of the leading physicians of the city who had examined Mrs. Judd's body after it had been exhumed was to the effect that the most simple surgical care would have prevented the woman's death.

PRESIDENT'S BUSY DAY.

A Visit to the Presidio and Military Hospital—Many Receptions.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—Mrs McKinley was up yesterday and was well enough to appear at her window and wave a farewell to the president as he departed for the military review at the Presidio.

While the present intention of the presidential party is to start for the east at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, this will not be positively decided upon until after a consultation of the attending physicians which is to be held at noon today.

The president was met at the entrance of the reservation by a detachment of artillery and cavalry and escorted to the reviewing stand on the parade grounds. All the troops passed in review, the late returning volunteers passing in close marching order in fatigue uniform and unarmed. General Shafter and the members of the cabinet occupied the stand with the president, who made a brief address, which was loudly applauded.

After the review the president, escorted by General Shafter and Colonel Girard went through every ward of the military hospital. He had a smile for every patient and spoke words of cheer to many.

In the afternoon the president was the guest of honor at the receptions of the Union League club, the Ohio Society of California, the Mexican War Veterans, Pioneers and Native Sons. The latter three societies presented him with a paper weight containing $850 worth of gold. At each reception the president responded briefly to presentation speeches.

On his way to dinner President McKinley stopped at Union square and turned over the first shovelful of sod where the monument to the American navy in commemoration of Admiral Dewey's victory at Manila bay is to be erected.

President McKinley attended a reception at night given in his honor by the G. A. R. posts of the city. This afternoon he will go to Oakland to review the school children of that city.

WOOD URGES COURTS.

Havana Trials Must Be Attended to at Once.

HAVANA, May 24.—General Wood has issued orders to the judges and postoffice inspectors that all cases must immediately be brought to trial, beginning not later than the middle of next June. The complicated methods of Cuban courts, combined with the red tape in the postoffice department, has caused many cases to drag on without a sign of their ever coming to trial. It is estimated that over $60,000 has already been spent in securing testimony, and stenographers and translators have work ahead for months to come.

Regarding the case of E. G. Rathbone, it is common talk among attorneys and court officials that there is not the least evidence against him and that Rathbone would have been discharged long ago but for the persistency with which inspectors are continually bringing in new but unimportant testimony which the court must record and translate. This practice often results in sending out additional interrogatories, which add to the delay. The case of Rathbone is still in the court of first instance, and while it remains there the attorneys cannot ask for a trial.

The counsel of Charles F. W. Neely will object to the use of interrogatories sent to the United States, the Philippines and elsewhere as evidence on the ground that this is ex parte testimony and that the law granting extradition guaranteed Neely a fair and impartial trial.

Juan Gualberto Gomez continued his speech against the Platt amendment before the Cuban constitutional convention. Senor Sanguily replied to him. The closing remarks of Senor Gomez were eloquent. The convention adjourned without voting. Senors Llorente, Zayas and Silva gave notice that they would speak today. Senor Mendez Capote, the president of the convention, announced that he would vote for the Platt amendment.

BRESCI A SUICIDE.

Slayer of King Humbert Strangles Himself With a Towel.

ROME, May 24.—Bresci, the assassin of the late King Humbert, has committed suicide at the penitentiary of Santo Stefano.

Bresci recently had been suffering from extreme excitement, declared to be from remorse. On the wall of Bresci's cell the word "vengeance" was scratched with his bloody thumb nail.

Bresci's violence last week culminated in his attacking a jailer, in consequence of which he was placed in a straitjacket. Later the prisoner feigned docility in order to secure an opportunity to commit suicide.

The minister of the interior has instituted a search of inquiry into the circumstances of the suicide. A post mortem examination will be held, and the body will then be buried on a desert island.

The warden's account is that he saw Bresci quickly tie a towel to the bars of the grating of the cell and hang himself, Bresci being dead when the warden reached him.

Gaetano Bresci, hailing from Paterson, N. J., killed King Humbert at Monza on July 30 last year. He was tried immediately afterward and sentenced not to death, but to solitary confinement in prison for life.

Sweatshops Under Inspection.

NEW YORK, May 24.—All the factory inspectors in the state have been called to this city and are at work in the sweatshops, cleaning them up and enforcing the laws regulating their existence. Much secrecy has been preserved in regard to this action, which was ordered by John W. McMackin, state commissioner of labor, and is being carried out by a force of 51 inspectors. Their examination covers the entire territory of Greater New York, but is naturally confined chiefly to the tenement districts. This is the first wholesale examination of the kind that has ever been made.

Message In a Bottle.

LONDON, May 24.—A bottle was picked up at Granton, Scotland, on the Firth of Forth yesterday which contained a message stating that the Arrow line steamship Croft was going down in the middle of the Atlantic ocean with all hands. The Croft traded between Leith and New York. She left Leith in October, 1898, and sailed from New York on return trip Jan. 26, 1899. She was never heard of afterward.

San Jose Scale Inspectors Named.

ALBANY, May 24.—T. F. Niles of Spencertown and B. D. Van Buren of Stockport, Columbia county, have been appointed by State Agricultural Commissioner Wieting as San Jose scale inspectors at salaries of $100 a month each.

A WELCOME TO ALLEN

Demonstration at San Juan For Returning Governor.

THOUSANDS OUT TO GREET HIM.

School Children and Citizens With Bands of Music and Delegates From Many Porto Rican Towns Join In the Reception.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 24.—The demonstrative welcome tendered to Governor Allen, who arrived here yesterday on the Mayflower, easily surpassed any similar previous demonstration.

The Mayflower was met by a launch containing Mr. Hunt, secretary of Porto Rico; Colonel Buchanan, the collector of customs; Captain Yates Stirling, the captain of the port, and other friends of the governor. Governor Allen landed at the water front at 15 minutes past 11. The public square fronting the docks was thronged with thousands of people. The crowd was much larger than that which welcomed Governor Allen upon his first arrival in Porto Rico. He was greeted with rousing cheers. There was a procession half a mile long formed by the police, 1,500 school children, a regimental band, labor organizations from San Juan and other towns and delegations from Mayaguez and Ponce that had chartered steamers to reach San Juan. Citizens were in carriages and on foot, and the balconies were covered with bunting and flags.

Arriving at the palace, Governor Allen was made welcome by speeches by Manuel Egozcue, the mayor of San Juan; Senor Rossy, the speaker of the legislature, and others. To a crowd of 5,000 persons Governor Allen made a long speech in reply. He said that since his visit to Washington the wishes of the people of Porto Rico are better understood and that he brings them hope, cheer and encouragement. He expressed his desire for the co-operation of all to aid the government in advancing the interests of the island. The governor's remarks were received with tremendous enthusiasm.

Governor Allen was tendered a reception at night by the people of the city. Three bands of music played on the plaza, there were fireworks until midnight, and the governor again addressed the people. San Juan is enjoying a semi-holiday.

Newfoundland Legislature Opens.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 24.—The Newfoundland legislature opened yesterday afternoon. The deputy governor, Chief Justice Little, in the speech from the throne announced the progress of the French shore negotiations and expressed a hope that the outcome would be satisfactory. He asserted also that the Bond-Blaine convention negotiations were proceeding at Ottawa, whither Mr. Bond, the premier, had gone at the instance of the British government to endeavor to induce the Dominion government to withdraw its objections to Newfoundland effecting a reciprocity arrangement with the United States. As regards the Reid railway dispute, the speech from the throne announced that the premier was conferring with Mr. Reid in Montreal, where it was hoped some satisfactory compromise would be reached.

Governor Nash Ill Again.

DENVER, May 24.—Governor Nash and party arrived here yesterday. The governor was so ill from the effects of ivy poisoning in California and mountain railroad travel around curves that it was thought for a while the reception planned for him and his party would have to be abandoned. However, he braced up and took a drive about the city. At the reception in the governor's office at 11 o'clock Governor Nash was so weak he could hardly stand and finally had to be supported to a chair. The poison ivy showed plainly in his features, and his condition was noticeably weak. Governor Nash is game, however, and says he will continue the programme, which has been shortened to a luncheon at the Buckeye club.

Jealous of Americans.

LONDON, May 24.—Sir Alfred Hickman (Conservative), formerly president of the British Iron Trade association, in the house of commons yesterday protested against railroads which were governmentally controlled, especially in Burma and Egypt, continuing buying American locomotives when the report of the inspector of Burma railroads, mentioned by Lord Hamilton, the Indian secretary, in the house May 7, showed they required more repairs and more coal than locomotives of British make. Sir Alfred Hickman also made allegations against the way an American firm is constructing the great viaduct in Burma.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 24.—Sir Thomas Lipton has decided to ask the New York Yacht club to postpone the races for the America's cup until the first week in October. The work of refitting the challenger will be begun immediately.

The Strike.

Still the strike of the local machinists goes on with no prospect of a settlement. A conservative estimate places the number of men now out of work at twelve hundred and the total pay roll thus affected at fully $2,000. Heretofore the great percentage of that $2,000 has gone to the local merchants. Every day that the strike continues their daily revenue is reduced by part of that amount. Many of the men affected have enough saved up to sustain themselves and families for some time to come with the aid of the weekly benefits which will be paid out by the union. They will, however, show every economy possible, and the local business houses are bound to feel the depression which will result.

But for the fact that the strike is a national affair, it is probable that the men would have temporarily returned to the Pond Tool Works yesterday morning. Superintendent J. T. MacMurray met the men informally the afternoon before and asked them to return to work until Friday night so as to give the officials of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company a chance to meet and reach a decision on the subject. While some of the men thought it a very fair offer, the leaders felt that it would be going back on the authority of the national organization and so counseled a refusal. Had it merely been a local strike, the offer would have undoubtedly been accepted and matters would have been in a fair way toward settlement.

The Plainfield police are looking for the authors of a series of anonymous letters which have been sent to a colored woman who lives at West Fifth street and Monroe avenue. It seems that some of her white neighbors object to her residence there and have taken that means of driving her away. It is sincerely to be hoped that the police are successful in their quest and discover who the miscreant is who has taken that dastardly means of frightening the poor colored woman. And when the police find out who is responsible, it is to be hoped that an example will be made of the person which will deter any occurrence of that nature in the future.

The newspapers of New Jersey are of two opinions regarding Governor Voorhees' decision not to call an extra session of the Legislature to relieve the polluting of the Passaic river. The Republican papers point with pride to the Governor's action and say that it is only another evidence of his wisdom while the Democratic journals declare that the Governor has made a great mistake. Most of the residents of that immediate neighborhood, irrespective of politics, are not pleased with the Governor's decision.

The citizens of Warren and Hunterpon counties, who have set themselves up as opposed to the appropriation of funds in those counties looking toward the establishment of good macadam roads there, may be doing what they think best for the community, but the rest of the world does not look at it in that light. If they will stop and think it over carefully and extend their view a little they may come to a realization of the wonderful good such roads will bring to a community.

According to the Philadelphia Record a Chicago merchant who prefers newspaper advertising to posters, circulars, street car cards, etc., says that even if he should be sure of the posting or distribution of all his matter he could know nothing concerning the people who might receive or read his advertisement. It is practicable, however, to form a clear idea of the people who read newspapers.

The newspapers of Somerville, are becoming somewhat excited over the political situation. They have been saying things, both pleasant and otherwise, about Franklin Murphy as the probable candidate of the Republicans for the governorship. Mr. Murphy must wonder occasionally how it is that some people know so much about him, more perhaps than he does himself.

The victory of the Leal's School boys over a team of Princeton sophomores and that of the Plainfield High School nine over the Orange High School team are other evidences that Plainfield possesses scholastic baseball teams of unusual strength. It is greatly to be regretted that those two teams will not meet again this season.

This week marked the formal opening of the Pan American Exposition at Buffalo. The exposition promises to be a great success. As every citizen of Plainfield is interested in it and many of them are expecting to visit it, The Daily Press will continue to publish articles of interest about the Exposition and its beauties.

The success which met the publication of the last serial story in The Daily Press has led us to secure another one of equal interest, the first installment of which will appear in these columns next week. The new story is entitled "John Olmstead's Nephew." It is cleverly written and is of absorbing interest.

It is proper that Plainfield's militia company should assist the local Grand Army post in the Memorial Day celebration. The invitation has been extended by Winfield Scott Post, and there is no doubt of its acceptance.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylish, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace. Price $3.50.

The occurrences during the week of disastrous forest fires in the southern end of the State has renewed the discussion of Governor Voorhees' proposition that the State take charge of the forests and preserve them. There seems to be a unanimity of opinion that something should be done to prevent these destructive fires, which it is pointed out, not only destroy the trees, producing all the consequent evils of a treeless district, but render almost barren, for agricultural purposes, the ground over which they sweep.—Jersey City News.

* * * * *

Under the new law for apportioning school money on the basis of actual attendance, there will be a great incentive for seeing that every child of school age is in school. There has been a compulsory law on the statute books of New Jersey for many years, but it has practically been a dead letter except in some of the larger cities. Parents have been careless and indifferent, school officers have found it difficult to get a competent truant officer, and often, sad to relate, the lack of school accommodation has confronted the authorities. So matters have drifted along.

But now the matter has a different aspect. Every pupil who attends school means so much more money for the district. The number of school children in a district figures no longer unless those children are enrolled in the schools and attend regularly. If a lot of children remain out of school, it will mean a reduction of the money coming from the State and an increase of local taxation, or poorer schools.

The people of the various districts in Somerset county should consider this matter. The school authorities should get their machinery at work to urge the attendance of all the children of school age in the district. This will not only bring more money to the district for schools, but will enlarge the spirit and purpose of the public school system. — Somerville Unionist Gazette.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 26—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Missions: Promises and prophecies.—Ps. ii.

The second psalm, like the first, is without inscription. In some manuscripts it is joined with the first, but their utter lack of unity is apparent to all, and for this reason they were separated. This psalm "rings with the tramp of gathering armies and notes of lofty challenge addressed by the poet to the invaders of his country. It must have been written when Jerusalem was threatened by a confederacy of hostile powers." The allies must have been tributary monarchs, but who they were and what occasion is here described are unknown. God has decreed the success of His chosen people, and the poet calls upon the assembled nations to exercise wisdom and to serve the Lord rather than oppose Him. "Kiss the Son lest He be angry with you and ye perish in the way, for soon His wrath is kindled; blessed are they that find refuge in Him."

This psalm is a prophecy of the rebellion of the nations of the earth against the kingdom of Christ. In the first instance, it commemorated a national event, but it is by no means to be limited to this application. The poet speaks in the beginning of an earthly king and his wars, but his words are not exhausted in their reference to these. "The local and the temporal are swallowed up in the universal and eternal. The King who sits on David's throne has become glorified and transfigured in the light of the promise. The true King, who to the prophet's mind is to fulfill all his hopes, has taken the place of the visible and earthly king. The nations are not merely those who are now mustering for the battle, but whatsoever opposeth and exalteth itself against Jehovah and His anointed." This prophecy has been signally fulfilled. The heathen have raged. The kings of the earth have set themselves against the Lord and against His anointed. If they still do so and oppose the progress of His kingdom, we should not be surprised or discouraged, but should strive the more earnestly to advance His cause.

This psalm is a promise of the final success of Christ's kingdom. It contains a sweeping and definite promise to this effect. "Ask of Me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel." Christ has asked for the uttermost parts of the earth, and God is fulfilling His promise. The heathen are raging and imagining a vain thing. They have not, and they cannot successfully oppose the spread of Christ's kingdom. Their only hope is in accepting the Christ and in serving the Lord, and we, like the psalmist of old, should be anxious to show unto them the path of wisdom. We should do our part in sending those to them who know the folly of their position and will instruct them to be wise, to serve the Lord and to reverence the Son lest He be angry and destroy them.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Make a special study of missionary prophecies and promises.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. iii, 15; Ps. lxxii, 1-19; Isa. xxxv, 1-10; xlii, 1-7; Dan. ii, 31-45; Math. xiii, 31-33; xxviii, 19, 20; Acts xiii, 46, 47; Rom. x, 14, 15; Phil. ii, 1-11.

The Joy of Heart Service.

Show me an effective Christian, and I will show you one whose whole heart is in love with Jesus and with doing good. The will to serve his Master is at no loss to find the way. He is always abounding in the work of the Lord. On the Sabbath he consults his heart rather than the barometer and is stormproof at the hour of his mission school. When the evening of the prayer meeting comes, it often finds him weary after a long day's work, but he says, "I cannot afford to miss my Master tonight." Nor can his pastor afford to miss him. So he fires up the engine once more, and with a wide awake heart in a weary frame he sallies off to the gathering of Christ's household. Martha is there after all her domestic toils, and Mary is sure to be there also, hungering for a word from her Lord. Does a lover ever find a night too cold, too dark or too stormy for him to venture off to see her in whom his soul delighteth?—Theodore L. Cuyler in American Friend.

The Heart of the Christian.

The heart of the Christian is a crucible into which God pours or permits to be poured all kinds of joys and sorrows, successes and failures, losses and crosses, good and ill, prosperity and adversity, much of which is anything but good in itself, yet which under the master hand of the Divine Chemist works together for good and issues in eternal blessing to those who love God. Let us love our Lord, and then, come what may, the issue will be good.—Rev. J. Knox Montgomery.

The Greatest Thing.

The greatest thing in the world is love. So says Drummond. But there can be no real love without faith, just as there can be no fruit without a plant or a tree on which it is to grow. The tree comes first, then the fruit; so faith comes first, then love. Love is greater than faith simply because it is the finished product. Faith is the root, love the fruit.—Lutheran.

Life's Journey.

Does life's strange and wayward journey
Aimless seem,
A wayward, courseless dream,
Where deep woes betide,
Where hopes are crucified?
Beyond our vision's ken God works our weal,
Forever near;
Amid life's pain and misery why feel
One fear?

—Josephine Wolcott.

THE MODE.

Boleros Occupy the Front Rank In New Styles.

Almost all gowns of every kind are made with a little coat or bolero, but this does not mean that there is monotony of effect, for there are so many styles of skirt and coat and bolero, so many different sorts of trimming and especially so great a variety of chemisettes, vests and sleeves, that there is practically no limit to the combinations possible. The usual bolero terminates at the waist, or just above it, but there are all lengths, some so short that they barely cover the shoulders.

The illustration shows a costume of red cloth. It is in the princess form, the skirt being ornamented with two clusters of plaits in folds, forming vandykes. There is a very short plaited and stitched bolero, elongated in two square tabs, which fall straight in front. The collar and yoke are embroidered, and the sleeves are tight, with a band of galloon running down the outside of the arm. The hat is of ecru straw, trimmed with tea roses and red foliage. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SKIRTS AND BODICES.

The Latter Are of by Far the Greater Account.

In one sense the skirt amounts to very little in the costume of the period. Provided it is of the clinging, flaring type, preserving the fashionable line, that is the essential thing for it. Attention is mainly concentrated upon the bodice and hat. There are so many attractive arrangements for the corsage and so many accessories for the neck and front of the gown that they cannot even be classified. Surah, crepe de chine, taffeta, embroidery, lace, gauze, guipure, ribbons, metals, beads and spangles—all are seen in bewildering profusion.

The picture shows a gown of ivory cloth, the skirt ornamented only with a band of chinchilla about the foot. The bolero is laid in close, stitched plaits, with little tabs coming part way up, terminating under small buttons. The sleeves are also plaited from shoulder to elbow, below which they form a puff, which is gathered into a band of chinchilla, with a deep ruffle of lace over the hand. The collar and border of the bolero are of chinchilla. There is a chemisette of ivory mousseline de soie, covered by a jabot of lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Marriage Rate.

"What is the marriage rate in these parts?" asked the stranger who was gathering statistics.

"The marriage rate," responded the native proudly, "is $2 for the license an a kiss from the bride. The sheriff gets both, an I'm the sheriff."—Philadelphia Record.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 26, "A Promise and a Prophecy"—Text, Ps. ii.

"Ask of Me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession."

We of Christian lands have from earliest childhood been so accustomed to hearing of missionary efforts to convert the heathen to Christianity and giving our money to aid in this object, we have become so used to the idea that all the world ought to and surely will be converted, that it is difficult as we become older to properly measure the full meaning of the task and appreciate the wonderful scope of the promise in the text and grasp the bearings of the prophecy.

It is but a few years since the church has begun to feel in any great degree the obligation to evangelize the world. For ages the mission of the church in the world was not comprehended. To modern times belongs the evangelistic impulse of the church as a body. The last century saw greater advance in this regard than the 35 preceding centuries, since the law was received by Moses on Sinai.

The special theme this week is the work of the Christian church in China, Japan and Korea. The eyes of all the world are fixed on that part of the world. Great events are occurring. The issues at stake are momentous. What the outcome shall be no one can forecast, but that the ultimate result will be the free entrance of the gospel we have faith to expect. Intensely fascinating as it is to watch the spring come up over the world and wake all nature into life, more marvelous are the transformation scenes wrought in human affairs by the Holy Spirit of God through the Christian religion.

Particular attention should be given to the study of oriental life in these three most interesting lands of the far east. The "old Japan" is only a little way back in the last century. It should be read about. The awakening and the lusty growth of "young Japan" are among the prodigies of history. What bearing Christianity has on past, present and future should be carefully considered.

So of China and Korea we need to read the signs of the times in the movements of these ancient and unique civilizations. The missionary libraries issued for the use of Leagues and other young people's societies are of the greatest assistance in this search. The books are up to date and written in interesting style.

The illustrated papers, magazines and daily press have many articles which should be culled and preserved in some form and used at frequent intervals in the meetings of the society.

A missionary committee to have oversight of this feature of League work and arrange programmes should be part of the officiary of every chapter.

One of the most significant items of recent times is the reported issue of a manifesto from leading Buddhist priests of Japan to the Christian nations declaring it as their opinion that the only hope of China lies in the adoption of the Christian religion, because Buddhism is in that empire effete if not extinct so far as power of renewal of religious life is concerned.

The duty of the hour for us is clear. We must watch. Look earnestly at conditions, that we may seize the opportune time for advance into those parts in the name of Jesus Christ. Commercialism and unscrupulous greed will lose no chance for gain. The hosts of God must be alert for vigorous and aggressive service in His cause.

The worldly will not appreciate our work or our motives, but will misrepresent and wherever they conflict with their plans for gain will openly or covertly oppose us by all means in their power. Our course is plain. The twentieth century should see a firm, strongly aggressive movement of the church in every quarter of the globe.

We have a gospel for all men. We have the sure promises and never failing prophecy of success. Every door is open for our entrance. Past achievements give great advantage. We have the equipment and material. Our young people are consecrated. Shall the needful treasure be dedicated? The coming years ought to see the wealth of the world at the feet of Jesus for service in saving men. Stop the drink curse for a single year and what riches would be available! Let the church dedicate herself and possessions, and we shall have abundance and will be able to check the drink waste and all other pernicious luxuries and scatter comfort and salvation over the earth. The world does awake and shall yet say, "Blessed are all they that put their trust in Him."

The Sweetest Revenge.

The sweetest revenge you can take is to prove that your enemy was mistaken in judging you harshly. Do him a service, though he has done you an injury, thus killing a foe by making him a friend. It is a hard lesson to learn, but it is worth learning.—Rev. George H. Hepworth.

The Stray Lamb.

Out in the night the lamb that wandered wide
Heard faint and far the Shepherd's loving cry;
In the gray dawn upon the bleak hillside
He found it, like to die.

"Did He at all reproach thee, little lamb,
That thou hadst brought Him such a weary way?"
"Nay; He caressed me, but I know I am
No more to go astray.

"For up the steep ways where my feet would slip
He bore me clinging carefully, and yet
Each rock He touched with foot or firm hand grip
With His warm blood was wet.

"And, though He smiled and said no word of blame,
That blood reproached me all the way we went;
'Twas shed because I wandered, and with shame
I do indeed repent."

The Development of the Northwest Coal Fields

Our Northwestern States and British Columbia Give Rich Promise in This Line

COAL is the great factor in modern industrial development. No country, or section of country, can hope for manufacturing supremacy if it be far removed from coal fields. For this reason coal is eagerly sought for by those interested in the advancement of a new territory.

Our own northwestern states and the western portion of Canada offer many inducements not only for those interested in agriculture and mining, but for manufacturing industries as well, if the coal problem can be solved. Coal must provide the power that runs the pumps in the gold and silver mines; coal must provide the coke used in the great smelting works. Without coal much else that would be of inestimable value is almost without value.

The discovery of the coal fields on Vancouver island, in British Columbia, was hailed by those interested in the development of that country quite as joyfully as was the discovery of gold. Later came the discovery of coal in both Washington and Montana, and in the mountains of the Kootenay, New Westminster and Nicola districts of British Columbia, just across the international boundary line.

These new fields in British Columbia have attracted unusual attention both because of the quality of the coal and the great extent of the fields, they being pronounced among the largest in the known world. To get to these new fields has been the question. Both Canadian and American transportation companies have sought franchises that would give them practically a monopoly of the benefit to be derived from their discovery. American capitalists have worked for permission to build a railroad across the boundary line from the states that would tap these fields and on it carry the production of the mines from Canada to the states. At the same time Canadian corporations have fought the granting of such a franchise.

In time both will be successful, and the new coal fields of British Columbia will assist in the development of both western Canada and our northwestern states. They will supply the fuel for mining operations all through the northwest as well as for manufacturing industries that are certain to follow the introduction of cheap fuel.

An American syndicate now owns much of the valuable coal lands of the Kootenay district, and their development of the property has had a tendency to reduce the consumption of Vancouver island coal. It is stated that when the mines now owned by the American syndicate are properly worked they are capable of producing not less than 10,000 tons of coal daily, and that at even that rate of production they would last for several hundred years. At the present time there is being mined but little more than an average of 1,000 tons daily, and the majority of this is being used for coke making, which in turn is used in the smelters in the Crow's Nest pass district. If the syndicate that owns these mines succeeds in securing a charter for building a railroad from Michel, British Columbia, which is the center of the coal fields, to the international boundary, the rate of production will be largely increased because of the new outlet provided for the product of the mines.

Outcroppings of coal are found all through the mountains of southern British Columbia. On the ridges between Marten and Michel creeks a wonderful series of coal seams is disclosed, one above the other, from near the level of the trail to the summit of the highest ridge. The outcrops are in 20 seams, showing a total thickness of 132 feet, one of the seams being 30 feet in width. Fourteen of these seams are cannel coal. It is estimated that between the eastern summit and the valley of Elk river there is an area of not less than 144 square miles that is destined to be one of the most productive coal fields of the Dominion. On Elk river there are seams outcropping which show a total thickness of 148 feet. Many of the seams are first-class coking coal, and others are good gas coal, but none of them are anthracite. There are other vast coal deposits known to exist in other portions of southeast Kootenay which will have a remarkable value when the construction of the railway now building is completed to West Kootenay.

Anthracite coal is now being extensively mined at "Anthracite," on the Canadian Pacific railway, just outside British Columbia, and some comparing favorably with that of Pennsylvania has been found in seams of six feet and three feet in Queen Charlotte island.

While these new fields are but just being developed, the Vancouver island fields have been worked to a greater extent than ever during the past year in order to supply the demand for fuel in the northwest. Of all these mines, those at Nanaimo are the greatest producers and the most interesting, as they extend from the town under the bay to Protection island. From them is shipped more coal than from all the other mines on the island combined.

At Wellington the mines have been worked out and abandoned, and at Alexandria the mines have been closed because of a dispute with the employes. The Extension mines, which are but 12 miles distant from Alexandria, are being worked to their fullest capacity, and are unable to supply the demand upon them for coal for shipping purposes.

The operation of the Extension mines has resulted in the building and incorporation of a new town at Oyster bay, known as Ladysmith, which already has 1,200 inhabitants, several stores, hotels, etc., and bids fair to become a thriving city; although entirely dependent, as was Wellington and as are Nanaimo and South Wellington, on the mining industry. Here, bunkers capable of holding 20,000 tons of coal have been erected, and tracks run direct to the wharves from the mines at Extension, 14 miles away. Many of the miners reside in small shanties close to the mine, but the management prefers to have them live at Ladysmith. To this end, lots are sold miners for $100 each and neat cottages erected for them, payable on the installment plan. Trains run at convenient hours for the different shifts of miners, and transportation is without cost. All the men are paid at Ladysmith, which is the headquarters of the management of Extension mines.

COKE OVENS IN THE COAL FIELDS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Altogether the Vancouver mines are producing close to 1,000,000 tons of coal annually, and a ready market is found for all of it. At the same time the mines at Washington are being developed rapidly, but so great is the increased demand for fuel that the increased production scarcely keeps pace with the increase in demand. Pacific shipping interests are developing rapidly; new lines are starting for the orient; American expansion in the far east is calling for more ships to handle our expanding commerce from our western shores, and these mines of Washington and British Columbia are supplying the fuel for these ships. Economists can see practically no limit to the demand for fuel, and the future of the northwestern coal industry in both British Columbia and Washington and Montana is a bright one. MAX OWEN.

Tabby Nursed Two Cottontails.

H. D. Shinn, a prominent farmer who lives near Woodbridge, Col., tells of an odd case of animal sympathy which occurred at his place several days ago. The high water had brought two baby cottontails on high land and they were captured and taken home by Mr. Shinn. Believing they had died, he gave them to an old cat with two kittens, expecting that she would eat them, as cats usually do. The next morning when he looked in on the mouser he found one of the baby cottontails missing, but the other, to his great surprise, was very much alive and was being nursed by the feline, who licked and fondled the rabbit with as much tenderness as if it were her own offspring. The bunny lived about ten days with its foster mother.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

There will be a baseball game this afternoon on the Plainfield avenue grounds between the Junior and Preparatory classes of the Plainfield High School.

The Plainfield Athletic Association will have for an opposing team tomorrow, the New Providence Field Club. The game will be played on the P. A. A. grounds at Clinton avenue and South Second street. It will be called at 3:30.

A game of baseball was played yesterday afternoon on the Hope chapel grounds between the "Darktown" team and a "scrub" nine from the Plainfield High School. At the end of the fifth inning when the game was called, the score was 9 to 2 in favor of the High School lads. A hundred people witnessed the game.

The Woodside Baseball Club will play the Clinton Avenue Seconds on the old golf grounds tomorrow afternoon. Both are strong juvenile teams and a good game is expected. The lineup will be as follows: Woodsides, Ayers, rf; Cotter, cf; Ryan, lf; Taylor, ss; Brady, 3b; Mottly, 1b; McGinley, 2b; Kilpatrick, c; O'Keefe, p. Clinton Avenue Seconds, Emery, 2b; Fritts, c; Barnes, rf; J. Emery, 3b; Williams, 1b; Martin, ss; Scott, lf; Squires, p; Overland, c.

The ball game between the Plainfield High School and Hope teams, which takes place on the latter's grounds tomorrow afternoon, promises to be a very interesting one. Both teams are in excellent shape and the Hope victory of last week is still fresh in the minds of all the players. The High School boys have every confidence in their team and look for some good work. The game will be called at 3:30.

The North Plainfield High School second nine was again defeated by the borough Grammar School yesterday afternoon on the Westervelt avenue grounds. The score was 22 to 12. Thus far the High School second team has only won one out of four games in a series played by the two nines. The batteries in yesterday's game were: High School seconds, Stevens and George; Grammar School, Conover and Hoffman.

A remarkable game of baseball was played on the cricket field yesterday afternoon between the Park Field Club and the Excelsiors. When the overworked scorer counted up the runs it was found that by hard playing the Parks had managed to get 51 runs while their opponents had the comparatively small number of 14. The winning team is greatly elated over the victory and make the assertion that if another game is played they can pile up 75 runs without half trying.

BLIND SPEAKER.

Addressed Pupils of the Plainfield High School at Morning Exercises Today.

The students of the Plainfield High School listened to an interesting and instructive lecture this morning given by G. G. O'Dwyer, a graduate of the New York Institute for the Blind. He prefaced his talk by demonstrating his musical ability on the piano, and in his whistling solos which he accompanied on the piano. Mr. O'Dwyer has traveled over the greater part of the United States, Canada and Mexico during the past sixteen years giving similar addresses, and is a bright and entertaining talker.

He said that blindness is not so great an affliction as is generally thought; in fact, sight is the least necessary of the five senses. He described the methods of instruction employed in various institutions for the blind and some of the results obtained. He cited the case of Miss Helen Keller, and described her first attempts at study without the aid of the eye, claiming that it is through the power of memory and through the intuition of the mind that one learns, and not by the aid of any special sense. He closed his talk by a clever medley on the piano and a whistling solo, both of which were well received. During the morning he visited the various recitation rooms of the school, and showed great interest in work of the pupils.

Died at Hospital.

Donrick Marrande, an Italian, aged fifty-eight years, residing on Terrill road, was taken to the hospital yesterday morning suffering with an attack of pneumonia. His case was a severe one and he died at 10 o'clock last night. So far as known he leaves only one son and he will take charge of the body.

Free Day in Borough Schools.

In the North Plainfield schools this is "free day." According to a plan in vogue all pupils who show proficiency are dismissed for one day in each month, and the backward pupils are given special attention for the day by the teachers.

Gave Him Two Days in Jail.

Frederick Bechtele, of Duer street and Greenbrook road, was sentenced to two days' incarceration in the borough lockup, at a hearing before Recorder Doud last evening. The man was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct by his family.

NEW BOND ISSUE PROPOSED.

HILLSIDE CLUB PREPARING TO BUY THE MELICK FARM.

Will Increase Bond Issue To $21,000—Bonds To Run For Twenty Years, Some Being Returned Each Year.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club recently decided to purchase the grounds upon which their course is laid out, and by doing this the yearly rental will be saved and more interest will be taken in keeping the grounds in the best of condition. The property is known as the Melick farm, and was rented for a term of five years, with the privilege of buying at any time before the expiration of the lease.

At a recent meeting it was decided to issue bonds and purcease the grounds. When the grounds were first leased bonds for $12,500 were issued. Now the club will retire these bonds and increase the issue of bonds to $11,000, making it possible to buy. A first mortgage was given on the property of the club. The bonds are of $100 denomination each, and it is proposed to pay off $800 each year. The bonds will run for twenty years, commencing June 1.

STRIKERS ARE HOPEFUL; EMPLOYERS WAITING.

of Engineers. It was Mr. Cowen who made the stirring speech at Monday night's big meeting and this morning's talk was but a repetition of his urgings to the men to remain firm. He gave many reasons for his belief that the machinists would win in the struggle and in concluding, bade the men to be quiet and orderly. It is the intention of the committee to have a speaker from headquarters address the men each morning.

A "SCAB" WAS PRESENT.

The Incident Broke Up Baseball Game Between Teams of Strikers Yesterday.

The summary manner in which the machinists, who remained at the Potter Press Works Monday, will be dealt with by the strikers was shown at a ball game yesterday afternoon between men from the factories, when it was discovered there was a "scab" among the players.

The teams playing styled themselves the New Yorks and Brooklyns and were in the fifth inning when an observing picket located a man on the former side who remained at work for for two days after the strike began. An indignant shout up and the intrepid non-sympathizer was quickly hustled off the field. The union men so worked up over the occurrence they were unable to finish the game and it was postponed indefinitely.

In all future games a close watch will be kept on all players to see that none of the "scabs" invade the ranks the strikers as they will be dealt with a little more severely than was the one yesterday.

OTHER PRESS WORKS STRIKE

The officers at the headquarters of the machinists in the Building Trades' Council rooms have received official notification that the machinists are out on strike in the press works of Whitlock, Cottrell, Goss and Mehle, and they feel confident that machinists are out in many other press works throughout the country.

STRIKERS PAID OFF AT LOCAL FACTORIES.

No Prospect of Any Settlement of Local Strike is Yet in Sight.

BOTH SIDES HOLDING OUT.

GOOD ORDER ON PART OF STRIKERS STILL CONTINUES.

Some Excitement Among Potter Employes When Clothing Accounts Were Deducted From Pay—But Trouble Was Amicably Settled.

The paying of the striking machinists at the local machine shops was the only happening of importance which marked this sixth day of the big strike. It was done without incident save at the Potter Press Works where the deduction from the pay of money owed a clothing firm served to stir up the men. This trouble was amicably adjusted this morning when the clothing firm paid back all but the regular weekly installment.

Neither side shows any more disposition today to settle the strike than they did on the opening day and the end seems just as far off as before. It was rumored this morning that the men at Scott's had been ordered to report for work Monday morning, but the report was emphatically denied by Mr. Scott himself. At the other shops all was quiet and no attempt was made to replace the strikers.

A meeting of the strikers was held this morning at the Trades' Union Hall, at which some of the local leaders spoke It was of an informal nature, however. The general good order continues to prevail and no reports of any disorder have yet been made.

The employes of the Pond Tool Works called at the office this morning and were paid their week's wages in full. Nothing was said on either side in regard to the strike and there is no prospect of it terminating just at present. The factory will begin operations Monday with the same force which it has had for the past six days, consisting of moulders and patternmakers. In reply to a question put by a Press reporter, Superintendent MacMurray stated he was unable to tell how long these departments would continue at work.

When the employes of the Potter Press Works called at the office last evening for the one week's pay always held back by the company, they were greatly surprised to find their envelopes contained less than the amount due, while some received no money at all. In explanation they were told the money was kept back for the purpose of settling their accounts with a local clothier from whom it was their custom to purchase clothing on time. The company has always stood security for the amounts, and, as the men were no longer regarded es employes, it was deemed best to deduct the sums due.

The week's pay meant a great deal to the men and the loss will be greatly felt. Some of those who had but a dollar or two left refused to accept the balance and declared they would contest the company's action.

A committee of the striking Potter men waited upon the clothier this morning, and after explaining the matter, the money taken from the pay was refunded. He claimed he intended no such action should be taken.

The entire plant of the Scott Press Works is closed down today. In no department can the sounds accompanying the usual activity be heard. Things are at a standstill.

Mr. Scott declares that he was not in attendance at the conference of manufacturers held in New York last night and that neither was he represented. In fact he professed this morning to be utterly ignorant that such a meeting was held.

As to the statement that the machinists at the Gross and Neely plants in Chicago had struck, Mr. Scott says he has received authentic word that such is not the case. The Cotterell Works at Westerly, R. I., says he, is running with half its machinists.

In answer to a request for information concerning the rumor that overtures had been made for the men to return to work Monday morning, Mr. Scott declared that he had no knowledge of it. "There is not a particle of truth in it. The men have not

MISS DEWEY'S PUPILS PLAYED

GAVE THEIR ANNUAL PIANO RECITAL YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Held at Home of Mrs. J. H. Lapley—Those Who Took Part in the Recital.

The third annual piano recital by the pupils of Miss Carolyn Dewey was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Josephine H. Lapsley, of 816 First place. Miss Jennie Kirkwood, a contralto, of Greenwich, Conn., assisted and sang twice to the delight of all.

The audience consisted chiefly of the mothers of the pupils and they were greatly pleased with the success of the affair. The pupils acquitted themselves with credit to their teacher as well as themselves. In most cases they played without notes and gave evidence of the steady progress being made in their work. The programme was a select one and comprised some difficult numbers.

The pupils who presented the programme were: The Misses Caroline Lambert, Caroline Slauson, Ethel Newman, Doris Day, Jessie Richardson, Ellen Ulrich, Hazel Cumback, Margaret Leggett, Mildred Spicer, Marion Lambert, Martha Codington, Lulu Striker, Anna Cahoone, and Edward Mosher, Arthur Bingaman, Theodore Gavett, Irwin Leland and Harold Fenno. The youngest pupil is Caroline Slauson, aged six years, and she performed equally as well as the others.

BURGLARS AT NESHANIC.

Visited The Residence of Judge Schenck Again With Success

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Neshanic, May 25—Burglars were around Neshanic a few nights ago, and they seem to have a special penchant for Judge Schenck's residence. Recently they entered his dwelling and carried off a good portion of the Judge's wardrobe. On the last occasion they ate from his larder all they could hold and carried off the balance, as well as the Judge's hat. They had his overcoat rolled up to take, but were evidently frightened away.

At N. L Cregale, they taok a pair of new shoes, about $10 in money, the baby's bank, cigars and tobacco. They had evidently carried a lighted candle, and came near setting the house afire, by igniting papers.

At R. W. Hoagland's they stole a horse, but the animal had broken away from them and started for his old home near Lambertville. The thieves were traced nearly to Somerville, but have not been captured yet.

QUESTION OF RELIGION.

Developed In City Court and Caused Postponement of Now Famous Case.

A question of religion developed in the now famous Sacher-Kuntzman disorderly conduct case which, after several postponements, was to have come to trial in the city court this morning.

Sachar was present with his lawyer, W. S. Angleman, but Kuntzman was conspicuous by his absence. His cause was pleaded by Lawyer William Newcorn who asked for another postponement on the ground that it was against his client's faith to appear in a court on Saturday. It was not made clear why Sacher, who is of the same faith, was permitted to be present.

City Judge Runyon recognized the plea and adjourned the case until 9 o'clock Monday morning. The numerous witnesses, who represented several of the Boulevard's most prominent nationalities, were warned to be present at that time.

The loss on the building will reach $2,000, and is fully covered by insurance. The loss on the stock is $3,000, partially covered by insurance.

The building was struck by lightning at 10:30 o'clock. MADE THEIR OFFERING ACCORDING TO HEIGHT.

Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Church Gave a Measuring Party Last Night.

MUSICALE AND SOCIAL.

GUESTS CONTRIBUTED FOR EVERY FOOT AND INCH OF HEIGHT.

Despite the Rain There Was a Very Large Attendance—Enjoyable Programme Was Given During the Evening—The Committee.

In the guise of a measuring party the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church last evening gave to the members and friends of the congregation a most pleasant entertainment, which took the form of a musicale and social. Notwithstanding the uninviting weather there was a goodly attendance and one and all seemed to thoroughly enjoy the varied features of the evening's programme.

The lecture room, in which the affair was held, had been tastefully decorated in pink and green, the appearance being much enhanced by graceful branches of blooming dogwood scattered about in various places. It was the first occasion at which the new baby-grand piano was used and it should be recorded that it was eminently satisfactory.

Many had been provided beforehand with a tiny bag to which was attached a card bearing these verses:

A measuring party is given to you,
It is something novel as well as new.
The invitation is the sack,
To use in bringing or sending back
A nickel for every foot you're tall.
Measuring yourself on door or wall—
Cents for the extra inches give,
And thereby show how high you live.
With music and song,
Refreshments and pleasure,
We'll welcome you all
At our party of measure.

As one would enter, he or she deposited the bag with Bertram Leggett, who was stationed at the door to receive them, and also to afford, to such as desired, an opportunity to be measured.

The rendition of the musical selections, of course, occupied the major part of the evening. As an introductory number, Martin A. Korff rendered a violin solo, Vincent Sokol acting as accompanist. It was well received as was also a vocal solo sung by Miss M. B. Templin for which Mrs. O. L. Lewis, of Netherwood, was the accompanist. Edson C. Martin was compelled to respond to an encore to a well-rendered vocal solo. In both instances, Miss Lillian A. Force ably acted as accompanist, as she did also for a vocal duet sung by Miss Derby and Miss Minnie Williams, which received no mean measure of applause.

A humorous recitation by Miss Aimee Emmons likewise evoked great applause and the young woman gave another recitation equally as good. Miss Annie Conger, Howard Case and Vincent Sokol furnished an unique exhibition in playing, as a trio, a pleasing piano selection. Naturally their work was followed by an encore. Encores were also demanded for a vocal solo sung by F. S. Cutter and a piano solo rendered by Miss Beatrice Miner.

The musical part of the entertainment being completed, Miss Lillian A. Force, the president of the mission band, made the agreeable announcement that the young women of the organization would serve the refreshments. These were delicious and certainly added to the enjoyment of the social part of the delightful measuring party.

While the refreshments were being served, Mr. Korff played a violin solo, Miss Conger and Mr. Sokol played a piano duet. After receiving much applause the two latter responded to an encore.

Assisting Miss Force, who supervised the affair, was the regular entertaining committee consisting of Mrs. Charles P. Leggett, chairman, Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, Mrs. Alfred Baker, Mrs. George Saums, Mrs. Leonard Smith and Mrs. Startup. Misses Jessie Little, Grace Emmons, May VanFleet, waitresses.

A preparation, such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

MOST LITTLE BABIES DIE, either from bowel troubles or from diseases which they contract because they are in a weak and feeble condition from bowel troubles.

Mothers who are seeking the ideal and proper medicine to give their little ones for constipation diarrhœa, colic and simple fevers will find LAXAKOLA the great family remedy.

It is the best and most effective laxative for children. BEST because it is safe and made entirely of harmless ingredients. BEST because it is non-irritating and never gripes or causes pain or irritation. BEST because it is sure and never fails. BEST because "Children like it and ask for it."

It is a dangerous thing to give little babies violent remedies that rack and rend their little bodies. DON'T DO IT—give them LAXAKOLA.

A few drops can be given with safety to very young babies, and will often relieve colic by expelling the wind and gas that cause it, and it also will check simple fevers, break up colds and clear the coated tongue.

Great relief is experienced when administered to young children suffering from diarrhœa, accompanied with white or green evacuations, from the fact that LAXAKOLA neutralizes the acidity of the bowels and carries out the cause of fermentation, aids digestion, relieves restlessness, assists nature and induces sleep.

LAXAKOLA FOR WOMEN. It is a gentle and safe remedy to use during all conditions of health of the gentler sex whenever their peculiar and delicate constitutions require a mild and efficient laxative and tonic, and is invaluable in assisting to relieve obstructions which otherwise would lead to more or less severe pain or illness. It improves the complexion, brightens the eyes, sharpens the appetite, cleanses the circulation, removes muddy and blotched condition of the skin and cures sick headache to a certainty by removing the cause. To women suffering from chronic constipation, headaches, biliousness, dizziness, sallow complexion, skin and dyspepsia, Laxakola will invariably bring relief and a speedy cure.

At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 1327 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

LOST ON LAKE HURON

Steam Barge and Crew Go Down In a Gale.

ONLY TWO SURVIVE THE DISASTER.

Other Craft the Sport of Wind and Wave During a Storm Which Raged Furiously For Twenty-four Hours.

EAST TAWAS, Mich., May 25.—The wooden steamer Baltimore foundered in Lake Huron near Au Sable, and 12 of her crew of 14 were drowned. The men were tossed about in the lake for several hours lashed to a piece of wreckage and were finally picked up by the tug Columbia and brought here. John McGinnis, a deck hand, one of the rescued, became insane from his experience. The other survivor, Thomas Murphy of Milwaukee, second engineer, was able to tell the story of the disaster. The Baltimore was owned by P. H. Fleming & Co. of Chicago. The Baltimore was built at Gibraltar, Mich., in 1881, rated A1½ and was valued at $40,000. Her cargo was valued at about $5,000.

A terrific northeaster prevailed for 24 hours.

The tug Columbia of Detroit, with a government steam dredge and two loaded lighters for the Soo, was caught in the storm. The lighters and dredge were lost, parting their six inch cable. The crew of six men is missing. While searching for her tow the Columbia picked up two men from the Baltimore on a raft. They were almost dead and were taken to East Tawas. Another man was on the raft, but was lost despite the efforts to save him.

The schooner Montmorency, which went aground on the Charity islands several days ago, has gone to pieces. Her crew left her Thursday. The Tawas life saving crew made a trip to her at midnight and rowed 18 miles in the storm and against the wind, but found no one aboard. The Columbia picked up her dredge last night, but the lighters and the expensive machinery they carried and the six men are still missing. The wind is now going down.

An English View.

LONDON, May 25.—Commenting on Vice President Roosevelt's speech at Buffalo, The Saturday Review says today: "The Monroe doctrine, triply exaggerated, and the rejection of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty are the means by which South America is to be prevented from being snatched from the loving arms of the United States. The two Americas are to declare that Europe shall not enter into, establish colonies in or seek the partition of Central or South American states. The United States was bullying Venezuela a short time ago, and Venezuela turned nasty. Now they will try to bully and cajole her into denying Germany the lease of a small coaling station. Soon Europe will not be able to speak in South America without asking the permission of the United States. But we fancy South America would prefer even the attentions of Europe to those of their friends in the north. It is pleasant for Europe to be menaced with the commercial fist and the mailed fist of America at the same time."

Movement Against the Boers.

CAPE TOWN, May 25.—A great concerted movement under General Bindon Blood against the Boers is proceeding in the eastern Transvaal. Commandant Viljoen has been trying to escape to the north, but so far without success. The movements of the various columns under General Blood have been attended with the usual sniping by small parties of burghers. The only time the Boers made any attempt at a stand was at a point near Dalmanthua, where the Carolina commando attempted to hold off the British under Colonel Douglas while their cattle and wagons were being driven off. The British had almost turned the Boer position when the burghers retired.

Prominent Politician Dead.

NYACK, N. Y., May 25.—David J. Blauvelt, for many years one of the most prominent citizens along the Hudson river, is dead. He was one of the founders of the Republican party in Rockland county, a delegate to the national convention which nominated Blaine, book and pardon clerk at Albany under Secretary of State Joseph B. Carr and president of the Rockland County National bank for 12 years. He was 78 years of age.

Prize Speaking at Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 25.—The 1886 memorial prize speaking contest was held in Cornell armory last night, and the prize was awarded to W. A. Frayer of Springville, N. Y. Alfred Eugee of Charleston received honorable mention. Twelve speakers competed, including one woman, Miss Agnes Smith of North Tonawanda, N. Y.

E. church, Brooklyn, who was expelled from the church yesterday by the Philadelphia conference, has retained counsel and will bring suit for damages against Bishop William B. Derrick and others implicated in the proceedings against him.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 21.—Ernest Dutton, colored, who pleaded guilty to administering poison to William Ellegood, colored, his father-in-law, with murderous intent, was sentenced to receive 60 lashes, the limit; stand one hour in the pillory, be imprisoned four years and pay a fine of $5,000.

REVISION IS FAVORED

Vote In Presbyterian Assembly Proves That Fact.

RESOLUTION TO DROP IT KILLED.

Several Arguments For and Against a Change In the Church Creed Listened to by the Assembly.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—The Presbyterian general assembly by a vote which showed conclusively that a revision of the confession of faith is desired by the church defeated the amendment dismissing the whole subject offered by Rev. George D. Baker of Philadelphia. The assembly decided by an overwhelming majority to continue consideration of the great question after two days of debate, during which leading exponents of the Presbyterian doctrine throughout the country thoroughly analyzed the creed and gave their reasons for their positions regarding the subject. At the opening of the afternoon session the assembly decided to vote on the amendment at 4:30 o'clock, and speeches were limited to ten minutes. The time, however, was extended in order to give a number of commissioners who wished to be heard an opportunity of speaking.

The principal addresses of the day were made by Rev. Dr. John De Witt in the morning and Rev. Charles A. Dickey, closing the debate. Dr. De Witt favored dismissal, declaring that though there might be slight divergency of opinion on the confession the church was united on the word of God.

Dr. Dickey took a decided stand against dismissal. He said as the question of revision was now before the assembly no evil could result from a further consideration of the committee's report.

Dr. W. H. Roberts made a plea for a declarative statement asserting the supremacy of Holy Scripture as the only source of doctrine, that the system of the confession is the same as Holy Scripture teaches and that infants are saved by God's electing grace.

The discussion at times was lively, but without bitterness.

Two popular meetings were held last night, one in the interest of the permanent temperance committee and the other in the interest of young people's work. Thomas Dransfield of Rochester presided at the temperance meeting.

Secret Societies Attacked.

DES MOINES, May 25.—The important topic yesterday before the United Presbyterian general assembly was a revision of the creed by an amendment which provides that no member of any secret society can be a member of the church. The matter was hotly discussed for more than two hours, but final decision was postponed. The Masonic and Odd Fellows orders were special objects of attacks, one delegate going so far as to say he believed no member of a secret society could ever reach heaven. Henry Wallace of Des Moines favored revision, stating that as a reason men go to secret societies because the church creed is too narrow. Dr. James Crowe of Philadelphia was particularly bitter against the Masonic order and called the exercises of the lodges "worshiping without Christ."

Victoria Day at Exposition.

BUFFALO, May 25.—Yesterday was "Victoria day" at the Pan-American exposition, and notwithstanding the fact that it rained during a part of the day and the weather was cold and cheerless the attendance was large. A number of excursions from different points along the Canadian border and from western Ontario arrived during the day. The buildings at the grounds were gayly bedecked for the occasion. On the flagstaffs of the buildings and the pennon poles of the courts and the triumphal causeway the cross of St. George and the royal colors of the empire, quartered in the thistle of Scotland, the castle of Wales, the harp of Ireland and the leopards of England, intertwined with the union jack and the stars and stripes, fluttered in the breeze. Airs of Britannia from "Soldiers of the Queen" and "Merry Wives of Windsor" to the "Elegy In Memory of Queen Victoria," composed by Fanciulli, floated over the promenade and esplanade.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—General George B. Davis has formally assumed charge of the duties of judge advocate general of the army and will hold that office for the ensuing four years. General J. W. The enlisted men of the regiment will be composed of natives of the island as far as practicable.

MILNER MADE A PEER.

South African Administrator Elevated In Rank on Arrival In London.

LONDON, May 25.—The king has raised Sir Alfred Milner, governor of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, to the peerage.

There was a distinguished assembly at Waterloo station to welcome Sir Alfred Milner when the train from Southampton arrived yesterday afternoon. Among those present were Prime Minister Salisbury, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury and government leader in the house of commons; Secretary of War Brodrick, Earl Roberts, commander in chief of the forces, and the Duke of Abercorn, chairman of the British South Africa company.

SIR ALFRED MILNER.

Sir Alfred Milner is bronzed, but looks worn out. He stepped off the train and shook hands with Lord Salisbury, Secretary Chamberlain and Earl Roberts. The crowd outside the station cheered enthusiastically, and many persons followed his carriage. There was no doubt as to the warmth of the welcome extended to this exponent of the imperialistic policy. It was one such as seldom has been accorded to a civil administrator.

No Reduction of Claim.

BERLIN, May 25.—It is semiofficially asserted that the resolution by the ministers of the powers in Peking not to reduce the China indemnity below 450,000,000 taels is final and also that China accepts this, thus rendering approximate reimbursement of the expeditionary expenses of the powers certain. The Berlin comic paper Ulk shows Count von Waldersee ready to depart from China, standing before three empty trunks labeled "Victories," "Acquisitions" and "Indemnities" and asking, "Is it worth while taking them again?"

Boers May Seek Peace.

LONDON, May 25.—The Daily Chronicle says it learns from a good source that the Boers are likely to take advantage of the absence of the high commissioner to conclude peace, so as to "save their face" on the question of their objections to him. "General Botha has asked General De Wet to meet him," says the Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Mail, "to discuss the situation."

The Story of Romoc

A MINER, a chronic sufferer from epilepsy, while working in the mountains of Northeastern Georgia, found a spring of deliciously cool water, of a beautiful clear amber color, issuing from the black rock of the mountain side. Without knowing why he did it, he drank several times each day a small quantity of the sharp, pungent water. The first effect was better digestion, increased strength and a complete cessation of his epileptic attacks. To-day that miner is strong, robust and vigorous. Thus was given to the world the greatest of all of Nature's own remedies. Brewed by Nature herself, with remedial qualities whose virtue is recognized the world over,

ROMOC

ROMOC makes Rich, Red Bounding Blood

ROMOC

Tourists and invalids travel thousands of miles and cross oceans and continents to reach the famous springs whose waters give health. Yet not one of those springs pours forth such health-giving nectar as ROMOC. Its power is Nature's power. No chemist, druggist or doctor has compounded it, no science or knowledge of man is able to increase its power as it comes forth from the laboratory of Nature. It is a natural product, undefiled and untainted by poisonous drugs or fiery stimulants.

REID WILL SETTLE.

Newfoundland Railroad Dispute Brought to a Close.

PREMIER BOND THE PEACEMAKER.

Contractor Reid Has Been Called the Owner of the Island and Is a Very Important Personage.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 25.—Premier Bond, who is now in Montreal, has wired the colonial cabinet that he has effected an arrangement of the railroad dispute with Contractor Robert G. Reid. Premier Bond will leave Montreal for here immediately, and Mr. Reid will follow him on Tuesday. Mr. Reid, in conjunction with the colonial cabinet, will adjust the details of the new arrangement. These will be presented to the legislature.

The Reid railroad contract was entered into Feb. 19, 1898, by the Newfoundland government with Mr. Reid. By this contract Mr. Reid agreed to work the Newfoundland railroad system of 650 miles at his own expense for a term of 50 years from 1893, paying therefor $1,000,000 cash to the government and receiving a subsidy from the government of 2,500 acres of land a mile. At the end of the term of 50 years and on the payment of a further $6,000,000 the railroad was to become Mr. Reid's own property. He also agreed to purchase St. John's dock and the government telegraph system for $500,000, undertaking to improve the dock, to cheapen the rates on the telegraph system and to build eight mail steamers for the coast service, receiving a subsidy of $100,000 for 20 years on this account. The land granted to him included large coal areas, which he bound himself to work, mining not less than 50,000 tons a year and paying the government a royalty of 10 cents a ton; also pulp and lumber mills, copper and other minerals. The contract was approved by the Newfoundland legislature by large majorities in both houses.

Robert G. Reid has been called the virtual owner of Newfoundland, his holdings there aggregating almost 7,000 square miles. His powers are described as almost autocratic, and he is the most important personality in the island. The drydock at St. John's, which the colony had built at a cost of $560,000, was sold to him for $325,000 to make a deep water terminus for the railroad. By the provisions of this Reid deal, as the arrangement came to be known, Reid centered in himself the passenger, mail and freight traffic of the whole island. He pre-empted the exploitation of the interior, and he controlled the labor market and commercial interests.

The electors of Newfoundland did not approve the action of their legislature in granting the "Reid deal," and ever since this action was taken there has been continued and widespread opposition.

Zionist Dowie Arrested.

CHICAGO, May 25.—John Alexander Dowie, "overseer of the Christian Catholic church," has been arrested here pursuant to the action of the coroner's jury, which has declared him "criminally responsible" for the death of Mrs. Emma Lucy Judd. H. Worthington Judd, a disciple of Dowie and husband of the alleged victim, also was arrested, having appeared at the criminal court building in company with Dowie. Both men were taken before Judge Tuley, who admitted them to bail. Henrikka Bratsch and Mary B. Speicher, "maternity" nurses, who are said to have attended Mrs. Judd, were also arrested.

Seventy-three Miners Entombed.

LONDON, May 25.—There was an explosion yesterday in the colliery of Lord Windsor at Sengenhydd, Wales. Seventy-three men are entombed, and there is little hope of their rescue. A relief party which descended into the pit came up two hours later prostrated by afterdamp. The men were carried to cottages in the vicinity. Another rescuing party has gone down into the pit. Thousands of persons surround the colliery.

Another Gift to Dartmouth.

HANOVER, N. H., May 25.—President Tucker announced to the trustees of Dartmouth college that Mr. Edward Tuck would give $100,000 for the erection of a building for the use of the Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance. This gift is entirely distinct from Mr. Tuck's former gift of $350,000 for purposes of instruction and is his contribution as an alumnus of Dartmouth toward the Webster centennial fund.

Time Extended One Month.

NEW YORK, May 25.—It is practically determined that the cup races will only be postponed for one month, although the New York Yacht club, through its challenge committee, has expressed a willingness to give Sir Thomas Lipton any time that may be necessary to put his damaged racer in condition again. Sir Thomas Lipton finds that he can repair his yacht in less time than originally estimated and so cabled yesterday.

Mr. Heg's Appointment.

The fact that James E. Heg, who has recently been appointed by Gov. Voorhees as superintendent of the new State reformatory at Rahway, is a brother-in-law of Congressman Chas. N. Fowler, has naturally caused some talk. The general impression given to those who were not conversant with the situation was that the appointment was made at the solicitation of the Congressman, who was looking after his relatives. As Mr. Heg happened to be a resident of the State of Wisconsin, there seemed to be all the more cause for that belief.

Governor Voorhees was interviewed on the subject and gave the following explanation, which seems very reasonable:

"Well, there are forty reasons why Mr. Heg was chosen. He was chosen by the commission because of his training, his experience and his observation. The position requires the services of a man of special aptitude and we sought out the best man we could find. The commission realized that it wanted a man properly qualified to take up the control of such an important place. We made inquiries all over the United States for a man for the position and went to all sorts of penal institutions in the search for one. We wanted a man who had the experience and mental ability to judge when the boys in the Reformatory should be allowed out on parole."

"How did you hear of Mr. Heg?"

"We heard of him during our search for a man. He organized the Wisconsin Reformatory, and built it up to a high plane of excellence. Mr. Heg came here reluctantly. We wanted a man of intelligence and ability and experience, and he filled the bill."

"Did his relationship to Congressman Fowler have anything to do with his selection?"

"It had absolutely nothing. The Congressman did not know we had the name of his brother-in-law under consideration at first, and after that he refrained from saying anything about the matter either to me or to the commissioners."

A mistaken idea seems to prevail with many people concerning the amendment to the license ordinance which was passed at the meeting of the Common Council Thursday evening. It has been rumored about that this ordinance, while posing as a very simple thing, in reality provided for Sunday selling of liquors. Such is not the case, as will be seen by all who take the trouble to read the full text of the ordinance. It applies only to such hotels which have secured inn and tavern licenses but do not possess licenses for a bar attached. There are two hotels in town at present to which this ordinance would apply. It does not in any way permit the holders of bar licenses to sell drinks on Sunday under the guise of serving them with meals.

There is no change in the strike of the local machinists. Despite the fact that there are 1,200 men out of work as the result of it, the streets are quiet and there are no remarkably large crowds on the sidewalks. The police have had nothing to do as far as the strikers are concerned. The only time any possible trouble is anticipated when an attempt is made to fill the places of the strikers. So far, the local strikers have made an excellent record for themselves and it is sincerely to be hoped that they will not spoil it even should such an attempt be made. At present, however, the management of the local shops has shown no inclination to secure any help from the outside.

There are many drivers in this city who seem to forget the rights of the rest of the world altogether. The crosswalks were placed for the express convenience of pedestrians. While they are not particularly needful when the street is in good condition, they are very valuable on muddy days. Many drivers have a great habit, however, of stopping their teams directly across these crosswalks and remaining there for some time. If the police would keep their eyes open for such people and keep them off the crosswalks, they would confer a great favor on those who have occasion to use the crosswalks.

In fixing on the appropriations for the year, the Union County Board of Freeholders increased their appropriation for the three hospitals of the county by $3,000. This increase was made possible by the fact that the Freeholders had an unexpended balance of $22,800 left over from last year. The extra $1,000, which will come to Muhlenberg Hospital, will be particularly welcome to that institution at this time.

Some of the leading citizens of Summit have petitioned their Common Council to appoint a committee to confer with Governor Voorhees regarding the establishment of a militia company in that city. Plainfield was extremely fortunate in securing its company when it did.

The printing of the city ordinances in book form is an excellent thing which should have been done several years ago. At present, it is next to impossible for any inquiring citizen to get a glimpse of the law of the city without going to a great deal of trouble.

As no orders have been received at the local postoffice from the Government officials regarding the carriers wearing shirt waists, it is quite likely that the present style of dress will be maintained throughout the summer.

...DON'TS...

DON'T buy Glasses over a counter and select these for yourself. You may select a pair that suits you exactly for the time being, yet may prove most injurious.

DON'T buy cheap Glasses, such lenses are imperfectly ground and unlike.

DON'T read without your Glasses or with someone else's.

DON'T continue wearing your old Glasses when you feel that they are not just right. It's so easy to have them right, and we are only alloted one pair of eyes.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Prices Firm and Leading Industries Well Employed.

NEW YORK, May 25.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The labor situation is the cloud hovering over the business world, but the difficulties are not sufficiently widespread at present to seriously interfere with the progress of manufacture and distribution. Some settlements of strike have been effected during the week, and others seem probable at an early date. Meanwhile prices hold firm, the capacity of producing plants in the leading industries is well employed, and crop advices are satisfactory.

Railroad earnings continue to show remarkable gains, 9.6 per cent over last year and 29.8 per cent over 1899 for half of May.

Notwithstanding much talk of dullness in pig iron bessemer is firmly held at $16.75 delivered at Pittsburg or $16 at Valley furnaces. Foundry irons are somewhat easier. All lines of finished steel are crowded to the limit of productive capacity, and machinery houses at Chicago are granting machinists' demands rather than risk delay.

Correspondents report the winter wheat outlook steadily improving, and there is every reason to anticipate an abundant harvest. A few sections have slightly reduced acreage, and losses by drought in Texas may amount to about half the original area planted. The production in this state, however, is never sufficiently heavy to be an important factor in the total for the whole country.

Speculation in May corn has quieted down, but the general level of this cereal continues far above normal prices, and more liberal receipts have been attracted to interior cities. For the week 3,667,042 bushels were received against 1,694,786 last year.

Although slightly smaller than in the two preceding phenomenal weeks, shipments of boots and shoes from the east were more than 100,000 cases and far in excess of the same week in earlier years.

Failures for the week numbered 180 in the United States against 185 last year, and 22 in Canada against 20 last year.

NINETEEN TO NINE.

Minority Report Defeated In Cuban Convention.

HAVANA, May 25.—The minority report of the committee on relations was yesterday defeated in the Cuban constitutional convention by a vote of 19 to 9. The delegates voting in favor of this report were Gomez, Silva, Cisneros, Lacrete, Aleman, Portuondo, Manduley, Ferrer and E. Tamayo. Those absent from yesterday's session of the convention were Gener, Bravo and Rivero. To-day the majority report will be read and discussed. The conservatives believe the final vote on the latter report will be taken Monday, but they do not expect to hold the full strength shown yesterday. Senor Zayas in a speech said the minority report was too conservative, and he could not accept it. It is believed that Senor Zayas may possibly carry the other delegates who voted yesterday with the conservatives.

The merchants and clubs of Havana have been contributing liberally for the relief of the Jacksonville sufferers. Persons socially prominent in Havana will give a benefit, the proceeds to be devoted to relieving Cuban orphans and helping Jacksonville. The Produce Exchanges have subscribed $500 to the latter end.

Jacksonville Relief.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 25.—The Relief association yesterday distributed 3,050 rations and gave away clothing to 350 people. This shows that the relief department has systematized the distribution very thoroughly as compared with two weeks ago, when 12,320 people were fed and half that number clothed. There is plenty of work in the city now for all laboring men, and as soon as mechanics are supplied with tools there will be no reason why every man able to handle a tool of any kind cannot find employment. The sanitary committee and the city health authorities are working in harmony to keep the city healthful.

Largest Operating Grain Elevator.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The New York Central railroad yesterday contracted for the erection of the largest operating grain elevator in the world. It is to be built in Weehawken at the terminal of the West Shore road and will replace the one—capacity, 1,200,000 bushels—which has stood there 17 years. The new elevator will have a capacity of 2,000,000 bushels and will cost when finished almost $1,500,000. There are storage elevators in the west with 3,000,000 bushels capacity, but this new one at Weehawken will be without a rival among operating elevators.

Southern Floods Delay Trains.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Serious delays to the mails in the south caused by the floods are announced in a dispatch received at the postoffice department from the railway mail division headquarters at Atlanta. Train No. 35, the New Orleans and Washington fast mail; No. 33, the New York and Florida express, and No. 34, another fast train, all carrying the mails, were abandoned and the service performed on other schedules.

President Errazuriz Recovers.

SUMMER SKIRTS.

Many Ruffles Seen on Summer Costumes.

Many summer skirts are ornamented with one or more ruffles, some circular, some cut bias, still others on the straight thread of the goods and gathered in the ordinary way. Sometimes the fullness at the top is confined in a series of short, vertical tucks. To preserve the flare of the skirt the circular flounce is the best, made more or less curved, according to the thickness of the goods, but always straight in front. Skirts of thin material, instead of being lined, have a separate drop skirt, but in order to secure perfect hanging the drop skirt must be cut of the same shape and size as the outer skirt.

Today's illustration shows a half fitting sack of black peau de soie, with a line of passementerie covering each seam. The short bolero is of black silk open embroidery, and the sack is trimmed at all the edges with a double plaited frill of black mousseline de soie bordered with narrow ruches. The pagoda sleeves are ornamented to match the bolero and have a mousseline frill, inside which is a silk cuff. The hat of black neapolitan braid is ornamented with a drapery of tulle and a wreath of geraniums. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SHORT SLEEVES.

They Are the Most Striking Novelty of Summer Styles.

There is a strong determination on the part of modistes to establish the sleeve of elbow length. This is a pretty fashion for women with pretty arms, but those who are not so fortunate should avoid it. A great many of the new gown models show the sleeve terminating at the elbow, although in a number of cases there is a lower sleeve, full or plain, which extends to the wrist, thus covering the forearm.

The costume illustrated is an elaborate princess gown of black satin. The skirt is laid in groups of stitched plaits, free at the foot, and at the sides and front it is ornamented with motifs of white guipure. Gold galloon outlines a bolero in front, where the bodice is also adorned with applications of guipure. There is a wide collar of rose silk and a guimpe and high collar of white crape. The sleeves of elbow length have guipure applications on the outer side and are finished by two ruffles, the first of black satin bordered with gold galloon, the second of pink silk. The hat is of black tulle spangled with gold and trimmed with large pale pink flowers. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Not Ahead.

"I understand that visionary chap is regarded as being 20 years ahead of his time."

"No," answered the grave looking citizen. "I am his landlord, and I know better than that. He is about six months behind time."—Washington Star.

Wilhelmina's First Love.

Although romantic writers have made much "copy" out of the Dutch queen's approaching marriage, it is well known at The Hague that Duke Heinrich is not the young man who originally caught the royal fancy of the young queen. The first favorite was Prince Adolf, Heinrich's elder brother, and a very good-looking young officer. "Willful Wilhelmina" smiled most abiably upon him, and in due time the proper authorities were commanded to sound the prince on the subject. But Adolf was coy and too fond of life and gayety to consent to become the consort of the imperious young person who rules over the most peaceful but also the dullest court in Europe. Adolf refused to be wooed, and it was an open secret at court that the queen's disappointment and chagrin were the cause of the prolonged delay in the announcement of her engagement to the young er brother. At the same time, the good Hollanders tell each other, with much satisfaction, that Heinrich is beloved of Wilhelmina, or she would never, never wed him—not if a hundred ministers were to ask her to.—N. Y. Commercial-Advertiser.

The Cost of Registering Mail.

Many persons used to refuse to avail themselves of the privilege of registering their letters, on the ground that to do so was to advertise the fact that a missive was worth stealing, while if it were actually stolen or lost, the government would pay no compensation to the loser. Two years ago an appropriation of $6,000 was made to provide an insurance fund. This amount had been asked for by the post office department in the belief that it would not much more than cover the indemnities demanded in a year. The department was agreeably surprised when, at the end of the first twelvemonth, only $154.03 was found to have been paid out on this account. Thus it appears that the adoption of this system of insurance has cost the government very little, while encouraging many people to register their letters and packages.—Saturday Evening Post.

Collateral.

On a recent early morning trip of the Hyde Park night owl car a party of colored people took seats with becoming gravity and dignity. Evidently they had been participants in what had seemed an important event, and the occasion was soon revealed to the occupants of the car. They had been to a wedding. Various features were being discussed, when one matron broke in with:

"I'se dunno, but dar's sumfin awful 'steious 'bout dis heah mahiage. Di'n you see how de preacher done fold up dat 'sticate and put it in his pocket? Nevah did dat w'en you an' me was done mah'ed, did 'e, honey?"

"Huh! de preacher he don do dat dis evenin' cause dey stood 'im off," said her honey.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Royal Incomes.

So much has been published recently about the income of the ruler of Great Britain that it is interesting to note that the annual grant allowed by parliament is not large, as such things go in monarchical countries. Indeed, it is $500,000 less than the income of the shah of Persia, $1,000,000 less than that of the king of Italy, about $2,000,000 less than that of the emperor of Germany and $2,500,000 less than that of the emperor of Austria-Hungary. Yet it should suffice. The president of the United States, who has vastly greater responsibilities and work along with his vastly greater power, receives $1,825,000 less per year than the monarch of Great Britain.—Troy Times.

ANOTHER STRIKE PROJECTED.

President O'Connell to Propose a Nine Hour Day on Railroads.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President James O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists announces that he will recommend to the next annual convention of machinists at Toronto, beginning June 3, that a date be set for a nine hour day without reduction in wages on all the railroads of the country. On railroads which fail to comply with this demand a strike will be ordered. This recommendation will be made in Mr. O'Connell's annual report.

The policy will be to enforce the demand by tying up practically the entire mechanical service of the roads. It was simply a matter of policy, he said, that the railroads were not included in the present strike. Although a number of them are now involved, none of the roads was originally contemplated in the order declaring the present strike. Mr. O'Connell says the convention doubtless will fix a date when the nine hour day must be in operation on all roads, and he believes this date should be some day in the autumn.

Mr. O'Connell says the outlook of the present strike is very gratifying. A report from Memphis announces the signature of six establishments there to the agreement. The headquarters of the strike have been shifted from Washington to Toronto, for which city President O'Connell left last night. He will stop en route at Pittsburg, Buffalo and possibly some other city to confer with local strike leaders and will take charge of the Toronto headquarters tomorrow night.

Dispatches have been received recording the fact that at Detroit the American Car and Foundry company, which employs 75 machinists and 2,000 other employees, has granted the demands for a nine hour day without a reduction in wages to not only the 75 striking machinists, but to all other employees.

The same action was taken in Rochester by the Eastman Kodak company, which has made a like concession to the 40 machinists and the 2,000 other employees.

Committees representing machinists and their employers of the district met in Chicago to try to reach a settlement of the wage question. No progress was made at the opening session. Considerable interest is felt in the conference.

Ultimatum to Strikers.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 25.—By order of President Frederick H. Stevens of the Brooks Locomotive works Superintendent James McNaughton yesterday afternoon posted notices offering positions to all of the 2,600 employees who would return to work next Monday morning, whether strikers or not, and if a sufficient number return to run all the departments the plant will be kept running. Should the striking machinists and allied metal workers remain obdurate the works will be closed for three weeks at least for inventory, after which time the plant will be under the control of the American Locomotive company. More than 20 trusted men have been sworn in as special police.

Government Work Transferred.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—As a result of the machinists' strike in this city all of the United States army transports needing repairs are to be sent to the Mare Island navy yard, where the work will be done. The Sherman was the first vessel to go to the navy yard under this new order of the government authorities. The strike situation is unchanged, neither side showing a disposition to yield.

Six large stores on Big Rock creek were carried away and one man, John McKinney, drowned, while an unknown man was killed by a landslide.

Boston Capitalists Get Contract.

BOSTON, May 25.—A syndicate has been formed among Boston capitalists to build an electric railway in Washington between Seattle and Tacoma, a distance of 33 miles, the contract for which calls for all the details of construction of a first class steam railway. This is considered essential, as it is the purpose of the builders to provide for a speed of 60 miles an hour, although electricity is to be used as a motive force. Work on the roadbed already has been begun.

ROCHESTER, May 25.—Peter M. Welch, a prosperous farmer of the town of Batavia, committed suicide by hanging. BOSSES AND STRIKERS PLAY WAITING GAME.

There Are No New Developments In Local Strike Situation This Morning.

NO ATTEMPT TO SETTLE.

A FEW MACHINISTS ARE STILL WORKING AT SCOTT'S.

Mr. Scott Is Not Inclined To Talk On Strike Situation—Best Of Order Still Prevails Among The Men—No Attempt To Fill Places Yet.

The strike of the machinists, as far as Plainfield is concerned, has developed into a waiting game. The employers are waiting and so are the men. The second week of the strike has begun with no appreciatable change in the situation. The best of order still prevails among the men. All of the local machine shops are practically shut down although a few men are reported to be working in the shop at the Scott Press Works.

Neither employer nor employes have made any move toward starting negotiations. The situation remains as before with no prospect of a settlement until the organization of employers and the national officers of the International Order of Machinists come to terms. None of the local shops have made any attempt, so far as is known, to fill the places of the strikers with non-union labor.

The addition of a wire fence on top of the regulation picket fence, which surrounds the Potter Press Works, is believed by some to be for the protection of the place.

"There's no change. It's the same as it was last week" said Mr. Scott, when seen by a Press reporter this morning. The owner was not inclined to discuss the matter of the strike.

He was as affable as ever, and was disposed to talk on any subject other than the all-important strike. This he politely avoids, for publication anyway. "I've gone out of the press business" said he as a smile stole over his lips. "You see I've gone into the fruit business. There's a banana tree and here's a fine big ripe lemon," he remarked as he brought from a closet a specimen of lemon presumably of hot-house cultivation.

The same vein characterized all his remarks and it was some time before he would speak on the present condition of the strike. In answer to a query whether there were any machinists at work, he finally said there were some, he didn't know exactly how many. The reporter suggested there might be ten and the owner responded that there were more than ten. He said there probably fifteen or twenty at work.

"They made a demand last week said Mr. Scott, in referring to the strikers." Which the owners are not inclinded to concede. "They don't seem to want to arbitrate for no arbitration or meeting has been asked for. I don't know that it would make much difference if the matter was arbitrated for they do not appear to stick to their agreements. I see one body has gone out in Bound Brook after the matter was arbitrated," said he.

Mr. Scott declares that he has heard of no proposed meeting or conference between the owners and their striking employes. He denied the rumor that men were being engaged in New York to fill the strikers' positions. No such action or course of procedure is contemplated on his part.

The men who are working today in the shop, Mr. Scott says are those who did not go out and have been working ever since.

Police Couldn't Help Him.

A lively dispute over the payment for some bicycle goods, purchased by a young man at an auction sale held in a Park avenue store Saturday evening, caused some disturbance in the neighborhood for a time. The purchaser, it is alleged, claimed that he had tendered an amount sufficient to cover the amount owed by him and he would not be responsible for mistakes made by the cashier. The police were called in, but the auctioneer was informed that the matter was beyond their jurisdiction.

Temporary Organist.

Frank McDonald, of Watchung avenue, presided at the organ in Trinity Reformed church yesterday, in the absence of the regular organist, A. L. Titsworth.

Danny Kane has returned from Middleton, N. Y., where he went to attend a firemen's exhibition and parade.

A musicale and exhibition by the art class were given by Miss Kenyon and Miss Arnold, Saturday afternoon, at the Seminary on West Seventh street. The large school room was prettily decorated with spring blossoms for the occasion.

On the walls of the school room were shown drawings, illustrating the work of Miss Eidlitz's art class during the year. Two prizes had been offered to the students. One for the best line drawing of flowers, open to scholars under thirteen, was won by Miss Marjorie Howard. The other, open to older students, for the best drawing from life, was won by Miss Nanon West. The prizes were a photograph from a painting by Corot, and a photograph from the drawing of "Spring," by Blaskfield.

Half hour sketches and studies in pastel were also exhibited. The work was a proof of excellent instruction, and showed great progress on the part of the pupils.

At the close of the exercises the guests were received in the parlors and tea and ice cream were served.

Knocked Down by Wagon.

Philip S. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, is confined to his house as the result of a painful injury received in New York Friday evening. Mr. Suffren was waiting for a trolley car to take him to the ferry when he was knocked down by a wagon. The tongue of the vehicle struck him heavily on the side of the face inflicting a painful wound.

"SHADES OF NIGHT" GIVEN BY AMATEURS.

Dramatic Sketch and Minstrel Show Presented Saturday Afternoon and Evening.

WERE CLEVERLY PRESENTED.

SOME FUNNY LOCAL HITS MADE BY THE END MEN.

Play Was Finely Staged and the Acting Was Remarkably Good — Choruses and Solos Given by Local Artists in Burnt Cork.

"The Shades of Night," a fantastical performance, happily combined with a cleverly arranged minstrel show bearing the same title, were the incentives which prompted Plainfield's society folk to bid defiance to the stormy weather and gather at the Casino Saturday afternoon and evening to witness their rendition by members of the smart set.

In every sense, the amateur entertainment was most enjoyable and moreover eminently successful. At no stage of the double headed attraction was there a dull moment and the exclusive assemblage showed its keen appreciation of the affair by unrelenting applause. It some respects it would be pronounced a creditable production for a metropolitan professional caste of players, and, when one remembers that both parts of the performance were the work of strictly amateur talent, the more praise is due to those who participated. Unstinted congratulation is due to those who so capably directed the affair. Their pupils gave marked evidence of careful training in the part which were delegated to them.

As part first, R. Marshall's amusing fantasy in one act, entitled "Shades of Night" was given. The production is exactly similar to the performance as given some time since in the Lyceum Theatre, New York.

The scene is laid in the haunted room at Trivett Towers, in England, and the time is the present day. The foundation for the play dates back to September, 1775, when Sir Ludovic Trivett, now a phantom but then the lord of the manor, poisoned his sweetheart, the Lady Mildred Yester, now another phantom. Believing that he would be rejected by her he had prepared the poisoned cup for himself Unknowingly the Lady Mildred drank it in his presence, and in her dying breath placed a curse on his house and hers, until some of their descendents were betrothed.

The act opens in the present days in the haunted room with Captain the Honorable Terence Trivett, of the Second Lancers, wooing Winifred Yester, the one a descendent of the knight and the other of the lady. The captain is madly in love, but fears the curse, which is indeliably written on the wall. While they are still in the room the apparitions of their ancestors appear and introduce themselves. Having overheard the popular story of the deed, the fantastic pair rehearse the actual occurrence. Being enlightened on the true story the young lovers plight their troth and the curse is removed.

The play, as a whole, was highly imaginary and filled with countless humorous situations, which kept the audience in constant laughter. Elaborate stage settings, rematkably accurate and complete in every detail, was one of the noteworthy features. These settings were of a type that are seldom seen in amateur theatricals. The electric and calcium light effects were also very fine. The light shed by the calcium on the phantom characters gave them a ghastly appearance, which made the play all the more enjoyable. There was really no leading part, each performer consequently had an opportunity to display the dramatic talents he or she might possess.

Frederic W. Goddard took the part of "Captain the Honorable Terence Trivett," of the Second Lancers. His acting showed that he had given much study to the part, which was an extremely difficult one. Mr. Goddard was applauded time and again for his brilliant work. Though he was good in "The Private Secretary," it can be said that he was still better in the performance Saturday evening.

Miss Maud VanBoskerck, as "Winifred Yester," gave much life to the character. She possessed a certain ease of manner that was truly refreshing. Her work in the lovers' quarrel was notable, but so well did she go through her lines that it would be difficult to say just where she excelled.

There was more room for clever acting on the part of the phantom characters and both George S. Ring, as Sir Ludovic Trivett," and Mrs. Lemuel W. Serrel, as "the Lady Mildred Yester," were equal to the occasion in these parts. Mr. Ring was a capital ghost and appeard to be awake to his condition at all times. On the other hand, Mrs. Serrell was fully successful in the part assigned to her. She is a natural actress and her work would warrant one in thinking that she had been thoroughly schooled as a player. Her acting received frequent applause from the appreciative audience. Mrs. Serrell's rendition of the death scene was particularly fine.

Every one in the cast gave much realistic sense to the lines and there was no difficulty in hearing them in the fartherest ends of the room. Douglass S. Houghton, of New York, deserves special tribute for his work as stage director. The success achieved by every one in the fantasy was highly creditable to him as an able director.

After the curtain had rung down on the first part of the evening's performance, the audience was entertained with a pleasing banjo selection by Fred F. VanEps, of this city, and W. D. Bowen, of Newark. They were compelled to respond to two encores. D. Stuart Pope acted as an accompanist in each instance.

The minstrelsy, which formed the second and concluding part of the programme, kept both old and young in continual laughter. It was entitled "The Shades of Night, in burnt cork." Robert Rushmore is the author of the creditable work, and he acted as the leader of the show. The musical direction was in charge of Clayton H. Heermance, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who capably discharged his task.

The piece, which abounded in well sung songs, was interspersed with numerous local hits, which were much enjoyed by the audience.

Mr. Rushmore and his troupe of "cullud pussuns" marched in while the stage was in complete darkness. The leader perched himself high up in the centre of the stage. On his right were seated Rufus Finch, Wm. Gilbert, Wm. S. Tyler, W. Hepburn, G. W. Johnstone, Wm. J. Tallamy, F. Bertram Tallamy, A. Willis West, and two end men, Laurens H. VanBuren and Clayton H. Heermance. To the left were James Dodd, Frederic W. Goddard, Edward J. Kline. George Dupee, Frederick J. Pope, Arthur A. Freeman, Arthur Masters, George F. Schoonmaker, and two end men, Wm. T. Pelletier and Ralph A. Osmun.

"The Minstrel's Delight," sung by the company as an overture, was followed by a vocal quartette, composed of W. J. Tallamy, G. W. Johnstone, F. J. Pope and A. A. Freeman, entitled "Like the Woodland Roses," which was well encored.

Wm. T. Pelletier took the house by storm when he sang a witty skit entitled "He Didn't Get Back," which runs as follows:

We're glad, kind friends, to see you, and we hope that you enjoy
The efforts of these "Shades of Night" their talents to employ.
We're trying to give amusement to our quiet little town.
And if we fail, please don't blame us, but call Lew Timpson down.

Chorus.

For he got up the show,
As all of you know,
For he's talked till he's nearly a bore.
But we think he's all right,
And his show's out of sight,
And surely deserves an encore.

A New York man once started out and thought that he would roam
Around awhile, and try to find a sweet suburban home.
He got as far as Plainfield, and he met with D. C. I.—
And now he lives in a shingle house with a rent that hits the sky.

Chorus.

Yet he's never gone back,
He's never gone back;
He has lived here for ten years or more.
But the coal is so hot,
And he burns such a lot
That he longs for that beautiful shore.

When the shades of night are falling fast,
We often have a view
Of a young man, with a strange device,
Dashing down Park avenue;
But it's not the man that attracts us,
Nor yet his wierd machine,
But because on the seat beside him
There is sure to be a queen.

Chorus.

But she never comes back,
She never comes back,
The young man so clearly admires
All the fair sex that he Thinks there ought not to be Any favorites with G. Harry Squires.

There flourished once a country club, but it drank itself to death,
And now you'll find its sweet remains, where the woodbine twineth,
We've tried to rejuvenate it, and the corpse has seemed quite frisky,
And says that it will look alive, if we give it beer and whiskey.

Chorus.

And all of us think
That something to drink
Would bring it to life very soon;
For its tea (with addresses)
That make such successes
Of those meetings Monday afternoon.

PREACHED A SERMON TO LOCAL VETERANS.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey Addressed Members Of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R.

AT THE WARREN CHAPEL.

SPECIAL MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE HELD LAST EVENING.

Chapel Appropriately Decorated With National Colors—Mr. McKelvey Told Of Sacrifice Of the Soldiers And Of Christ.

The members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73 G. A. R., attended divine service at Warren Chapel, last evening, in response to a request from the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, who delivered a patriotic sermon to the veterans of the Civil War. The chapel was appropriately decorated with American flags and bunting, and the choir rendered special music for the occasion. There was a large attendance of veterans. All were greatly interested in the discourse.

Mr. McKelvey took for his text "And, hereby we know that He loves us, because He laid down His life for us." In commencing his talk, the pastor briefly reviewed the origin of Memorial Day, which was instituted in 1865, when simple services were held over the graves of 240 brave Union soldiers in Charleston. The first observance of Memorial Day was May 30, 1869, by orders of Gen. John A. Logan. Since then it has been an annual event.

Mr. McKelvey said that next Thursday the grateful people of this great nation will mark appropriately the graves of the known and unknown dead. He said he was not anxious to review the battles of the Rebellion, which represented more than freedom. It was a question that involved the nation and meant its downfall or supremacy. He then spoke of Christ, who made a greater sacrifice than any. He left His home in glory, and came to this earth to give His life for the whole world. He praised the veterans for their grand sacrifice to preserve the nation and then pointed them to Christ who could save and preserve them. In conclusion Mr. McKelvey impressed upon all the necessity of being obedient and ready for the last call.

GIFT FROM LEAGUE.

Presented to Mrs. A. B. Meredith on Her Retirement From Superintendency.

Mrs. Albert B. Meredith, who has been superintendent of the Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church, took charge of the League for the last time yesterday morning. The League usually meets in the morning before church service. Mrs. Meredith leaves this week for Boston and then in the fall will go to Nutley, N. J., with her husband, who has been appointed superintendent of schools at that place.

The meeting was made the occasion for the presentation of a gold mounted Waterman pen to Mrs. Meredith by the members of the League as a token of their appreciation of her earnest efforts among them.

Says There Is Silver There.

State Geologist Smock says that the ore taken from the American Copper Company's mine, north of Somerville, shows 18.95 per cent. of pure copper to the ton and 4.13 ounces of silver to the ton. HELP FOR HOME MISSIONS.

State President of Baptist Society Made Address at First Baptist Church.

Rev. Mr. DeWolff, State president of the Home Missionary Society of the Baptist church, was present at the morning service in the First Baptist church yesterday, and made a plea for large contributions toward the work of the society.

He stated that there are now 1 215 Baptist churches in New Jersey. During the past ten years, 103 churches have been organized. During that time there have been 3 692 baptisms.

He spoke of the excellent work being done, and urged all to give liberally toward the support of weak and feeble churches, and thus help to carry the Gospel to the people of the State.

CHARLES DUPEE RAN WELL.

SCORED POINTS FOR YALE IN INTER-COLLEGIATE GAMES SATURDAY.

Finished Second in the 220 Yard Dash and Third in the 100 Yard Dash.

Charles Dupee, eldest son of George P. Dupee, of Rockview avenue, distinguished himself in the finals of the intercollegiate games at Berkeley Oval, New York, Saturday afternoon by winning one second place and one third. Dupee ran in great form and was the only representative from Yale University to score any points in the short dashes.

In the first semi final heat of the hundred yard dash, Dupee finished second to Sears, of Cornell, the time being 10 1-5 seconds. In the final of that event, he was third, Duffy, of Georgetown winning, and Lightner, of Harvard, second. The time was 10 1 5 seconds.

Sears, of Cornell, was first and Dupee second in the first semi final heat of the 220 yard dash, the time being 22 4-5 seconds. In the final, Sears won with Dupee second while Lightner, the Harvard sprinter, was fourth. The time of the last heat was 22 3 5 seconds.

Dupee first began his career as a sprinter in the spring of 1896, when he won the 100 and 220 yard dashes in the open games of the Plainfield High School, defeating the best men from Pingry's School, the Stevens Prep School and Newark Academy. His victories Saturday gives him the right to wear the coveted "Y," which honor he also won last fall in the football games.

ENDED HIS OWN LIFE WITH REVOLVER BULLET

John Witteman, Night Watchman at Skirt Factory, Shot Himself This Morning.

WAS NO REASON FOR IT.

HIS DEATH HAD EVIDENTLY BEEN INSTANTANEOUS.

Body Was Found Behind Boiler in the Engine Room By Two Cutters—Witteman Had Pleasant Home and Had No Trouble

Crouched behind the boiler in the engine room of Herzig & Knapp's skirt factory, the body of John Witteman, the night watchman, was found with a bullet hole through the right temple shortly before 7 o'clock this morning. He had committed suicide but a short time before, as the body was still warm when discovered by Frank Kesselring and Albert Vaughn. They notified Chief Kiely, who in turn summoned Dr. Long. The latter made an examination but pronounced the man beyond all human aid. Death had evidently been instantaneous.

Witteman, who was a man sixty-five years of age, lived with his wife and daughter on West Sixth street, near Plainfield avenue. He came to this city from Germany forty years ago and during most of that time was engineer at Schephlin's clothing factory. With the closing down of the establishment he was thrown out of work. Four months ago he secured employment at the new skirt factory in the Hand building on Watchung avenue as night watchman and, to all appearances, was satisfied with his new position. Being in comfortable circumstances and having no apparent home troubles, his relatives are unable to assign a cause for his act. It is thought he may have brooded over the illness of his wife, who has been an invalid for some time.

He left for work last evening in good spirits and neither by word or act gave any indication that he premeditated killing himself. He had evidently performed his duties as usual as everything at the factory was ready for the day's business.

Kesselring and Vaughn, who are skirt cutters, arrived at the place a little before 7 o'clock but found the door locked. Repeated knocks met with no response from within and thinking Witteman had fallen asleep, they effected entrance through a window. They had gone but a short distance when they saw the watchman behind the boiler with a 32 calibre revolver grasped in his hand. But one chamber had been discharged.

In addition to his wife and daughter, Miss Mary Witteman, with whom he lived, he leaves one son, William Witteman, of South Second street. Numerous relatives live in the East End, in the vicinity of Richmond street.

THE FIRE ON THE PETREL.

Official Report of Incident In Which Commander Roper Lost His Life.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The navy department has received the report of the executive officer on the United States gunboat Petrel concerning the fire aboard that ship on March 31 last in Manila harbor, during which Lieutenant Commander Jesse M. Roper was suffocated by smoke while endeavoring to save members of his crew from a like fate. According to the report a number of the ship's crew went down into the passageway leading to the sailroom, where the fire broke out in the early morning, with the intention of getting a stream of water upon the flames. They were driven back by the smoke and gases, but Lieutenant Commander Roper, who had gone down with the men at the first attempt, upon learning that one of them had been left behind unconscious went below to his rescue in spite of earnest entreaties from those on deck.

Naval Cadet J. E. Lewis gallantly stepped ahead of his commanding officer in an effort to relieve Commander Roper of such a hazardous duty, and other officers and sailors followed him below. The imperiled seaman was rescued, but Lieutenant Commander Roper was brought on deck in an unconscious state and despite the most earnest efforts of the ship's surgeon died without regaining his senses.

In all 23 officers and men were overcome by the smoke and gases, but all recovered with the exception of their gallant commander. Special mention is made of the gallant conduct of Naval Cadet Lewis, Lieutenant J. S. McKean and Ensign Holman, both on the sick list at the time, and Assistant Surgeon R. W. Plummer, who pulled safely through 20 persons seriously threatened with suffocation. The conduct of every individual officer and member of the crew is said to have been most praiseworthy. The origin of the fire is not known.

STRIKERS GAINING.

Second Week of the Machinists' Struggle Opens Brightly.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—At the beginning of the second week of the machinists' strike the situation in Philadelphia is as follows:

Sixty-seven firms out of 150 have gone from the ten hour to the nine hour day basis without a reduction in wages. Thus far 2,000 machinists out of 7,000 in the city are working nine hours a day. The machinists employed by 41 firms, numbering 600, continue on strike for a nine hour day. Several large firms have offered compromises in reply to the unions' demands, and in some cases, where the men did not belong to the unions, the compromise was accepted. Forty-two firms have not been affected by the strike because their machinists are thus far insufficiently organized to make a stand with any chance of success.

Strikes will probably be ordered at some of the latter class of places should the union officials deem it practicable to take such action.

Strikers Ignore Offer.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 27.—President Bernhardt of the local branch of the International Machinists' union stated, after a meeting of the men last night, that they would ignore the offer made by Superintendent McNaughton of the Brooks Locomotive works to give the men their old places and reopen the works if they would return to work today.

An Unexpected Settlement.

TOLEDO, May 27.—The Toledo Machine and Tool company has notified the machinists' committee that it will sign the new scale, and the plant started this morning. This was one of the largest plants where the machinists were out, and the settlement was unexpected.

Severe Windstorm In the West.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 27.—The windstorm which swept over Nevada, Utah, southern Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado and which blew constantly for three days did damage that will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It resulted in an almost complete prostration of telegraph and telephone service in the states affected, and for nearly 24 hours during the height of the storm the intermountain region was practically cut off from the rest of the world. At Ogden the storm was felt worse. It tore roofs from a number of buildings, including the Baptist church. The damage in Ogden probably will reach $100,000.

Speaker Henderson Going Abroad.

DUBUQUE, Ia., May 27.—Colonel David B. Henderson, speaker of the house of representatives, and his wife have left for Europe for a three months' tour. THE INSULAR CASES.

Supreme Court Opinion Looked For Today.

ADMINISTRATION TO BE SUSTAINED.

A Statement Showing the Questions Involved In the Various Customs Cases Brought Up by Recent Acts of Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Owing to the fact that the United States supreme court will adjourn today for the term the opinion is quite general that the court will deliver its opinion in the insular cases which were heard last winter. In view of this probability Solicitor General Richards has prepared an unofficial statement showing the questions involved in the various cases, which is as follows:

"All these cases are virtually customs cases. They raise the validity under the constitution of the following exactions:

"First.—Duties on goods imported into the United States from the Philippines after the ratification of the treaty. The 14 diamond rings case, Pepke, claimant.

"Second.—Duties on goods imported into Porto Rico from the United States during the military occupation of the island after the signing of the protocol and before the ratification of the treaty of Paris. Such were some of the duties collected in the Armstrong case.

"Third.—Duties collected on goods imported into Porto Rico from the United States during the military occupation, but after the cession of Porto Rico by the ratification of the treaty and before the passage of the Porto Rican act. Such duties were collected in the Armstrong case and in the first Dooley case.

"Fourth.—Duties collected on goods imported into the United States from Porto Rico after the ratification of the treaty and before the taking effect of the Porto Rican act. Such were duties exacted in the Goetz case and in the De Lima case.

"Fifth.—Duties collected on goods coming into the United States from Porto Rico after the Porto Rican act took effect. The validity of these exactions is brought in question in the Downes case.

"Sixth.—Duties collected on goods coming into Porto Rico from the United States after the taking effect of the Porto Rican act. Such were the duties exacted in the second Dooley case.

"Seventh.—Duties collected on goods imported into the United States from Hawaii after the annexation and before the Hawaiian act went into effect. Such were the duties in the Crossman case.

MATERIAL QUESTIONS INVOLVED

"The primary question is whether the section contained in the treaty of Paris made Porto Rico and the Philippines an integral part of the United States within the meaning of the provision requiring 'all duties, imposts and excises to be uniform throughout the United States.'

"The secondary question is whether the temporary revenue provision in the Porto Rican act levying duties on goods coming from Porto Rico into the United States and on goods coming from the United States into Porto Rico to be used for the benefit of Porto Rico until the insular government could provide revenue of its own violates the constitutional provision that 'no tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.'

"Like the primary question is the question raised in the Hawaiian case—namely, whether the resolution of annexation made Hawaii an integral part of the United States within the meaning of the limitation of the taxing clause, so that instantly our customs laws applied there, notwithstanding the express provision of the resolution that the existing customs laws of the Hawaiian republic should continue in force until congress should pass an act extending our customs laws to the islands."

There is no doubt in well informed circles here that the decisions of the supreme court of the United States in the insular cases will be favorable to the contention of the administration as to the power of congress to legislate for newly acquired territory without regard to limitations imposed by the constitution upon its power of legislation for the states and for such acquired territory as has been brought either by act of congress or by treaty under the provisions of the constitution.

Former Governor Tanner's Funeral.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., May 27.—In the beauty of a perfect May day and with all the pomp and circumstance of a military funeral and rites of church all that was mortal of former Governor Tanner was consigned to earth in Oak Ridge cemetery yesterday in a spot well shaded with trees and almost within the shadow of the National Lincoln monument. The casket was covered with the flag he had fought to save through four long years of civil war and with beautiful floral offerings in the forms of a cross, a star and a pillow, the offerings of his wife and family. When the casket had been lowered into the earth, musketry from the Fifth infantry, I. N. G., rolled three times over the open grave, and then the trumpeters sounded "taps." The funeral was the largest attended ever known in Springfield, with the exception of the burial of President Lincoln in April, 1865.

Wood Alcohol Kills Two.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Two tramps who, with a third, have been camping in the woods not far from Hackensack, N. J., were killed as a result of drinking wood alcohol, and their companion is seriously ill from the same cause. The men have been in camp at West View for two weeks. Two of them were expert wood carvers and made fans and rustic work, while the third acted as salesman for the party. The salesman is the one who still lives. He says his name is Eli H. Harvey and that his mother lives in South Pittsburg, Tenn. He met the others some weeks ago and began tramping with them.

Boers Attack Convoy.

LONDON, May 27.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria: "A superior force of Boers made a determined attack on a convoy between Ventersdorp and Potchefstroom May 23, but was driven off. Our loss was 4 killed and 30 wounded. The convoy arrived in safety."

Harvard Wins Cup.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Harvard carried away the Mott Haven cup at the twenty-sixth annual meet of the Intercollegiate Athletic association, with a total of 44 points. Yale was second, with 30 5-6, and Princeton third, with 16 1-6.

FATAL TROLLEY RACE

Five Killed and Forty Injured Near Albany.

TERRIFIC CRASH AT A SHARP CURVE

Two Heavily Loaded Cars on the Albany-Hudson Line Come Together at a Forty Mile Gait. Both Motormen Dead.

ALBANY, May 27.—Electric cars racing for a switch while running in opposite directions at a rate of 40 miles an hour cost five lives yesterday afternoon by a terrific collision, while over 40 prominent people, some fatally and others seriously injured, fill the accident wards of the various hospitals, with the possibility of other deaths. The lobby of the local postoffice filled with dead and wounded, hysterical women and children looking for relatives and friends, surgeons administering temporary relief and ambulances racing through the city taking the wounded to hospitals were the early intimations of the most terrible electric line accident ever heard of in this locality.

The scene of the accident was a point about two miles out of Greenbush, on the line of the Albany and Hudson railway, a just completed road of the third pattern. The point where the cars met on the single track was at a sharp curve, and so fast were both running and so sudden was the collision that the motormen never had time to put on the brakes before south bound car No. 22 had gone almost clean through north bound car No. 17, with human flesh for a buffer, and hung on the edge of a high bluff with its load of shrieking, maimed humanity. One motorman was pinioned up against the smashed front of the south bound car, with both legs severed and killed instantly, while the other lived but a few minutes.

Fully 120 men, women and children formed a huge, struggling, shrieking pyramid, mixed with blood, detached portions of human bodies and the wreckage of the cars. Some of the more slightly injured of the men, extricating themselves from the quivering mass, began to pull people out of the rear ends of the two cars, and almost every one extricated in this way was badly injured. The scenes were heartrending. The few women and children who had escaped injury and death were hysterical and added their cries to the shrieks of the dying and mutilated. Men with broken arms and bones, dislocated joints and bloody heads and faces tried to assist others who were more helpless, and there were many cases of philosophical bravery. Help had been summoned from East Greenbush and vicinity, and in a little time the bruised mass of humanity, with the mutilated dead for grewsome and silent company, were loaded on extra cars and taken to Albany. There ambulances and physicians had been summoned and the postoffice turned into a morgue and hospital. As fast as the physicians could temporarily fix up the wounded they were taken to their homes or to the hospitals in either carriages or hospital ambulances.

With both motormen killed it was hard to get at the real cause of the accident, but it is pretty well determined that it was caused by an attempt of the south bound car to reach a second switch instead of waiting for the north bound car at the first siding.

Negro Confesses.

JACKSONVILLE, Ills., May 27.—William Webb Ferguson, the imprisoned negro, in a written statement made to State Attorney T. Forrest Smith asserts that he was employed to administer poison to Dr. Joseph L. Barnes in consideration of $1,000 insurance money on his victim's life. He declares that Mrs. Mamie Barnes, the widow, and Mrs. Mary McWilliams, her mother, plotted in his presence to murder the insane dentist. The poisoned candy and the letter introducing him to Superintendent Winslow of the insane asylum, he alleges, were placed in his hands by Mrs. Mamie Barnes with a railway ticket to Jacksonville. He says that Mrs. McWilliams, the aged mother of Mrs. Barnes, wrote the note of introduction and Mrs. Barnes placed on the envelope the name of Dr. Winslow, to whom the note was addressed. Nowhere does he exculpate himself in this confession, save that he denies any knowledge that the candy was poisoned with strychnine.

Memorial Services In Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Memorial services by the Grand Army posts of Brooklyn were held yesterday. The Associations of the Veterans of the Spanish War also took part. In spite of the inclement weather the veterans visited all of the cemeteries and monuments located in the borough and decorated the graves of the dead soldiers with flowers. In the evening special services were held in the various churches. The principal ceremony of the day was held at the tomb of the prison ship martyrs in Fort Greene.

Labor Organizations to Combine.

CHICAGO, May 27.—At the suggestion of President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor a move has been started to cement all labor organizations of Chicago into one great central body which shall officially represent the 100,000 union men of the city. This is to be done through the absorption by the Chicago Federation of Labor of the other smaller central bodies now representing various lines of trade and the gathering of unions not now affiliated with the central organizations.

Floods Destroying Crops.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 27.—A special from Raleigh, N. C., to The Observer says: "Governor Aycock says all the lowland crops on the state penitentiary farm, known as Caledonia, are destroyed by the raging Roanoke river, including 200 acres of wheat. He says the flood damage in the state amounts to millions of dollars. Saturday night's rainfall was very heavy, from 1½ to 2½ inches, and more rain is falling. All streams in this section are rising."

Murderer's Body Found.

ST. PAUL, May 27.—The body of Henry Mingers, who shot and killed his brother-in-law, Frank Grepel, in this city last Sunday, was found in a small lake near Rosemount, Minn., a short distance southwest of St. Paul. Mingers had attached a stone to a rope and tied the rope about his neck. The feet were above water when the body was discovered.

THE HOMEWARD TRIP.

Mrs. McKinley Endures the Journey Remarkably Well.

OGDEN, Utah, May 27.—The presidential train traversed the state of Nevada yesterday and reached Ogden at 6:30 o'clock last night. The route lay along the Humboldt river, through the Ruby and Washata mountains, and then descended into the Salt lake basin. During most of the day the elevation exceeded 5,000 feet, and snow clad peaks were continually in sight from the car windows. At this season of the year the ride across Nevada is exceedingly disagreeable. The heat is oppressive, and the dust from the desert is frequently blinding. Fortunately for Mrs. McKinley one of those heavy rainstorms which so rarely visit this region swept completely over the state during the night, laying the dust and tempering the atmosphere. Rain fell also several times during the day. The weather seemed almost like a special intervention of Providence for the benefit of the gentle sufferer. Mrs. McKinley passed a comfortable night crossing the Sierras. Dr. Rixey reported that Mrs. McKinley was standing the trip very well. She suffered no inconvenience from rarefied atmosphere.

The day aboard the train passed without incident. The present circumstances were so exceptional that the president set aside his compunctions as to Sunday travel, so that his wife might sooner reach home. The president and members of the cabinet kept quietly to their rooms the larger portion of the day. Once or twice when the train stopped for water they alighted to stretch their limbs. At Carlin early in the morning the president shook hands with some of the people who had gathered there, among them a number of Digger Indians who live in the neighboring mountains.

Chicago, according to the present schedule, will be reached tomorrow afternoon, and the train is expected to arrive at Washington Wednesday night.

SUNDAY AT THE FAIR.

A Small Crowd Listens to the Big Organ—Rain Mars Performance.

BUFFALO, May 27.—A steady downpour of rain from early morning until late at night made the Pan-American exposition grounds look like a deserted city yesterday. Those who did have the courage to brave the elements spent their time in the exhibit buildings, some of which were open a part of the day, or in the Temple of Music, where the first organ recital was held in the afternoon. A fair sized crowd listened to the melodious strains of the mammoth pipe organ. They sat with their overcoats and hats on, for the day was chilly as well as damp, and there is no way of heating the temple. October weather in May was a contingency not figured upon when the plans of the structure were drawn up.

The organ has almost 4,000 pipes and 53 speaking registers. The entire programme was not carried out because of a breakdown of the organ during the rendition of one of the numbers. The roof of the Temple of Music was leaky, and the organ was recently taken apart and reguilded and the roof repaired. Yesterday the rain again dripped down into the organ loft and caused a curtailment of the musical events.

Hazers Burn Student's Face.

ROCHESTER, May 27.—The town of Batavia is excited over a case of hazing. Great rivalry has long existed between the graduating class and the class of 1902 in the High school, and the class fights have been most bitter, but things were brought to a climax when John Swartz, a member of the graduating class, was waylaid in a lonely section of the town, securely bound to a tree and his face painted with a mixture of acid and iodine. The figures "'02" were clearly drawn on his left cheek. Blinded with pain, Swartz was released and secured medical aid in removing the stinging acids. The chances are good that his face will always bear marks of the hazer's brush. Vigorous efforts will be made to bring the guilty parties to justice.

German Royalty Not Destitute.

BERLIN, May 27.—The statements published in the United States by a news agency to the effect that the private fortunes of the emperor and empress of Germany and other members of the royal family had been almost entirely swept away by the operations of a swindler have been closely investigated here, with the result that the statements referred to are found to be absolutely without foundation. There are even not any rumors afloat concerning these alleged losses by their majesties.

Police Chief Shot by a Negro.

MACON, Ga., May 27.—A special to The Telegraph from Flovilla, Ga., says: "Chief of Police Matt Willard while advancing on a desperate negro, Josh Walton, was shot down and seriously wounded. Policeman Willard was going to place the negro under arrest and was shot without warning before he could draw his own revolver. Sheriff Crowford, with a posse and bloodhounds, is on his track, and if caught the negro will be dealt with as usual by the infuriated mob."

Jacksonville Relief.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 27.—All the departments of the Relief association were closed yesterday, the commissary department having served out two days' rations on Saturday. A new system of identification cards has been substituted to reduce all chances of imposition. The sanitary committee has taken steps to close the open sewers in the debris burned district. The town was full of excursionists yesterday from Florida and Georgia towns.

From Cable to Trolley.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A veritable lightning change act has been performed, and the Broadway Electric road opened this morning for public traffic throughout its entire length, the work of changing the motive power from cable to electricity having been accomplished in the unprecedentedly brief time of 36 hours. As a feat of modern electrical engineering the work done by the Metropolitan Traction company stands absolutely unrivaled.

Tennessee Flood Victims Destitute.

KNOXVILLE, May 27.—Destitution prevails with many families at Elizabethtown, the flood stricken town. Mayor Lee F. Miller has appealed for aid. Congressman W. P. Brownlow has made a request for 1,000 tents and blankets from the war department at Washington. He has secured the immediate shipment of enough to accommodate 50 families. The Southern railway offers to ship all supplies free of charge.

In the Main Hatchway.

Many years ago when sailors were in the habit of chewing much more than at the present day two tars were sitting in the gallery of an old country church, paying very great attention to the service.

During the sermon one of them heard a distinct sound of snoring coming up from the body of the church, and, looking down, he saw a fat old farmer fast asleep, his head thrown well back and his mouth wide open.

The temptation was too strong for Jack, who, making up a quid of tobacco, shut one eye, and, glancing along an imaginary plumb-line, dropped it into the old man's mouth, causing the old fellow to close it with a snap and jump to his feet, spluttering and spitting with a face almost purple.

Confusion reigned supreme, and Jack's chum innocently asked:

"What's up, Jack? Man overboard?"

"No," said Jack, exploding with suppressed laughter, "I dropped a bit of 'baccy plumb down the main hatchway and into his old grog tub!"—London Spare Moments.

SOUTH CAROLINA SENATORSHIP.

Resignations of Tillman and McLaurin Make Affairs Complicated.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 27.—It is understood that Senator McLaurin and Senator Tillman have a tacit agreement to contest for the long term to which Tillman was elected last January. Under the state Democratic party rules the candidate must designate specifically the office to which he aspires. Whether McLaurin wins over Tillman or Tillman is re-elected McLaurin's unexpired term will be filled by a new man.

There are four announced candidates—Asbury C. Latimer, congressman from the Third district and said to be Tillman's lieutenant; D. S. Henderson, state senator from Aiken; Colonel George G. Johnstone, ex-congressman from the Third district, and Wiley Jones, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee and executive officer of the Carolina National bank. Between Johnstone and Latimer there is no good feeling, and this race may be as interesting as it promised to be before the conditions were changed and McLaurin, as it were, was put on the offensive.

The governor has the right to appoint regardless of party action, and an effort will be made to get him to appoint new men on the ground that Tillman and McLaurin have overstepped the bounds of propriety.

The State newspaper editorially today calls on a third candidate to go into the race with Tillman and McLaurin, hoping that the two latter will be defeated.

The Tillman-McLaurin Fight.

ATLANTA, May 27.—A special to The Constitution from Gaffney, S. C., says: "Senator McLaurin, when asked about the resignations, said: 'Tillman made a bluff, and I called him. All I desire is a free, fair and open fight on the issues upon which we differ. I earnestly hope that all others will keep out of our race and run for the other senatorship, so that Tillman and I may meet as man to man and fight it out.'"

BARK'S CREW LOST.

A Collision Off Cape Sable—Fourteen Find Watery Grave.

BOSTON, May 27.—The Norwegian bark Elise, Captain C. Morch, from Moss, on Christiania fjord, for New York, in ballast, has been sunk off Cape Sable by collision with the Wilson line steamer Ohio from Hull, England.

The steamer was proceeding at fog speed, with Captain Hadaway on the bridge. A steamer's fog horn or whistle was heard dead ahead. The helm was put hard port and the engines astern. Suddenly out of the fog appeared the outlines of a bark on the starboard bow. The bark was sailing on the wind with full topsails, courses and staysails set and struck the steamer on the bow and after stopping momentarily drifted astern.

A call for help was heard, and a vessel's boat with a young sailor in it was picked up. He could give little information intelligibly. The sailor was brought here and an interpreter secured. The sailor said that he was 16 years of age and Powel Christian Paulsen by name. He said the bark sank shortly after the collision with her crew of 14 men on board.

Kidnapers Threaten Edison.

ORANGE, N. J., May 27.—Thomas A. Edison has announced that he had received a letter containing a threat to kidnap his daughter Madeline, 12 years old, if a certain sum of money was not left at a deserted place in the mountains. The letter was signed with the word "Remember." The police of West Orange were informed. It was not written, but printed, evidently with rubber type. Mr. Edison has engaged private detectives to run down the sender of the letter. Two extra watchmen also have been employed, one of them being appointed special guardian for the two Edison children, Madeline and Charles.

Thirty-two Bodies Recovered.

LONDON, May 27.—Thirty-two bodies, some of them terribly mutilated, have been recovered at the Universal colliery, in Senghenydd, in the Rhondda valley, where an explosion occurred last Friday morning. The grewsome work proceeds very slowly, and many painful scenes are witnessed at the pit's mouth. King Edward has sent a message of deep sympathy with the families of the victims and of admiration of the gallantry of the rescuers.

Railroad Blocked by Landslide.

PITTSBURG, May 27.—The heavy rains of the past 24 hours caused a landslide which will delay the Panhandle trains for about 36 hours. About 600 tons of earth and stone came down from Mount Washington behind the McClintock mills, completely covering the Panhandle tracks and carrying away the 20 foot retaining wall which had lately been built. Trains will use the Ohio connecting bridge until the damage is repaired.

Another Oil Strike.

DALLAS, May 27.—A great strike of oil has been made at Sour Lake, 20 miles northwest of Beaumont. A well was struck at 5 o'clock Saturday evening in the rear of the Sour Lake hotel and at once became a gusher, flowing at the rate of 15,000 barrels a day. This new strike, so far from the Beaumont field, has caused renewed excitement all over Texas, and a rush to the new district is already on.

A Brutal Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—Robert Hislop, a 13-year-old boy, was brutally murdered by burglars at his father's residence on Haight street. He was alone in the house and in bed, and the burglars, fearing presumably that he would raise an outcry, repeatedly struck him over the head with a blunt instrument, crushing his skull. Then they ran out of the house and made their escape, securing little of value.

Stricken In Church.

SYRACUSE, May 27.—Mrs. Phebe C. Griffin, widow of the late J. P. Griffin, long connected with Syracuse university, was taken ill during the morning services at the University Avenue M. E. church and died a few minutes after being taken to her home. Heart disease was the cause of death. The deceased was 77 years of age.

Siegel Now In Jail.

KANSAS CITY, May 27.—Frank Siegel, late president of the Siegel-Sanders Commission company, in which Frank Rockefeller is largely interested, has surrendered himself to the county marshal in response to the warrant charging him with embezzlement which was sworn out by Receiver Utley Wedge. Siegel is now in the county jail.

A CLASH IN PEKING.

American Sentry Disregarded by Germans.

KAISER'S SOLDIERS MAKE TROUBLE.

Unfriendly Attitude Caused by Our Legation Guard Retaining Control of One Forbidden City Gate.

PEKING, May 27.—The United States legation guard has had its first trouble. Legation street is being repaired near the legation, and an American sentry was placed at the point with orders to direct people around by a side street. Everybody obeyed with the exception of the Germans, both officers and soldiers, who have caused the American sentries much trouble.

One of the German officers drew his sword and charged an American soldier, who brought his bayonet to charge, whereupon the officer desisted. Subsequently a German soldier charged past the sentry, who fired, hitting another German soldier near the German legation, a quarter of a mile off. This fortunately was only a slight flesh wound. The sentry has been placed under arrest, and Major Robertson has instituted an investigation.

The attitude of Dr. Mumm von Schwartzenstein, German minister, representing the civilians, and Count von Waldersee, representing the military, as well as that of other high officials, has been particularly friendly toward the Americans, which makes all the more pronounced the unfriendly feeling evinced by a majority of the German officers and men. This unfriendliness is attributed to the American attitude in retaining control with the legation guard of one entrance to the Forbidden City, which the Germans consider a reflection upon their national honesty.

Yesterday's meeting of the ministers of the powers was devoted to closing up details of business independent of the indemnity question, although the military authorities of the various powers seem to consider a settlement in sight, as general preparations are being made for the evacuation of Peking in the early future.

Emperor Kwang Su has instructed agents to prepare the palaces for occupation by the court so soon as the troops depart.

The Hawaiian Troubles.

CHICAGO, May 27.—Samuel Parker, foreign minister in Hawaii when Liliuokalani was on the throne, has arrived here. In speaking of existing conditions on the island he said: "You hear about the Hawaiian or patriotic native party demanding Governor Dole's deposition. It's simply politics. The outs want to get in. They assume virtuous names, that's all. They have the legislature, but cannot get over the governor's vetoes on some of their pet measures. The islanders are prosperous under the new regime. To illustrate: Before annexation I could get only 3 or 4 cents a pound for my beef. Now I can get 10 or 11 cents, and the supply cannot keep up with the demand. The Porto Ricans, imported as laborers, have turned out well."

American Trap Shooters Sail.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The team of American trap shooters selected to represent the United States in the match with the British experts for $2,500 a side at the Middlesex Gun Club's grounds near London on Junt 11 and following days sailed for Liverpool on board the steamship Canadian. The match shoot will be at 5,000 inanimate targets a side, the Englishmen to have the use of both barrels and the Americans to use but one barrel. Several well known trap shooters accompanied the team, and in case of accident or emergency some of these will be called upon to act as substitutes.

A Big Sunday School Class.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 27.—A Sunday school class of over 4,000 was the spectacle presented at the Dunkard national conference. The meeting was in charge of a committee of three elders, who served more in the capacity of superintendents than as teachers. Following the Sunday school came preaching services in the big tabernacle, making an almost continuous service throughout the day and evening. When the tabernacle was too greatly taxed, overflow meetings were held in the open. In addition to the conference Dunkards occupied the pulpits in nearly all the city churches morning and evening.

Bank Robbers Get Much Gold.

MADISON, Wis., May 27.—Bank robbers made a rich haul at Mineral Point, about 40 miles west of this city, on the Northwestern road. They blew open the safe of the First National bank and got away with about $30,000 in cash, of which $20,000 was in gold. The robbery was the work of experts. There has been no clew to their identity discovered thus far. Officers from this point are making every effort to locate them, and the services of the Pinkerton detective agency has been enlisted.

Indiana Coal Operators Combine.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 27.—A meeting of the coal operators of the Indiana bituminous fields was held in the offices of J. Smith Lalley, president of the Indiana Coal Operators' association, and further plans were discussed for the organization of the Indiana coal operators' combine. Over $5,000,000 worth of coal property was represented at the meeting, and the proposed combine will assume official recognition within a week by the election of officers.

Farmer a Suicide.

ONEONTA, N. Y., May 27.—Daniel Hull, a well to do farmer residing at Fly Creek, committed suicide by shooting himself. Hull separated from his wife many years ago, and a few days ago his housekeeper was taken to the county house, thought to be suffering from insanity. It is surmised that Hull became melancholy over the loneliness of his home. He was 55 years of age.

Russian Paper Held Up.

LONDON, May 27.—A Reuter dispatch from St. Petersburg says the publication of the Novoe Vremya has been prohibited for a week because it urged the government to help workmen and the unemployed as the best means to combat revolutionary tendencies.

A Move in the Right Direction.

Prominent on the list of Plainfield's attractions is the beauty of the city and its streets and residences. Residents have taken a pride in making their homes and the surrounding lawns as beautiful as possible. In a direct line with that policy was the action of the Common Council over a year ago which resulted in the disappearance of many of the unsightly wires and poles of the telephone company and the installation of a system of underground conduits for holding the wires. There was no doubt about the great improvement to the general appearance to the city.

Then some of the wires of the electric light company were also placed underground and more overhead wires and poles disappeared. This change was also along the same line. There still remain, however, a few poles which will probably have to stay for sometime.

The poles that now remain are not additions to the beauty of the landscape under any circumstances but it is very desirable that they should be made as inoffensive as possible. An ordinance, which was passed by the Council at the special meeting Thursday evening, was drawn with that intent. It provides that any one who shall in any way attach any writing, picture, paper or sign to any of these poles in the city shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $15 for each offense.

It has been the habit of many advertisers to decorate the telephone, telegraph and electric light poles with a varied assortment of signs. This collection is anything but pleasing to look upon and has tended to make the poles even more offensive than they would otherwise be. It is with a view toward abating that nuisance that the ordinance was introduced and passed. It was brought before the Council by Councilman Buckle, chairman of the police committee, at the request of his colleague, Councilman Tolles, chairman of the street committee. Its particular relation to the latter committee consisted of a provision which allowed the placing of street signs only on the poles in question.

Four well-known citizens, who reside in the neighborhood of the proposed site for the new hospital, have appeared in public print as opposing the location of the hospital there. Their objections seem to be twofold. They fear that the establishment of a separate system of sewers for the hospital will affect the health of that vicinity. They also object very strongly to the chance of occasionally having cases of contagious disease located there. The members of the Board of Governors of the hospital have gone over the situation very carefully. They considered the advantages of no end of different sites. They have finally decided in favor of the present site. It is not to be expected that everybody will be satisfied but the majority of the people of Plainfield are of the belief that these men have done the best they could and that their action, coming as it did after careful and exhaustive investigation, is perfectly justified.

Strangers who visit Plainfield these days comment on the fine system of street signs which this city now possesses. This system should be extended to the borough without delay. There are very few street signs in the borough and some of those are so misplaced as to made it impossible to tell which street is designated. If the present administration of North Plainfield desires to win the commendation of all, let it continue the good work which has been done on this side of the brook.

The Philadelphia Record relates that in an address before the Manufacturers' Association, of Kansas City, an experienced advertiser, Mr. D. M. Lord said: "The big newspapers and advertising mediums are the morning newspapers. They have the large circulations. They go into the homes bright and early, and are read by men and women before they come down town and when the mind is receptive. Advertising should be just as fresh as telegraphic news. It is read with as much interest."

The Newark plank road is still closed despite all efforts to arrange a satisfactory settlement between the counties of Essex and Hudson and the traction companies. It is hoped, however, that the latest attempt at a settlement will be a success and that the Hudson county Freeholders will approve it at their meeting this afternoon.

Thomas A. Edison's latest invention, a light weight storage battery which promises to be a very important feature in the development of electric vehicles, is to be placed on the market. A company with a capital of $1,000,000 has just been incorporated at Newark for the purpose of manufacturing these batteries.

Rumors of the establishment of a Roman Catholic educational institution near Metuchen have been heard for some time. These rumors are now declared to be true, and it is said that the new institution will be ready to open in the fall.

The Daily Press is indebted to State Game Warden C. M. Hawkins for a complete copy of the new fish and game laws of New Jersey. These laws have recently been revised and there are a number of changes.

Rainy Saturdays are getting to be quite the thing. They may be of much benefit to the plant and vegetable life but the half holiday outings of many thousands of people were spoiled thereby.

The month of June will be ushered in in Plainfield by a number of weddings.

Old Soldier's Experience.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

A part of Senator Kean's plan for reclaiming a portion of the Newark meadows has been vetoed by the Secretary of War, who refuses to change the line for solid filling in front of the Senator's property on Newark Bay. Happily, this does not mean that the improvement will be abandoned, as it is announced that the plans will be carried out just as far as possible so as not to conflict with the ruling of Secretary Root. In spite of all obstacles, the reclamation of the meadows will become a fact some time. Haste the day!—Newark News.

MANY USE IT.

The celebrated Dragon brand of Portland cement, made by the Lawrence Cement Company, of which Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, is the president, is being used exclusively by the Gleason-Kiely Contracting Company, of Syracuse, in the extensive improvements being made at the sewage farm. The superiority and reliability of this cement is constantly being attested to. The contractors at work at the Custom House, New York, are also using this cement, and it will also be used in the construction of the new Stock Exchange in New York. The Lawrence Cement Company is one of the leading concerns in the United States.

"SHADES OF NIGHT" GIVEN BY AMATEURS.

I was hurrying down the street today
When just by Neuman's store I heard
Behind a voice call out—"Here is one verse more."
I'd had such work to get the rest, the mill it ground so slow,
The supply it came, I suppose you know, from little Georgie Coe.

Chorus.

I had to go back,
I had to go back—
I needed that single verse more.
It's the last one of all, and will please you I know,
For it leaves out that beautiful shore.

When work is dull you sometimes take
An early train and say,
The day's so fine, I think I'll try
A game of golf today.
You do a hole in three or four
And think you've struck your gait,
But your language on the 18th hole,
I wouldn't like to state.

Chorus.

For all of us know
The kind of a show
A man makes of himself, when he's blocked on
The fifth or sixth tee,
If you don't, go and see
The gentle and mild Harry Stockton.

I really cannot sing again, not even one more verse,
I started out quite badly and have gone from bad to worse.
There are lots of good things yet to come, and each man must have his fling.
So if you are not tired of this, please get Bill Cock to sing.

Chorus.

For I'll never come back,
I'll never come back;
But if you are longing for more,
And have not had enough of this terrible stuff,
You can buy the whole song at the door.

"If Thy Blue Eyes," sung by William Tallamy, received an encore, as did also the "Berkeley March" played as a banjo quartette by Ralph A. Osmun, George Dupee, A. Willis West and C. H. Heermance. Laurens H. VanBuren received a storm of applause when he sang "Coon, Coon, Coon," touching it off in an inimicable darkey style. Another good number was "Our Little Nipper" rendered by Arthur Masters.

The end men afforded much merriment throughout the show. There was plenty of good, wholesome fun in their hits, and many of them caused unrestrained laughter. One, representing Peter Matthews discovered on Watchung avenue in the city in the dead of night, as late as 9 o'clock, seeking Former Mayor Fisk, brought out the sally that when Plainfield is as dead as the borough it will be laid out properly.

Another was at the expense of City Judge Runyon. The Judge was unable to collect a fine from a prisoner, and on learning that the man was a pickpocket, he ordered Chief Kiely to turn the offender loose in the courtroom for a while.

"Why is the rector of Grace church the best fisherman in the vicinity?" brought out the reply that he is the most famous Rod-man. In answer to a question Laurens VanBuren said he had never seen a girl get a pearl out of an oyster, but he had seen one get a diamond necklace out of a lobster.

The makeup of the end men was coquettish. Robert Rushmore's immense palm leaf fan and Laurens Van Buren's big diamond ring attracted considerable attention.

Both the afternoon and evening performances were decidedly successful. In the evening there was scarcely standing room when the curtain rose on the first act.

FUNERAL OF MRS. DAY.

Services Were Held From St. Mary's Church This Morning.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Richard Day were held this morning from St. Mary's church. They were conducted by Rev. The display of floral tributes was very handsome, and consisted of a number of large set pieces. Those who acted as pall bearers were Thomas and James Buckley, William Goeller, Michael O'Keefe, William Sullivan and John Carney. At the close of the service the remains were interred in St. Mary's cemetery.

SERVICE AT GRAVE.

Tribute to Memory of Anthony Kreger, One of Little Choristers at Holy Cross Church.

Anthony Kreger, Jr., one of the little choristers of the Church of the Holy Cross, who died from diphtheria Friday, was touchingly remembered at the morning service yesterday.

His place in the choir stall was covered with wreaths and beautiful flowers, while his hymnal was draped in black.

The rector, Rev. Wm. Montgomery Downey, during the course of the service, made a short address in which he feelingly referred to the sad departure of the little lad.

In the afternoon the rector and the choir gathered at the grave of the chorister and held an appropriate service. Prayers for the dead were said by the clergyman and the choir sang with much pathos a number of the church's inspiring hymns. "Abide With Me," "In the Hour of Trial," "Nearer My God to Thee," were sung, and then an attempt was made to render the little fellow's favorite tune, "Jerusalem, the Golden," but the sorrowing choristers completely broke down and were unable to sing the concluding stanzas. Rev. Mr. Downey ended the service with the benediction.

SUCCESSFUL SALE.

Was Held in Guild Rooms of St. Stephen's Church Saturday.

A successful sale was held Saturday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock in the guild room of St. Stephen's church, for the purpose of raising money to purchase new hangings for the chancel. Those in charge were much pleased when they learned that $32 were cleared from the sale. Despite the very stormy weather the attendance was large.

Mrs. Albert J. Beal and Miss Clark arranged the sale and they took charge of the booth where all all kinds of pretty handkerchiefs were offered for sale. Miss Edna Willis and Miss Mamie Ericksen were in charge of the cake and lemonade booth and Miss Lulu Peterson presided at the candy table.

OVER NINETY YEARS OLD.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The remains will be brought to Plainfield Wednesday for interment in the Baptist cemetery on Plainfield avenue.

Properly Fitted Glasses are Almost as Essential as properly fitted lenses

Lenses should be mounted that the centres will be exactly opposite the pupils of the Eyes. In any other position they cause strain and have a tendency to produce double sight. The Bridge or nose piece should fit so well that wabbling would be impossible, and should bear equally at all points.

CHAPTER I.

On the night of the 5th of December, 1882, the first fierce storm of the winter was raging in Brooklyn.

The wind howled and shrieked, and drifting snow clung in crusts on the windows. But the fire burned furiously in John Olmstead's library, where he sat in a comfortable arm-chair, his slippered feet on the fender, supposed to be listening while his nephew, Robert Stanton, read aloud to him.

The old man was called "crusty" at large, and crusty he surely was. He stood well up among the wealthiest men in Brooklyn, and, having been a widower almost all his life, he had become so thoroughly accustomed to his own way that he had outlived even the passing suggestion that there could by any possibility be any other way.

He was supposed to be listening. His eyes were fixed in a fierce, determined stare upon the glowing coals. His forehead was furrowed. His right hand wandered restlessly over his left arm and shoulder, as though seeking the seat of something that was out of order there.

He was supposed to be listening, but he was not listening. His mind was working back some two-and-twenty years, on a night very much like this one, only later in the winter, when he sat before the fire in that same library and read a letter disclosing, to his horror, the fact that he had a two-year-old nephew.

Then it took another jump backward, indefinitely, and he thought of the mother of the boy, his only sister, Mary. From childhood he had supported her; but when his beautiful young wife died and he really needed a sister to help him manage his grand home, Mary deliberately deserted him to marry a farming fellow from away in some romantic, unknown obscurity—a fellow whose only prospects lay in a few miserable, mortgaged acres.

It was made all the worse by the fact that Mary had stubbornly refused to marry Thaddeus Braddon, John Olmstead's best friend, who had been her devoted lover from girlhood, who was then in the west, coining a great fortune, ready to return to Brooklyn to live the moment Mary said the word.

John Olmstead remembered how he had spoken his mind to Mary, and how the only effect it had was that never another word did he hear from her or her husband till the letter that came on that stormy night, 22 years before, written by the selectmen of the unknown obscurity, announcing that his sister had died two years and her husband a week before, leaving nothing but debts and one male child, two years old, named Robert Stanton. It notified him that the child would be held for a limited period subject to his order, and, in default, would be advertised and manipulated as town's poor.

Of course the "thing," as John Olmstead called it, was brought to his Brooklyn mansion and properly cared for, but he had conceived such a dislike at the start that Robert Stanton grew up and actually left for college before the lack of him about the house opened his uncle's eyes to the fact that under his supposed dislike there had sprung up a great, unreasoning, unbounded fondness for the boy.

From that moment there was nothing too good for his nephew, in the old man's estimation, and the happiest days he had known since his wife died were when Stanton came back, after graduating from the law school, settled down in the old home, and opened an office in New York.

The young lawyer was not a model done in wax, but a very fair result of the conditions under which he had been developing. He was rugged, honest and refined. He had not the remotest idea of the meaning of such words as self-denial or self-sacrifice, or of such a quality as patience in suffering or adversity.

The utter lack of feminine influence about the house left the genial and social side of his nature wholly undeveloped. He thought society a bore, and society thought him cold and proud. Unlimited financial resources overburdened him with persistent friends till he easily fell into a way of holding every one at arm's length and constantly pushing, lest they should come too near and annoy him.

He was generous because it was agreeable. It relieved him of a surplus that would otherwise have been burdensome; it rid him, quickly and easily, of disagreeable things in the line of philanthropic tramps. Wholly unwitting, he won for himself a reputation for phenomenal liberality, which, connected with his many conflicting characteristics, produced the universal conviction that he was sure to develop into a prodigy of genius.

His habits were scrupulously circumspect, chiefly, no doubt, because any others would have forced him, more or less, into some sort of society; and underneath it all were sound, native common sense and a rare adaptability to his profession.

Thus far the only disagreeable phase of life to which he had been obliged to submit was his uncle's determination that he should marry, which effectually established in him a determination never to do anything of the kind. It was not conscious stubbornness. It was simply unbroken nature, instinct.

This was the path over which the old man's thoughts were wandering while his right hand wandered over his left arm and shoulder and sometimes down along his left leg and knee.

Stanton noticed the inattention, and once or twice glanced up, between the lines. He fancied his uncle was not feeling well, and would have been glad to offer some relief, but perfect health was the one thing upon which John Olmstead prided himself and which it was never safe to question. His one boast, always pushing his fingers through his white hair, was that he had never consulted a physician in his life.

The tall clock in the corner began striking ten, and the clock in the great tower, a few blocks away, joined it, a single stroke behind. One was regulated by John Olmstead, the other by the official timekeeper, and for more than 20 years they had told the same story as they were telling it to-night.

Stanton paused for an instant and glanced at his uncle, dropped his book and sprang to the arm-chair.

The old man's face was flushed. His forehead was wet. He was awake, but he breathed like one sleeping too heavily. In a wild stare his eyes were fixed on his left hand.

With his right hand he clutched the sleeve of the left arm, lifted it a little way, and let it fall, muttering:

"Dead, Robert. Dead."

Stanton rang for Sam, the general man-servant, whispering: "Dr. Morton, Sam. Be quick."

Sam staggered out into the raging storm, his mind struggling with the fact that the master was ill, much as his body struggled in the drifts. He was trying to do two things at once, which was always too much for him, and between the two he blundered and rang the bell at the door of Rev. Dr. Borden's home.

John Olmstead was not a communicant, but he was a highly valued and respected supporter of Dr. Borden's church. The good doctor opened the door himself. Sam shouted from the storm: "Mr. John Olmstead is sick, sir. Come quick." Then discovering his mistake, he started away, without a word of explanation, to summon Dr. Morton.

A single glance told the physician why he had been called. He asked a few questions, chiefly to test the mind and the face-muscles, looked into the patient's eyes, and, kneeling, began to manipulate the left leg and arm.

"Well?" said John Olmstead, impatiently.

Dr. Morton did not stop his examination, but spoke slowly:

"I should say it was a slight stroke of apoplexy, probably caused by an immaterial hemorrhage on the brain. There is still sensation here. I think it will steadily return, and in two or three weeks you will—"

He was testing the pulse in the right wrist. Quickly he followed it to the elbow, and his face changed as he uncovered the patient's chest and began a careful examination about the heart.

"Dead, Robert. Dead!"

"Well?" Olmstead muttered, nervously.

As though thinking aloud, being called upon for an opinion before it was fully formed, the physician replied:

"There's a enlarged area of heart-dullness and an accentuated second sound and murmur. I'm afraid the apoplexy came from heart disease and arterial degeneration. Are you under treatment for your heart?"

"Never had a doctor in my life," John Olmstead muttered.

"Your heart must have given you a great deal of trouble."

"Never troubled me at all."

"No shortness of breath?"

"Of course. I'm growing old."

"Haven't you had to sit down after climbing stairs?"

"I'm too heavy for stairs. I gave up leaving the ground floor long ago, unless there is an elevator."

HE HAD A POOR OPINION.

The influence of some free advertising must be considerable. The editor of a New York trade journal was impressed with this fact by a circumstance which he relates, as follows:

Coming down on the "L" this morning, I sat next a man perhaps 60 years old, before whom was standing another man about 40 years old. They started to talk about dyspepsia, and I listened. "I have been suffering for eight months horribly with dyspepsia," said the elder man. "You know what a poor opinion I have of all patent medicines, but here is one that is perfect." Embroidery of flowers in the natural colors is a new decoration. This is shown in the costume illustrated, which is of wood brown satin cloth, the skirt laid in stitched plaits. The coat bodice has a short basque at the back and is cut away in front, fastening diagonally with two white silk buttons. The collar, revers and tight vest are of white silk embroidered with pompadour flowers, and the sleeves are gathered into embroidered silk cuffs. The collar and cravat are of embroidered white lawn. From committee on jail inspection:

Elizabeth, N. J., May 7, 1901.

To the Honorable the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union:

Gentlemen: In compliance with the rules of the board the committee on jail inspection herewith respectfully submit their annual report for the year ending May 1st, 1901; together with that is a carefully prepared report by the warden of the receipts, expenditures, number of prisoners, ages, sex, nationalities, commitments, discharges and cost of maintenance for each prisoner per day, etc.

Receipts amount to four thousand, two hundred and seventy-six dollars and seventy-two cents ($4,276.72); the expenditures for all purposes, viz: salaries, provisions, medical attention, clothing, supplies, miscellaneous, etc, four thousand, two hundred and seventy-six dollars and seventy-two cents $4 276 72; the number of prisoners in custody at the beignning of the year, fifty-one, 51; received during the year, five hundred and ninety-one, 591; the whole number in custody, during the year, six hundred and forty-two, 642; discharged five hundred and ninety-three, 593; the number in custody at date, forty-nine, 49; the average number in custody each day, fifty-one and one-third, 51⅓; total number of days' board of prisoners, eighteen thousand six hundred and forty-two, 18 642; the average term of individual imprisonment in days, twenty-nine, 29; the average cost per prisoner, twenty-two and ninety-four one-hundredths cents, 22 94-100 cents.

During the year the prisoners are daily employed about the building in cleaning and attending the furnace, storing coal, and being generally useful; the very liberal expenditure and general good management of the county jail is wholly due to the efficient services of the warden, matron and deputy warden, who have conducted the proceedings agreeably to the entire satisfaction of your committee.

It affords your committee great pleasure to say that the management and general condition of the jail has been highly commended by the States Charity Aid Association through its efficient secretary, Mrs. E. E. Williamson, and also by the grand jury of the county, as expressed in a very complimentary resolution dated January 30, 1901.

This condition, in the opinion of your committee, is highly creditable to the county, and no doubt gratifying to the board.

Your committee would further report that at their meeting on April 30 Dr. P. DuBois Bunting was appointed physician of the county jail for the ensuing year at the usual compensation.

Signed, W. A. Westphal, John F. Wahl, Joseph McCandless, Committee.

Attached to the foregoing was the following report by Charles W Dodd, warden.

In connection with my report I would like to state that the general health of the prisoners has been good during the year. The jail physician, Dr. F. R. Baily, was prompt in his attendance, and in every respect satisfactory. With many thanks to the committee on jail inspection for their co-operation with me in the discharge of my duties as warden, and with especial thanks to the director, J. Frank Hubbard, for his assistance and advice in all matters pertaining to the general good management of the county jail, I remain,

Signed, Yours respectfully,
Charles W. Dodd, Jail Warden.

Interesting Gossip for the "Harness Horse" Followers

It matters little to followers of the harness horse world whether the champion trotter, The Abbot (2:03¼), races this season or merely "shows" at the big tracks of the country. The animal that displaced "Sweet Little Mare Alix" as champion by half a second holds such a high place in the hearts of horse lovers that they would feel very bad were The Abbot to meet Boralma, Cresceus or Charley Herr and be defeated. "Silent Ed" Geers, the driver, who knows more about trotters than almost any other turfman, recently was reported as saying that he would reach the coveted "two-minute" mark with The Abbot, but he speedily "called down" the interviewer who put the words in his mouth. Geers will rate an animal along without looking at a timer as accurately as a machinist could guide the cutting operations of a lathe, but he is not prepared to make predictions about two-minute trotters.

THE ABBOT, 2:03¼.

When Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston millionaire owner of Boralma (2:06), got to talking about $50,000 match races and hastened to get out certified checks for thousands of dollars to bind a match with The Abbot, it looked as if the greatest harness event in the history of the turf was about to be assured. Then when these negotiations fell through and the grand circuit September meet at Hartford seemed likely to have a $20,000 added race with Boralma, Cresceus (2:04¾), Charley Herr (2:07) and The Abbot as contenders, with $10,000 a side, it looked more like a race than ever. However anxious Mr. Scannell, the new owner of The Abbot, may be to race this wonder, it may be late in September before The Abbot is given a real hard test in a race. If a contract is binding, The Abbot and Cresceus are matched to race this fall.

The Abbot is much in the public eye. Last year at Terre Haute this speed wonder made a mile in 2:03¼, and thousands of people who had become admirers of that pretty mare Alix, forgot the mark, but one-half second slower, set by Alix at Galesburg several years ago, and talked of the Abbot. One peculiarity of The Abbot's champion performance is that his third quarter was the fastest, while the last quarter was done in slightly better time than his first. When Alix made her world's record she stepped the first quarter in 30½, whereas The Abbot consumed 31¾ seconds in traversing the two furlongs. Alix did the second quarter in 31¼ to The Abbot's 30½, and while Alix's third quarter was 31 flat, the new champion's time was 29½. Alix took 31 for the last quarter, while The Abbot used a half second more.

That wonderful veteran, C. J. Hamlin, of the Village farm, who bred The Abbot, who is a son of Chimes, that famous marvel of speed that was once the apple of the eye of the sage of the Village farm, says that like his sire, The Abbot might have developed much speed had he been raced when younger. No follower of the turf doubts that Mr. Hamlin let up on Chimes every time he thought he was demanding too much of the son of Electioneer. Mr. Hamlin's great animal did not begin his turf career until 1897, when he was four years old. The Merchants' and Manufacturers' stake at Detroit was the one in which he made his equine bow to the public that some time afterward paid homage to him as a champion.

Horsemen would not call this bay with white on his left hind foot a "handsome horse," yet they would say that he had all of the distinguishing characteristics of a wonderful speed-maintaining animal. The protruding chest and apparent wealth of breathing space, the wide-flaring nostrils and powerful hindquarters, all indicate the stamina the animal possesses to maintain those bursts of speed. The Abbot came by his speed honestly, as the followers of the sprinters on the running turf would say. He gets it by inheritance, for Chimes, his sire, was bred at Palo Alto farm, in California, by the late Senator Leland Stanford with a view of producing a reliable speed animal.

"Yes, I think I will drive The Abbot this season," said Ed Geers when questioned recently, "and I expect that he will show as great a form as he did last season. I drove him in the first race he ever started in and he did nothing in the first heat but finish away back in the field in the stake. It looked to me as if he was game enough to stand a hard drive, and I sent him out to do his best in the second heat. This he won in 2:11½, and unable to get around that mark again, he finished back in the ruck and fourth money was his portion for his endeavors. He started in nine other races that season, in six of which he triumphed. He was unplaced twice and distanced in the remainder of the events. When he retired that year his mark was 2:11½."

Strictly speaking The Abbot is not a horse but a gelding, and that fact gave him the record in 1898 as a five-year-old gelding with a mark of 2:08. This was a good year for the bay, he having won six races out of ten. It was in 1899 that The Abbot compelled the attention of the harness world by starting ten times, winning every time, and showing a record of 29 heats trotted, the fastest being 2:06¼ and the slowest 2:10¼.

CRESCEUS, 2:04¾.

Small wonder than after this season which, it is said by old timers, stands without parallel, the harness horse followers began to wonder what Mr. Hamlin would do with the gelding in 1900 unless he resorted to the plan of starting this animal against the watch. In July the faithful animal was sent against time at Detroit, but failed to lower his own record. The following month he made the reading 2:05¾. Then, as the followers of the performances of this great unsexed horse will recall, came his 2:04 at the Empire City track near New York. This was followed by his Terre Haute ex

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

A four inning game of baseball was played Saturday between the Park and Watchung baseball teams. The rain interfered with the progress of the contest and when the game was called the score stood 7 to 7.

The Little Eagles and the West End Athletic Club teams played a game of baseball Saturday afternoon on the Monroe avenue grounds. The Eagles won the game by a score of 17 to 2 The battery was Sullivan and Martin. Grobe and Pugh was the battery for the West End Athletic Club.

Decoration Day morning the St. Mary ball team will play the Roselle Athletic Club on the latter's grounds. In the afternoon they play St. Peter and St. Paul's Lyceum, of New York, on the local grounds. It will be an interesting game and the officials of the club have announced that all strikers will be admitted to the grounds without cost.

The old golf grounds on Plainfield avenue were the scene of an exciting ball game Saturday afternoon between the Jockey Club and the Netherwood Terrors. The former team won by a score of 17 to 7. Vandeventer and Freeman composed the battery for the Netherwoods and Firstbrook and Mullen for the Jockey Club. Firstbrook struck out 8 men and Freeman 3.

The local nines are extremely fortunate in having strong pitchers. Montrose, of the Hope Chapel team, is really a phenomenal player, and the great feature of his work is that he is seldom erratic. Winn and O'Keefe, of the St. Mary's, team, are both brilliant players. Winn pitched his first game for some time on last Saturday in the contest against Hope chapel, and clearly showed that when he gets into form some great work can be expected from him. Doyle, of the Plainfield A. A.'s, and Squier, of the Clinton Avenues, both have swift deliveries and possess good judgment. The City and Borough High School team can feel proud of their pitchers. VanAuken, of the former, and Crite, of the latter team, are not to be discounted. Two other good men are George Dupee and Ralph Schoonmaker, who play in the Leal's team. Both of them are quick and true.

PRINCETON FRESHMEN DEFEAT HILLSIDE CLUB.

First Match At Local Golf Club This Season Resulted In a Defeat 12 To 8.

PLAYED IN DRENCHING RAIN.

MRS. N. PENDLETON ROGERS NOW LEADS FOR GOLF COMMITTEE CUP.

Won First Honors In Saturday's Competition—Preliminary Rounds For Chapman Cup And Club Championship—W. L. Glenny Was Low Man.

The drenching rain of Saturday was no discouragement to the enthusiastic golfers of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club for, despite this fact, the regular schedule was followed and there was a goodly number of contestants on the course. The rain fell in torrents and the course was thoroughly soaked, but even this did not prevent the players from making low scores. Some of the best golfers were out, and they are rapidly getting into their old-time form.

In the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup there was much interest and rivalry. Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, who is rapidly getting into championship form, made the rounds of the course and finished a winner with a net score of 83. This gave her three points, and instead of being tie with Townsend Bushmore for first place, she now leads in the contest with six points to her credit. W. L Glenny and D. H. Barrows tied for second honors with a net score of 85. Each receives a point and a half. This puts Glenny in fourth place with 2½ points to his credit and Barrows is among the list of those with 1½ points.

The standing for the cup at present is as follows, and as will be seen the contest is very close:

	Points.
Mrs. N. P. Rogers	6
Townsend Bushmore	3
Howard C. Tracy	3
W. L. Glenny	2½
H. R Stockton	2
Howard Wright	1½
A. G. Henderson	1½
Howard Huntington	1½
E. A. Stevenson	1½
D. H. Barrows	1½

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Mrs. N. P. Rogers	101	18	83
W. L. Glenny	85	0	85
D. H. Barrows	100	15	85
H. P. Wright	89	2	87
Geo. VanBoskerck	99	10	89
Thos. VanBoskerck	101	10	91
H. R. Stockton	101	10	91
J. H. P. Wharton	94	2	92
Olaf Saugstad	103	10	93
R. F. Murray	103	10	93
J. W. Baker	94	0	94
M. J. Dumont	100	4	96

The result of the preliminary round for the Chapman cup and the club scratch championship follows: W. L. Glenny, 85; H. P. Wright, 89; J. W. Baker, 94; J. H. P. Wharton, 94; Geo. VanBoskerck, 99; M. J. Dumont, 100; D. H. Barrows, 100; H. R. Stockton, 101; Mrs. N. P. Rogers, 101; Thomas VanBoskerck, 101; Olaf Saugstad, 103; R. F. Murray, 103.

The first eight qualified for the first round of match play Decoration Day morning, Mrs. Rogers and J. H. P. Wharton, withdrawing from the contest. They will play as follows: Dumont against Baker, Glenny against Stockton, Geo. VanBoskerck against Barrows, Wright against Thos. Van Boskerck. In the afternoon of Decoration Day the first winner of the morning play will contest with the second winner and the third with the fourth winner. The finals will be played the following Saturday.

Another event of considerable interest was the team match between Hillside and Princeton, 1904. It was the first game for the home team and much to the disappointment of the club the members were defeated by a score of 12 to 8. The defeat was no discredit to the team, however, for every member put up a good game. Frelinghuysen, of the visiting team, won the honors of the day for he was the only one to score. It was he who won the game for his team and he alone deserves the credit. J. Whitney Baker, a member of the Hillside Club, played with the visitors, but he failed to beat his opponent, J. H. P. Wharton. The results in detail follow:

Hillside.		Princeton.
W. L. Glenny	1	A. Poole, Jr.	0
J. H P. Wharton	1	J. W. Baker	0
H. P. Wright	3	F. J. Sloan	0

Photographs Show Flies in Amber.

When the smacks reached Lowestoft recently one of the fishermen brought with him a unique piece of amber which he had found in his net, says a London newspaper. He sent it to London and sold it for £27 10s. It is a huge pebble, resembling in shape an oblong potato, and it weighs within half an ounce of two pounds—the finest specimen of amber which has been found on the English coast in many years. On the subject of amber it may be mentioned that a Streatham gentleman has at last succeeded in photographing flies in amber. Amber shows dead black on a photograph and under the microscope. He has discovered a fluid into which he puts the amber and then photographs through it. As some of the flies in amber are of a forgotten type, dating back to before the flood, the results are interesting.

The Mammoth Cave's War Supplies.

It has been averred that but for the saltpeter furnished by the Mammoth cave of Kentucky and by some smaller limestone caverns the United States would have been unable successfully to wage the war of 1812. Even during the civil war these cave supplies of saltpeter were largely utilized for making gunpowder. Recently the question of the origin of cave saltpeter has been discussed anew in the Journal of Geology, and W. H. Hess, dissenting from the view that the saltpeter deposits are due to the formation of guano by bats, holds that they have originated from the evaporation of water which, as it percolated through the roof of the cavern, absorbed nitrates from the soil.

Winter Dress of Chinese.

A Chinaman in Peking who looks as if he weighed 140 pounds in summer, with the thinnest possible robe, sandals and a big straw hat as his only wear, has the appearance in winter of a member of the Fat Men's club. The change is effected by putting on his entire wardrobe, including such furs and bedding and pillows as he happens to possess, and burying his head in a wool hat with a front flap that leaves only spaces through which to see and to breathe. He can hear nothing, for his ears are covered with padded muffs.—N. Y. Times.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE HOSPITAL BOARD.

Objectors to Proposed Hospital Site Were Present and Explained Their Reasons.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

MISS ANNA R. YOUNG CHOSEN AS SUPERINTENDENT OF HOSPITAL.

Enters Upon Her Duties July 1—Chas. J. Fisk Re-elected President of Board of Governors—Members of Medical Staff Were Chosen.

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital was held at the Public Library last evening and the session was a long one. There were many matters engaging the attention of the members, most of whom were present. E. L. Finch and a few other residents of Park avenue appeared before the Board to enter their protests against the location of the new hospital on the site chosen by the board. They stated their objections, which were chiefly those that have appeared under their signatures in The Daily Press. The members gave the objectors careful attention and noted the points of their arguments. It is not believed that the objections will overrule the action and decision of the board.

Another important matter announced was the selection of the new superintendent for the hospital to take the place of Miss Emma Messler. The person chosen is Miss Anna R. Young, a native of Maine. She is a graduate of the New York Hospital, the Sloane Maternity Hospital and she has also taken a supplemental course in hospital economics. She comes highly recommended and will no doubt fill the position acceptably. She enters upon her duties July 1, at which time Miss Messler's resignation will go into effect.

Miss Messler, who has filled the position of superintendent since the retirement of Miss Moss, will devote her time after July 1 to private nursing, and she will take up her residence at 301 West Fourth street.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Charles J. Fisk; first vice-president, Wm. R. Cock; second vice-president, Francis Wood; secretary, Charles E. Brooks; treasurer, Howard P. Reynolds; managing committee, Samuel Huntington, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Wm. R. Cock, Edward B. Clark, Charles E. Brooks; finance committee, Ernest R. Ackerman, Wm. L. Saunders, George H. Goddard, George A. Chapman, B. A. Hegeman, Jr.; superintendent, Miss Anna R. Young; medical staff, medical department, Drs. T. H. Tomlinson, W. O. Boone, John H. Carman; surgical department, Drs. M. B. Long, John B. Probasco, Ellis W. Hedges, Benj. VanD. Hedges, Wm. H. Murray; eye and ear department, Dr. F. C. Ard.

The consulting staff is composed of Dr. M. Allen Starr, of New York, consulting physician; Dr. Joseph E. Janvrin, of New York, and Dr. Edward J. Ill, of Newark, consulting gynecologists; Dr. William T. Bull, of New York, and Dr. George W. Endicott, of this city, consulting surgeons. Dr. Ill is an addition to this staff, it being considered advisable owing to the fact that he can be reached easily.

The monthly report of the hospital work shows that twenty-eight patients were admitted. There were discharged cured twenty-one, three improved and two not improved. There were treated forty-three cases in all and there are now seventeen patients in the hospital. In the dispensary thirty-five cases were treated and there were 164 visits. The annual report presented shows that during the year 419 cases were treated and there were 212 operations. In detail the report of the medical staff shows that there were 320 surgical cases, ninety-nine medical. In the dispensary there were 254 surgical and forty seven medical and 142 in the ear and eye department. There were thirty-one treated for skin diseases. The total number of visits were 1,937, all of which shows that there is a marked increase in the work of the hospital and a demand for more room and greater facilities.

Owing to the illness of Howard P. Reynolds, treasurer, the details of his report of receipts and expenditures was not presented and not available at this time for publication.

Children's Day Exercises.

Children's Day exercises will be held at the East Third Street chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is expected that Mrs. Alonzo Petit, of Elizabeth, will be present to make an address. The exercises will be very interesting.

FUNERAL OF T. T. BARRETT.

HELD FROM RESIDENCE ON JEFFERSON AVENUE YESTERDAY.

Rev. S. P. Simpson Conducted Services—Many Floral Tributes—Something About Mr. Barrett.

The funeral services of Thomas Townsend Barrett were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residence on Jefferson avenue, near Greenbrook, and were largely attended by neighbors and friends, including a delegation from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of which the deceased was a member. Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector of St. Stephen's P. E. church, conducted the services, according to the rites of the Episcopal church.

The casket was wrapped with a large American flag, and surrounding it were a number of floral tributes, including a pillow from Post 73, G. A. R., a wreath with the word "Papa" on it from the children, a cross from Antietam Camp, Union Veterans' Union, bearing the Sixth Army Corps badge, and a number of smaller pieces and large bouquets of flowers. They all bore grand testimony of the appreciation and esteem in which Mr. Barrett was held.

Mr. Barrett was born at Milton-on-the-Hudson, New York, January 28, 1839, and he was the only son of the late John Young and Martha Townsend Barrett. He served during the Civil War as first sergeant in Company D., "Scott's 900," Eleventh New York Cavalry. He made a record to be proud of and it was always a source of pleasure to him that he was able to serve his country.

After the services yesterday the interment took place in Hillside cemetery. The following members of Post No. 73, G. A. R., served as bearers: Firman Gise, Wm. H. B. Drake, W. R. Mattox, J. Worth Coddington, W. H. Day and James Huntington.

SCHOOL CLOSED.

Dunellen School Board Decided to Close Whittier Building For a Week on Account of Smallpox.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 28—As two of the Soukup children attended school at the Whittier building, it was deemed best by the Board of Education on hearing that smallpox was in the family, to hold no sessions there for a week. The class rooms will be thoroughly fumigated by Inspector Pangborn, of the North Plainfield health department. When the school is reopened next Monday, no pupil will be admitted unless he has been vaccinated or produces a certificate from a physician to the effect that his physical condition will not permit it.

The Lincoln building, which was closed all last week on account of diphtheria, was opened yesterday and it is thought all danger from that source is totally eradicated. Of the four Soukup children ill with smallpox, none are in a serious condition and it is expected all will eventually recover.

WILL NAME SCHOOL AFTER ITS BENEFACTOR.

Borough School Board Took That Means of Showing Its Appreciation of the Gift.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS.

WERE PASSED AT MEETING OF THE BOARD LAST EVENING.

Decided to Call Manual the Training School After Chas. W. McCutchen if He Will Permit—New Method of Medical Registry.

A deserving recognization of the public benefaction of Charles W. McCutchen, in voluntarily contributing the means, which rendered possible manual training instruction in the North Plainfield schools, was taken last evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Board of Education.

When, in the course of the natural progress and growth of school work, it was deemed wise to establish a system of practical education to the end that the pupils might be instructed in manual arts, Mr. McCutchen with a philanthropic spirit came forward and donated a sum sufficient to warrant the immediate establishment of the school.

As a tribute to his generosity, A. V. D. Honeyman, one of the members of the board, offered the following resolution last night without any previous consultation with his fellow members:

Resolved, That this board place upon its minutes its high appreciation, both for itself and for the citizens of this borough, of the voluntary and handsome donation of the sum of $2,500 by our fellow-townsman, Charles W. McCutchen, for the construction of a manual training school. The gift being unsolicited increases our sense of gratitude to the giver. The amount thus donated, being doubled by the liberality of our State, has enabled us to offer to all children in the High School instruction in trades, in drawing, in sewing and in cooking, the influence of which will be felt, we trust, through future generations. The gift was wise and from a wise lover of our public school system. If it should induce others to emulate this splendid example we may hope in the future to have other valuable adjuncts to our curriculum of studies.

Resolved, That hereafter the title to this manual training building be (with the consent of the donor) the C. W. McCutchen Manual Training School.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the president and attested by the district clerk, be forwarded to Mr. McCutchen.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

Another feature of the evening's meeting was the submission of a new form of health schedule, designed by the school physician, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, which is intended to be used for a detailed report of a pupil's physical condition for a period of four years. It met with the hearty approval of the board.

MISS WHITNEY'S MUSICALE.

Some of The Artists Who Will Assist in Rendition of Programme.

At Miss Whitney's musicale, June 4, she will be assisted by some of her pupils and Mrs. Walter Beard Chichester, soprano; Charles Henry Corwin, baritone; W. E. MacClymont, organist; P. Ludwig Conde, violinist. A. K. Vigil will make a few remarks concerning his well-known clevier method and answer any questions which may be asked.

Among the musical numbers to be rendered are Gounod's "Ave Maria" for voice, violin, organ and piano; "William Tell" repeated by request; Lizti Second Rhapsody for four hands and an attractive arrangement of selections from "Faust," for piano and organ. The new Steinertone grand piano will be used.

Would Appreciate Stone Walk.

Persons who have occasion to travel along the newly-opened part of Madison avenue would appreciate a stone sidewalk if such a thing could be laid on the side next to the Stillman building and extending to the bridge.

There has been an increase of 81 per cent. in the attendance at the men's meetings at Y. M. C. A. Hall from Jan. 1 to date, as compared with the corresponding period last year.

Pythian Memorial Day.

The members of Crescent Division, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., will observe Pythian Memorial Day Sunday, June 16.

ANOTHER NEW PIANO.

Arrangements Made For One For Primary Department of Trinity Sunday-School.

Recently the Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school united in an effort to raise $80 as its share toward purchasing a baby grand piano for the church. The efforts of the members were so successful that $180 was raised, with the understanding that as soon as possible the primary department be given an upright piano in the place of the small organ now used. Now that the desire of the primary department is to be realized much sooner than it was expected, there is rejoicing on the part of all.

Through the kindness of G. H. Kenyon, the West Front street piano dealer, a McPhail upright piano will be placed in the primary department room at once, while Mr. Kenyon will take the old church piano and the small organ as part payment for the purchase of the new instrument. The two pianos thus placed in the church within a month will be greatly appreciated by all, and the generosity of those contributing toward the payment of the instruments will no doubt also be very much appreciated. The new piano was placed in the Sunday-school room today.

TALKED ON BOYS' CAMPS.

C. T. KILBORN GAVE ILLUSTRATED TALK AT Y. M. C. A. HALL.

Pictured Life at the Y. M. C. A. Camps During the Summer—Explained Trip and Its Cost.

An appreciative audience was entertained at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening by C. T. Kilborn, president of the Orange Association, who gave an illustrated talk on the boys' camps which are a feature of the Y. M. C. A. sports during the summer months. The camps are located on the shores of Lake Champlain, N. Y., and Wawayanda Lake, Sussex county, N. J. The pictures depicting the scenes in and about the camps were excellent. They were shown by A. V. Searing, Jr., of Westervelt avenue.

In an entertaining way, Mr. Kilborn told of the daily life of the boys who attend the camp, all of who are members of the association in different parts of the State, and the manner in which their time is occupied. They have ball games, tennis games, go fishing and boating and in other ways gain strength and energy by healthful exercises. The cost of the trip and all incidentals were clearly outlined. At the close of the talk the boys were addressed by Charles R. Scott, State secretary of boy's work.

Changes Among Residents.

Through the agency of Mulford, the real estate dealer, of North avenue, N. C. King, of Kensington avenue, has purchased a lot on East Ninth street, near the corner of First place, and will build a house to live in by October 1. Robert Dryden, of New York, formerly of this city, has rented Rev. A. C. Nickerson's house, furnished, on Cariton avenue for the summer.

Memorial Day Services.

A special service will be held at the Congregational church tomorrow evening at which the subject will be, "Lessons from the Service of Our Country." Addresses will be made by Col. Mason W. Tyler and Major W. D. W. Miller. Miss Stephanie Krom will read "The Old Coat of Blue." At the close of the meeting refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed.

Twilight's Annual Picnic.

The Twilight Social Club, well-known by its successful balls and masquerades at the old Crescent Rink, will hold its annual picnic at Recreation Park, Decoration Day afternoon and evening. The event will mark the formal opening of the park. The committee in charge consists of F. S. Moore, E. C. Searing and Theo. Smith.

Preferred The Fine.

Thomas McCormick was given his preference of paying a $5 fine or spending twenty days in jail this morning by City Judge Runyon. He was arrested on East Fourth street last evening for acting in a disorderly manner. He paid the fine.

STRIKERS MAY WAIT ON THEIR EMPLOYERS.

Talk of Sending Committee With View of Securing a Better Understanding.

NO CHANGE IN SITUATION.

REPORT OF CONFERENCE AT POND TOOL WORKS DENIED.

Employers and Employes Remain Quiet—Men are Still Confident—Strikers Hold Meetings and are Addressed by Labor Organizers.

Diligent inquiry at the local machine shops and among the strikers, this morning, revealed the fact that the local strike situation had not been changed a particle since yesterday. Ten days of idleness have not weakened the strikers in the slightest way, and they are, if anything, more determined than ever to hold out until their demands are granted. No attempt has been made by the factory officials to resume work in the machine departments of their shops. At the Pond Tool Works the moulding and draughting departments continue operations, but at the other factories the usual quietude prevails.

The regular meeting of the International Association of Machinists was held last evening but the business transacted was not divulged by any of the leaders. During the afternoon the greater part of the time was taken up with the proper registering of the men who are to receive benefits from the association during the strike.

This morning a meeting was held in Trades Union Hall at which a large number of men were in attendance. An address was made by one of the delegates from District 15, which includes Plainfield. The speaker gave encouraging reports of the situation throughout the country and assured the men that by remaining steadfast they would be the victors in the end. It is the intention of the committee to have a competent speaker address the men every day.

The idea has been prevalent among the strikers that the employes are desirous of arbitrating and for that reason a secret meeting will be held this afternoon. It is expected a committee will be appointed to wait upon the factory officials.

Although rumored about the streets, no conference between the committee from the Pond strikers and Superintendent J. T. MacMurray was held this morning. Mr. MacMurray stated that he had not been approached by any of the men, and as far as the company was concerned the situation was just the same as it was a week ago. The other departments outside of the machine shop are running on full time and will continue to do so indefinitely.

As far as a settlement is concerned, Mr. MacMurray repeated his former statement, "It's up to the men." He declined to speak on the subject as to whether the officials of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company would take any action upon the strike at the annual meeting which is to be held June 3.

There is nothing new in the state of affairs at Scott's Press Works. The owner is in New York today, but from a reliable source it is learned that his trip has no connection with the strike. Everywhere about the establishment, with the exception of the auxiliary departments, the same quietness prevails which has been characteristic since the strike commenced.

Volunteer Choir Making Progress.

SOLD FOR UNPAID TAXES.

FOURTEEN PROPERTIES DISPOSED OF BY BOROUGH COLLECTOR BROWN.

Borough Bid Them All In At The Amount Which Is Due For Taxes.

By virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor and Council of North Plainfield, Tax Collector George F. Brown yesterday noon exposed to public sale at the Council Chamber, fourteen properties for unpaid taxes.

All the properties were knocked down to the city for the amounts due on the several properties. Tax Collector Brown says that the list of sales necessary to be made was smaller than has occurred for some time and the number shows a marked decrease from that of last year.

The list includes the following:

George Hummer, house and lot, Almont place, $38. A. W. Demaree, lot, Fairview avenue, $22.50. Frances Coon, house and lot, Grove street, $9.74. Unknown owner, lot, Jefferson avenue, $4.23. Charles Graeder, house and lot, Jefferson avenue, $7.49. Ella Booth, house and lot, 35 Rockview avenue, $206.65. Oscar Elliott, house and lot, 58 Somerset street, $54. George Hummer, house and lot, Stone street, $22.50. Henry Ruppert, house and lot, 30 Stone street, $25.47. Chas. Hummer, house and lot, 25 Stone street, $20.41. Chas. Hummer, house and lot, 27 Stone street, $12.27. J. B. Mills, house and lot, 95 Summit avenue, $28. Reuben Barton, house and lot, Whitewood avenue, $25. Chas. Ryder, house and lot, Fairview avenue, $80.

OVER SCREEN DOOR.

Cause Of Trouble Which Paled Neighbors To Recorder Doud's Borough Court.

Arthur MacDonald and Mrs. Catherine Sutton, who occupy adjoining quarters in a double house on Chatham street, appeared before Recorder Doud last evening as a result of a neighbors quarrel.

A dispute involving a screen door, it is alleged, led them to refer to each other in epithets not in the least refined. MacDonald entered a complaint against Mrs. Sutton. He was represented at the hearing by Wm. Newcorn, while Edward O. Clark appeared for the defendant.

After giving the case a lengthy hearing Recorder Doud concluded that the complaintant was the aggressor. Sentence was suspended on MacDonald and Mrs. Sutton was discharged.

Colored Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

The newly-organized colored Y. M. C. A. held a devotional service Sunday afternoon in its rooms on West Second street. A large number of young men were present and listened to the discussion of the topic for the meeting, which was, "Can a Man Born of God Commit Sin?" Among those who spoke on the subject were Edward Lightfoot and Rev. E. E. Jackson. Instrumental music augmented the devotional part of the service.

Deeds Filed in Elizabeth.

The following deeds have been filed in the County Clerk's office at Elizabeth: Frederick C. Jennings, receiver, to Lemuel B. Woolston, of Plainfield; 50 feet along southeast line of Front street, 150 feet northeast from Rock avenue, Plainfield, $500; Almira Morrison and husband, of Plainfield, to John H. Hayes, of Brooklyn, et als; 113 feet along northwest line of Dunellen avenue, corner Albert street, Plainfield, $1.

Punishment Was Sufficient.

Charles Campbell, a colored citizen of North Plainfield, was given a hearing by Borough Recorder Doud last evening on a charge of disorderly conduct. Inasmuch as the prisoner had been incarcerated in the lockup since the time of his arrest, Saturday evening, the Recorder deemed that the man had been sufficiently punished and according suspended sentence.

MEDICAL MISSIONARY TOLD OF HER WORK.

Dr. Rosa Pomborg, Recently Returned From China, Spoke at Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

SHE WAS GIVEN A RECEPTION

AFFAIR WAS ARRANGED BY ENDEAVOR SOCIETY OF CHURCH.

Dr Pomborg Is Home From Shanghai on a Furlough—Told Something of Her Work At Mission—Exhibited Some Curios.

In an engaging manner, Dr. Rosa Pomborg, of Illinois, imparted a valuable fund of knowledge, in a lecture delivered at the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening, on the work being accomplished by missionaries of that denomination in the Orient.

Dr. Pomborg has labored willingly and faithfully in the mission field of Shanghai and it was particularly on the gratifying results attained in the diffusion of Christian learning in that locality which formed the basis of her interesting talk. After a long and commendable service in that missionary jurisdiction of the Seventh-Day Baptist church the doctor was compelled to return to this country in October in order to regain the strength which she had spent while administering to these heathen people the aid spiritually, mentally and physically which they require. She is now engaged in making a journey to the various settlements of the people of her creed and devotes the time in enlightening them on this special missionary work. It is her purpose before long to return to China and there resume the duties which the condition of her health made it incumbent upon her to relinquish.

Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist flock in this city, with a few brief remarks introduced the speaker, who by her pleasing manner and absorbing talk speedily enlisteded the attention of her audience.

The doctor explained that at present the missionary institutions of that denomination in Shanghai comprises five day schools, two boarding schools, one for girls and another for boys, a church, hospital and dispensary. The day schools were founded fifteen years ago and at the present time over one hundred pupils are receiving skillful instruction.

Dr. Pomborg, herself, had charge of the dispensary work and in her spare time taught a bright young native girl the rudiments of medical science. This young woman is now temporarily acting as a physician at the dispensary.

The lecturer also dwelt upon the spiritual work at the mission. It is truly gratifying, she said, to observe the progress made in inculcating the Christian religion as expounded by the Seventh-Day Baptists. The only hindrance to the work is the hardship met with in the pupils finding employment. They cannot work for the heathen, because that would compel them to work every day whilst working for Christians other than of their own faith would compell them to labor on the Sabbath. The only recourse is to educate them for teachers, and this is being done to a large extent.

The doctor spoke on the practice of medicine that is common amongst the native Chinese. A native physician receives no instruction whatever other than what is picked up in a short service under a practictioner. Their principal prescription is opium. The remedies used are peculiar. For cholera the skin of the abdomen is pierced; for sore throat the outer flesh of the throat is pinched and for headache a native coin is rubbed on the forehead until the blood comes to the inner surface. Another remedy for irritation of the throat is to spray it with pearl dust. The native, however, highly appreciates the services of the foreign physician. The higher the charge for treatment, the more valuable they esteem the service. At first no charge was made at the Seventh-Day Baptist dispensary and now, when a minimum fee is exacted from those who can afford to pay, the demand for treatment shows a marked increase.

Dr. Pombury exhibited some specimens of native Chinese handiwork which were greatly admired. At the conclusion of her talk, the remainder of the evening was spent in social enjoyment, during which refreshments were served.

The reception was held under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society and the committee in charge consisted of Miss Bessy FitzRandolph, chairman; Mrs. J. Everett Kimball, Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, Miss Ernestine C. Smith and Orra S. Rogers.

Mrs. Martin Clawson and Mrs. Charles Dunham poured the tea, while the Misses Mary St. John, Mabel Rogers, Ethel Titsworth and Elizabeth Allis served.

Street Signs For The Borough.

Editorial notice was taken in The Daily Press yesterday of the need of proper street signs in the borough. Since that time, many citizens of that municipality have expressed their entire agreement with the stand taken by The Daily Press regarding them and have requested us to use all our influence possible to persuade the Borough Council to act on the subject without delay.

There is no doubt but that the street signs are just as needful in the borough as they are in the city, and it is also well-known that North Plainfield is nearly as badly off as this city was in regard to them. No thinking person can advance any reason why the signs should not be put up. The only objection which might be possibly put forth is the cost of them.

It will be remembered that the street committee of the Common Council was empowered to expend not over $500 to pay for the new street signs. If the supply needed for Plainfield amounted to $500 or less, the cost of equipping the borough with similar signs would not be as great. There is no way in which the public money could be put to better advantage than in providing for these signs.

The Borough Council is composed of business men who realize the value of such signs to a community. It is to be hoped that they will give the subject immediate consideration. While the borough has lately started a number of improvements which will have to be met out of the borough funds, an additional appropriation from the general fund for such an object should not meet with the opposition of a single good citizen. The great success of the signs in Plainfield should be an object lesson to its nearest neighbor.

The cool and rainy weather, which has been so prominent during the month that is now drawing to a close, has been particularly felt at the Jersey seashore resorts. In previous years, the active season at the summer resorts has been well under way long before this time of year. Now the summer visitors are very few and far between. It was generally expected that the Pan American Exposition at Buffalo would hurt the business of the shore resorts to a certain extent but nobody counted on such an overwhelming supply of rain. Unless the coming months are exceptionally hot and drive the people from the inland cities and towns, hotel proprietors on the Jersey coast are likely to mark this down as a very poor year in their line.

This appointment of a stranger from Wisconsin to be at the head of the new State Reformatory, at Rahway, has caused the Democratic writers through the State to turn out many columns of denouncements of Governor Voorhees. It was that mighty brother-in-law, Congressman Fowler, who was responsible. That Governor Voorhees declared that Mr. Fowler had nothing to say and that the appointment was made strictly on merit makes not the slightest difference to them. But to hear the Republicans, one might think that there was only one man in the United States fit to manage a Reformatory and he was Mr. Heg.

While the weather for the last few days has not been exactly that which might be chosen for an open air band concert, the day is not far off when the mercury will go up again under a cloudless sky and the people of the city will be glad, indeed, of some such form of amusement. Early in the season there was some talk of these concerts. It is to be hoped that the plans then made will not fail to materialize as the season advances.

The time is drawing near when the Republican State executive committee will hold a meeting and fix the date for the Republican State convention at which the gubernatorial candidate of the G. O. P. will be selected. The convention will probably be held in June and Trenton will be the scene of it. At present, there seems to be no doubt but that Franklin Murphy will be nominated without opposition.

A citizen, recently returned from Easton, Pa., calls attention to the fine condition of the brick paved streets in that city. The people of Easton, he declares, are very enthusiastic over that style of permanent pavement. He believes that Plainfield would do well to follow Easton's example in that way at least.

It is rare, indeed, that an amateur theatrical performance is given with such a fine background and such effective acting as was "The Shades of Night" at the Casino last Saturday evening. The accompanying minstrel show also proved very popular.

Little is heard now about the prospect of a new theatre for Plainfield. It is understood that there are several schemes on foot which hope to develop at a later date, but they have not appeared as yet.

The defeat of the golf team of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club in its first match was a general surprise. It was the first appearance of the Princeton Freshmen in a contest of that kind.

Couldn't Find Any Blaze.

The appearance of smoke in the attic of A. H. Streuli's residence on Hillside avenue, yesterday afternoon, led the family to believe that a fire was raging in the chimney. The department was notified and Chief Jennings and a hose wagon responded. After a thorough search, the smoke in the meantime disappearing, no blaze could be found.

Study Music in Germany.

G. C. M. Smith, of Craig place, has made arrangements to leave for Germany, August 15, where he will pursue a course in instrumental music. He purposes to spend several years at Weimar and later may enter Berlin for post graduate work at that university. Mr. Smith will be graduated at the Borough High School next month.

Old Soldier's Experience.

Taken to Hospital.

Three Baptized.

Through an oversight the name of Miss Matilda Renanz was omitted from the list of those who were baptized at the First Baptist church last Sunday. There are two more to be baptized soon. Illness prevented them from being present last Sunday.

To the many friends, who rendered kindly assistance during the last illness and after the death of my wife, Mrs. Alice Day, I desire to express my heartfelt appreciation.

Seasick Mules.

Edward Makins, Jr., a young veterinary surgeon of Abilene, Kan., has returned from an interesting voyage to South Africa in charge of a shipload of mules for the British government. "It is a curious thing," he said, "that the Missouri mule, which it is so popularly supposed can stand anything, is as susceptible to seasickness as most people. When the ship had passed through the jetties and was out on the swell of the gulf and ocean this showed itself. It was really pitiful to see the big, strong creatures suffer with all the pangs of seasickness and exhibit all the symptoms of wishing that they were dead. Doses of medicine and showers of cold water relieved them, and before we had been out long all the animals were on their sea legs and standing the voyage like accomplished sailors."—Chicago Record.

What He Meant.

"That was the year," said Mr. Jesse Sparhawk to the little group of listeners who had gathered to hear his reminiscences of war times, "that was the very year that my cellar was so unmercifully overflowed."

"What do you mean by 'unmercifully overflowed,' I'd like to know?" demanded Mr. Potts, the town trial, from the outskirts of the group. "I don' gather your sense."

"I mean," said Mr. Sparhawk, after a glare at the offender who had thus arrested him in the full tide of recollection, "that there was too much water for walking, an' not enough for boating. I sh'd think 'twas plain enough."—Youth's Companion.

Peculiarities of the Black Sea.

Sir John Murray recently showed how remarkably the Black sea differs from other seas and oceans. A surface current flows continuously from the Black sea into the Mediterranean, and an under current from the Mediterranean into the Black sea. The latter current is salt, and, being heavier than the fresh water above, it remains stagnant at the bottom. Being saturated with sulphuretted hydrogen, this water will not maintain life, and so the Black sea contains no living inhabitants below the depth of about 100 fathoms. The deeper water when brought to the surface smells exactly like rotten eggs.

Early Railway Days.

Some reminiscences of the early days of railway traveling are given by Mr. Thomas Baildon, who has just retired after 57 years' service on the Lancashire & Yorkshire railway, England. He remembers when the guards used to collect tickets from the passengers along the footboards while the trains were in motion, just as they do on the continent at the present time. In those days the trains were trumpeted out of the Manchester terminus, and when they arrived very late the bugler, as he was called, used to play: "Oh, dear, what can the matter be?"—Cincinnati Enquirer

Fijis Are Peaceful Colonists.

According to a Wellington correspondent the Fijian colony is in many respects one of the most remarkable of British possessions, for it represents the peaceful and successful government of upward of 100,000 natives for a quarter of a century without the aid of a single British soldier or sailor. The Fijian budget, which has just been made public, shows an estimated revenue for 1901 of £98,000 and an estimated expenditure of £96,818.

Old Clover Hay.

In 1879 D. Tennyson, a Marshall county (Kan.) farmer, built a barn and to add to its weight so that it would not be blown away by a cyclone, as the old one was, he stored 20 tons of clover hay in the loft, where it remained untouched until recently. He is now feeding it to his stock and it is as bright and wholesome as if it were out of this year's crop.—Cleveland Leader.

A Discriminating Analysis.

"You have had a great many epochs in your career," observed the devoted supporter to the perpetual candidate.

Love of Gems Creates a City.

Kimberley is as much sui generis as is the geological formation out of which is extracted the source of its wealth and existence. Nowhere in the world has woman such a monument to her influence and her needs. Here is a busy, bustling city of many thousands of white inhabitants, to say nothing of hordes of Kaffir boys, devoted day and night, year in and year out, ministering solely to the passion of the fair sex for fine gems. Of course, men wear diamonds, and there are many industries in which diamonds are valuable, though none in which they are indispensable, not even in the comparatively humble calling of the plumber and glazier. It is as indispensable as a proposition of Euclid, that if there were no fine ladies in the world there would be no Kimberley.—London Telegraph.

A Watchmaker's Epitaph.

A Detroit gentleman on a recent trip abroad copied the following epitaph from a tombstone in a graveyard in a Staffordshire town in England:

Here lies in a horizontal position the outward case of George Routledge, watchmaker.

Integrity was the mainspring and prudence the regulator of all the acts of his life. So well regulated were his movements that he never went wrong except when set agoing by persons who did not know his key.

He departed this life November 4, 1812, aged 57, wound up in the hope of being thoroughly cleaned and repaired and set agoing in the world to come.—Detroit Free Press.

A Battlefield Story.

Dr. Conan Doyle tells this story of a Boer and an English soldier who lay wounded side by side on the field of battle: "They had a personal encounter in which the soldier received a bullet wound and the burgher a bayonet thrust before they both fell exhausted on the field. The Britisher gave the Boer a drink out of his flask and the burgher, not to be outdone in courtesy handed a piece of biltong in exchange. In the evening, when their respective ambulances came to carry them off to hospital, they exchanged friendly greetings. 'Good-by, mate,' said the soldier, 'what a blessing it is we met each other!'"—Detroit Free Press.

Animal Gluttons.

Most people, if asked what animal eats the most, would probably say the lion or tiger. This is quite a mistake. Thirty to 40 pounds of flesh will satisfy a lion, which, as an average specimen weighs 450 pounds, is by no means extravagant. A bear has much more capacity than a lion and can make away with a small pig at a meal, say half a hundredweight of meat. Wolves are amongst the hungriest of the larger carnivores. A wolf will starve for a fortnight, and then eat a third of his own weight at a single meal.—Golden Age.

The Aurora Australis.

During the recent trip of the Belgica in the Antarctic more than 60 observations of the aurora australis, the southern counterpart of our northern lights were made. The appearance of the light resembled that presented in the arctic regions. But the maximum frequency did not occur during the months of the long polar night, and the phenomenon was most intense at the time of the equinoxes, when the sun is perpendicular over the equator and daylight is simultaneous at both the north and the south pole.—Youth's Companion.

Too Much Business.

Mrs. Jaggs (the next morning)—Do you know what time you got home last night?

Mr. Jaggs—It must have been pretty late, but an important business transaction detained me at the office, and—by the way, dear, did you see anything of my shoes?

"Yes; you'll find them hanging on the hatrack in the hall, just where you left them."—N. Y. World.

Prepared.

"And now," she said, "you had better go up and speak to papa."

"And you—er—sure he's at home?" stammered Mr. Slodoche.

"Oh, yes. Unless he's got tired waiting and gone to bed you'll find him in the sitting room."—Philadelphia Press.

A Dog's Life.

Brown—Yes, Dobbs married a rich wife, but he leads a dog's life.

Smith—Is that so?

"Yes. He doesn't do a blessed thing but lie around the house and go out for an airing between meals."—N. Y World.

"Doesn't excitement give you palpitation?"

"Sometimes. I smoke too much."

"Cold feet?"

"Only recently."

"Cough?"

"Of course, when I am out of breath."

Dr. Morton sat down facing the patient, with his back to the fire.

"Every one has weak points, Mr. Olmstead," he said. "Yours is your heart."

"Do you mean that I'm in a condition where I might go without warning?" the old man asked, nervously, seeming suddenly to grasp the situation.

Dr. Morton watched his face thoughtfully for a moment, and answered:

"Yes."

"Robert," Olmstead called, in a weak, trembling voice, "go for Judge Russell. Bring him back with you at once."

"Is my mind right? Can I make my will?" he asked, as soon as Stanton left the room, and, being reassured by the physician, he sat in silence till Judge Russell came and they were left alone together.

"I should have taken your advice," he began, "but fortunately it is not too late. I hoped that Robert would marry first and that the other one would die. Don't mention the other one's name in the will. Say $10,000 to the next heir after Robert, if he will surrender all claims and those papers."

He paused a moment to gather strength. Slowly he mentioned some minor bequests, three men to act as trustees, and added: "Let the rest be held in trust for Robert for ten years. Let him have the use and income, and if he marries let it all be his at once."

"If he should not marry in the ten years—" Judge Russell asked.

"He will, he will," Olmstead exclaimed. "He'll not be such a fool. If he don't—if he don't care for me or the money, then let it go where it will. The other one can't get it if he signs off for the ten thousand, and I don't care who else has it if Robert don't want it. Write quickly. I'm not well. I feel afraid."

The rest returned and did what they could for the patient while Judge Russell wrote. The storm was still increasing, and to add to it the fire broke out which destroyed the great building supporting the tower with the clock which had so long kept pace with the clock in Olmstead's library.

Thousands must still remember how the hands of that clock moved steadily while all the building beneath it was wrapped in flame; how the great bell rang, clear and loud, above the storm, above the roaring and hissing of the water, above the groaning and throbbing of the engines and the shouting of the men; how it struck the hour of midnight, like a grand, triumphant peal, less than two minutes before the roof and the walls fell in with an awful crash, stopping the wheels but leaving the tower with its burden still standing, like a grim minaret rising out of the ruins; for there was something ghostly in those long black fingers that for days remained there, solemnly pointing to two minutes past twelve.

The engines were heard above the storm, in the library, and the glare tinged the curtains closely drawn over the long windows; but the fire received little attention from the anxious ones gathered there.

When the writing was finished, Olmstead read the will, and in a more natural voice remarked:

"It is correct. Give me the pen."

Rev. Dr. Borden signed as the first witness, and a moment later Judge Russell handed the pen to Sam.

Sam was unused to writing. The solemn scene, the intense excitement, a vague sense of responsibility, bewildered him, and he made slow work at it. Judge Russell could hardly endure the delay. He had left his wife with a sick child at home, without so much as telling her that he was going out. He glanced at his watch as he handed Sam the pen.

"Great Heavens! it's 12 o'clock. Hurry, man, hurry," he whispered.

Sam tried to hurry, and was so much the slower in consequence. The tall clock and the clock in the tower were striikng. He nervously fingered the pen till they had ceased. Stanton was kneeling by the arm-chair, holding his uncle's hand. Dr. Borden stood behind the chair, with a word for comfort or courage when it could be spoken.

As the last stroke sounded, Olmstead turned his head, resting on the back of the arm-chair, till his eyes looked up at the portrait of a beautiful woman, hanging above the fire, and slowly he repeated:

"Twelve o'clock, and all is well."

At last Sam finished writing. Judge Russell bent over him, took the pen, wrote for an instant, and—

Suddenly the room seemed to vibrate and shudder. The dull outlines of the windows glared brighter than the lights of the library. The awful crash of the falling walls and the shriek of the crowd about them sounded. Judge Russell caught up the will and hurried from the house. Stanton felt a twinge contract the hand he was holding: forgetting the years that had made a man of him, he laid his cheek upon it.

Dr. Morton glanced at the patient's face, reached his heart, waited a moment, and, laying his hand on Stanton's shoulder, said:

"My friend, it is over. He is gone."

Reverently Dr. Borden repeated the dying words:

CHAPTER II.

The natural adjustments which time brought about had little comfort for John Olmstead's nephew. The one disagreeable feature in the past which he had not been able to put away was his uncle's determination that he should marry. Now the whole world seeemd to have risen up to carry on the argument.

It was natural enough that social attention should be more drawn to him than ever, and especially to be expected that the trustees, Judge Russell and Dr. Borden, knowing of the condition hanging over him, should lose no opportunity to present such of their friends as might aid him to meet it. Stanton failed to grasp the natural philosophy of it, however, and simply realized a state of things that was intensely disagreeable. The fact that his uncle, being dead, was yet speaking, only held him the more firmly in instinctive resistance, and where John Olmstead's arguments failed there was little hope that the rest of the world could succeed. The only result was that Stanton shrank more and more from society, and delved deeper and more earnestly in his profession.

It was an excellent thing for his progress at the bar, and he really began to develop into what everyone had predicted—something of a prodigy. Straightway it began to be commonly acknowledged that he was one of the shrewdest cross-examiners in the state. It only tended, however, to make society more charitable with his eccentricities and more relentlessly adoring.

A weak man would have yielded at once; a strong man never. Stanton was neither. He had elements of strength, but he was not strong.

After five years of it he said to himself: "I believe that the only way to make life worth living is to have a wife to attend to the social side. There's no sense in a social side, anyway. What does it amount to? But it is, and apparently it is something that always will be. I can't attend to it. But I'm always expected to, and evidently I've either to keep on making excuses or making myself miserable, all my life, or else to find a wife who will attend to it for me."

Obviously he had not the faintest conception of what the agony was all about, nor had his uncle's will anything whatever to do with his considerations. They were carried on upon lines of pure and unadulterated instinct—just as a young duck pokes its flat bill about in a stupid search for the delicious mud which it has never seen nor heard of, except in the sweet babble of some soft nursery clucking over its pipped egg.

"I wonder how the thing should be brought about," Stanton muttered, as he lay on the sofa in the library, smoking and dreaming.

Even then the innocently stupid fellow did not dream that he was doing precisely what everyone was bent on having him do; if he had, he would not have done it. In fact, he never even fully realized how the thing was done, it was so quickly and easily accomplished when once he turned his attention that way. But that was immaterial. It was surely done. He unquestionably became engaged, and it was a great relief to him to know and to have others know that so much progress at least had been made towards the relief from society which he sought.

The really strange thing about it was that it was a love-match. At least the Lombards all said so, and every one admitted that they were the last people in the world to be influenced by any man's millions—which proved to be the case, a little later.

The immediate effects of the engagement were not in precise line with the final results he sought, but he reasoned with himself: "I suppose it's a fellow's duty to the lady he's to marry to go with her into society, just as it's his duty to stay with her at home after they're married;" so the poor, deluded fellow honestly, earnestly and patiently plunged into a grand whirl of social life at Miss Lombard's side, only longing to have the transition state over with, that he might arrive at the stage where he could be let alone.

Stanton had hardly adjusted himself to this when another disagreeable feature presented itself. Young Lombard, his future brother-in-law, was a client of his whom he had always considered an ideal business man; but it suddenly appeared that he was also an ideal society man. It was simply a side of him with which Stanton had never chanced to come in contact. He insisted upon putting him up at two

FASHION NOTES.

Hints Regarding the Fashionable Wardrobe.

Many skirts are trimmed at the top, the lower part of the bodice being trimmed to correspond, and great pains are taken to have the decoration of the two join properly, so that a princess effect is obtained, although the gown is really in two pieces.

The fashion of wearing fur in the summer seems to have come to stay, for fur boas and pelerines are now added to the warm weather wardrobe for use upon chilly days and windy evenings.

Stoles and scarfs of lace, gauze and net are among the prettiest items of wearing apparel now to be found.

The picture given today shows a wrapper of cashmere having a square, plaited yoke. The back is tight, with a belt of oriental galloon passing under a watteau plait. In front the gown closes under coquilles, the upper edge and the yoke being outlined with oriental galloon. The sleeves are straight and are open at the inner seam, bordered with galloon. Beneath are sleeves of white surah, terminating in a frill of lace. The collar is of galloon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE BOLERO.

It Forms a Part of the Majority of Costumes.

The bolero, either detachable or as part of the bodice, has become firmly established in the wardrobe and has apparently come to stay. It is universally becoming and, moreover, gives an excuse for innumerable vests and chemisettes, which add much attractiveness to the costume. White fronts especially are favored, and among the newest are those trimmed with narrow black velvet, interlaced with fine gold ribbons. Swiss girdles also often accompany the bolero, draped or plain.

The costume sketched is of mastic satin cloth. The skirt, ornamented with gold buttons at each side of the tablier, is edged with lines of stitching. The bodice is striped with bands of mandarin silk and has a bolero edged with stitching, which forms a godet at each side of the vest. There is a double collar of white silk, with a gold button at each side, and the vest of white silk has gold buttons, the collar being stitched with mandarin silk. The sleeves of elbow length are stitched and finished with a stitched ruffle, and below them are full puffs of white silk, gathered into a cuff striped with mandarin silk. The manila straw hat is trimmed with tea roses.

NEW CHIEF ELECTED.

Installed in Accordance with Ritual Old as the Hills.

Sac and Fox Tribes, Who Are Sun Worshipers, Cling with Tenacity to the Superstitious Beliefs of Their Ancestors.

With all the ancient and mysterious rites of the sun worshipers, the Sac and Fox tribe of Indians who live on a reservation in Oklahoma, have installed a new medicine chief into office. The new chief is Ka-wan-so, and he takes the place of Wa-pa-ke-sek, who sickened and died in the growing season. The dead chief had only been in office a few months, and it is thought he was poisoned by jealous opponents.

Looking Glass, the chief medicine man of the tribe, says that evil-spirited redskins gave Wa-pa-ke-sek arsenic, which was mixed in with his whisky, and that several young men of the tribe are strongly suspected of being the guilty parties. A few weeks ago, when the sun beat down upon the plains of Oklahoma and the whole reservation of these Indians took on an appearance of summer. Ka-wan-so was made medicine chief of his tribe of sun worshiping Indians.

One morning, when the sun had scarcely peeped over the treetops, Red Eagle, a minor medicine chief, came bounding from his tepee blowing fiercely upon his medicine whistle.

As Wa-pa-ke-sek had died a drunkard he had naturally left his curse upon the tribe, according to the Indians' way of thinking. Two days had elapsed since his death and he had not appeared in ghost-like spirit to inform Red Eagle as to who should be his successor. Finally, Red Eagle gave up that the dead chief was going to appear owing to the fact that he had been assassinated. So he announced that he would choose Ka-wan-so to act as new medicine chief of the tribe.

As master of ceremonies, Red Eagle ordered all of the braves to put on their black paint and assemble at the burial grounds of the tribe at sunrise for the purpose of laying away the body of the dead chief and inaugurating the new chief into office.

A berry tree was cut for the purpose of allowing each Indian to eat a berry therefrom and drive away forever the curse of the deceased, who lay wrapped in a blanket in their midst. The Indians repeated a great deal of jargon which they called talk to the Great Spirit, and then they laid the body of the chief in a small hut, over which was hoisted an American flag.

The sun was now directly above them and hot. Many of the dancers were naked to the waist as they formed a circle around two big fires. Two drum beaters sat near these fires and made alleged music by which the Indians hopped around in what they called a dance. The leading medicine men, assisted by many of the dancers, chanted another appeal to the Great Spirit. The fire grew hotter and hotter as the sacred wood was piled on, but the Indians never moved out of the heat. The dancers grew more and more excited. Some fell to the ground in a dead faint. Others went into the medicine lodges and pretended to be ill. They went through all sorts of motions depicting their agony. The dance lasted all night and at daylight the Indians went into the river and bathed in running water.

At noon on that day Red Eagle announced to the assemblage that during the night the Great Spirit had appeared to him and ordered that Ka-wan-so be chosen as the successor of Wa-pa-ke-sek. When the newly appointed chief came out of his lodge he was weak from fasting and being sweated of his impurities. The Indians were silent as he walked across the dancing circle, where they had assembled to meet him. Suddenly one of the medicine men threw a sacred white otter skin at him and the new chief fell as if dead. Then the two men who had acted as his escort dragged him by the feet across the floor of the lodge, where he had rushed before falling, while all the spectators threw their otter skins at him. All surprisingly the fallen chief arose and reaching into the air brought out a totem and several otter skins. Then he brought a pony seemingly out of the air and gave it to Red Eagle. He told the Indians he had gotten these presents from the Great Spirit as offerings of peace. It was a big piece of deception, and if the Indians did not know it they are bigger fools than one would take them for. But they want to believe such feats are done in fact, as it is a part of their religion.

After a few remarks to the Indians of his tribe the new chief declared himself duly elected and installed and invited the 300 Indians to eat dog meat at his expense, which they did with a relish. Ka-wan-so will rule four years.

HOPI BASKET DANCE.

Begins with Devotions Around a Curiously Wrought Altar.

Married Women, Maidens and Young Girls Take an Important Part in the Quaint Ceremonies of the Lalakonti.

[Special New Mexico Letter.]

WINTER is especially the time when the Pueblo Indians of the southwest indulge in their religious ceremonies. They are religious at all times of the year, but especially so in winter. The reason for this is not far to seek. In the spring and summer they are kept busy digging their irrigating ditches, preparing the ground and planting their corn fields, herding their horses, sheep and goats, repairing their houses and doing the thousand and one other things that the pleasant days call them to do.

But in winter, when the cold winds from the north sweep over their exposed mesa heights, and, sometimes, the snow covers with its white pall the surrounding country, when days are short and nights long, then is the time when the Hopi and other aboriginal people feel called upon to devote a great deal of their attention to the propitiation of the powers of good and evil. Every month sees its special festivals and attendant ceremonies. All of these have their secret rites as well as their open air observances. There are societies for men and there are societies for women, and both have elaborate ceremonies in which the other sex has no share.

One of the most elaborate and interesting ceremonials conducted by women is the Lalakonti. For want of a better term, we call this a dance, but in reality it is more a series of posturings than a dance according to our acceptation of the term.

It must here be remarked that the word dance conveys a very different meaning to the mind of the Indian than it does to that of the white man. To us a dance means an occasion of festivity, jollity and pleasure. To the Indian it is a serious, sacred and religious rite. From time immemorial the gods have required human beings to dance in order that their anger may be appeased, so every Indian engages in the dance as one of the most sacred and serious things he can do.

The Lalakonti dance is the open-air conclusion of nine days of secret observances, all of which have taken place in the underground kiva. This kiva is a chamber hewn out of the solid rock, and each clan or organization has its own individual kiva. At the beginning of the secret rites an altar is erected, shown in an accompanying engraving.

It is before this altar that prayers are recited, hymns sung, sacred smoking indulged in, until the kiva is full of smoke, and certain dramatic representations occur which are supposed to be very efficacious in the production of rain.

THE LALAKONTI ALTAR.

For nine days these ceremonies continue, then everybody on the outside as well as the participants on the inside begin to make preparations for the final outdoor ceremony.

And there is no doubt about the ability of these Indian women to successfully carry through any ceremony that they may undertake. I have been present at the New Year's day annual function of the celebrated "Sorosis"—the mother of clubs—and while every movement of the distinguished ladies who conducted the ceremonies on that occasion (the only one in the year when men are admitted to the sacred precincts of Sorosis), they were not more decorous and dignified than were the Hopi women in the whole of the proceedings I am about to describe. Led by the chief priestesses, the women march in line from their sacred underground chamber. From their headdresses, or the manner of doing up their hair, one can see that there are married women, maidens and young girls. All alike are clothed in ceremonial blankets, much coveted by collectors, made of white cotton, with beautiful red borders. It is apparent that the dancers all feel they must make the best possible appearance on this occasion, for they wear all the earrings of turquoise mosaic, bracelets and finger rings of silver, and necklaces of wampum, turquoise or silver they are the possessors of or can borrow from accommodating friends.

As they approach the dancing place a circle is formed, and then very softly and sweetly a peculiar song is sung—sometimes so gently that the listener can scarcely hear it, and again swelling out into a fair volume. It should have been noted that as the women marched into the dance plaza each carried a beautiful basket, a large flat plaque made of willow, the skeins of which are brilliantly colored in many different hues and then woven into geometric and symbolic designs that are both novel and striking.

Now, as they begin to sing, they raise these baskets, rhythmically but not simultaneously, first to the left breast then to the other, then to the level of the hips, at the same time bowing easily and gracefully in time with the song. It is a pretty sight; the beautiful red bordered white blankets, the glistening of the silver ornaments, the brilliantly colored baskets, the rhythmic, stately movement, all combine to make a charming scene.

While this is going on another scene is transpiring in another portion of the dance plaza. Four young maidens, who are to distribute certain presents at the close of the ceremony, are being prepared by the "lakone taka," or priest, who is the only man allowed to take part in the Lalakonti. Followed by the "lakone mana," or maids, the priest advances into the dance plaza. He wears a bundle of feathers on his head, and carries a basket of "hoddentin," or sacred meal, in his hands. Drawing certain figures on the ground with his meal, the maids line up at a certain distance and throw corncobs, to which prayer feathers ("bobos") have been attached, upon these meal figures. The priest picks them up, places them in a row on the figures and then the girls advance toward him. He hands back to them the cobs they threw, and then the party advance a little nearer to the dancers and go through the same performance again. This they do several times, while the dancers are busy singing and posturing as before described.

THE STRUGGLE FOR THE BASKETS.

As soon, however, as the "lakone manas" enter the circle there is manifested a greatly added interest on the part of the spectators. The young men leave the housetops and get nearer to the dancers. There is an air of expectancy, which is not at all lessened by a feint made by one of the maids as if she would throw a basket to the spectators. And now begins a merry frolic, quietly conducted on the women's part, but entered into with vociferation and spirit on the outside. The maids pretend to throw to the right, then dodge over to the left, back and forth, while cries assail them of: "Here!" "To me!" "Throw this way!" Sometimes names are mentioned, and a young man in a half pleading tone begs for the coveted basket, only to retire abashed at the jeers of his fellows when the maid refuses to throw at his request.

But when the first basket is hurled into the air, what a scene of confusion and scramble follows!

The dancers, however, do not pay any attention to the struggles that are going on. For, it must be noted, not one group alone, but sometimes as many as half a dozen or more groups are all striving to gain a basket at one time. Now and again the "lakone mana" or gift maiden, will slyly or shyly hand out a basket or a piece of pottery or some other gift to a favored person, and such special gifts do not seem to provoke envy in the breasts of others. That such special favor should be shown is accepted as a matter of course. The women dance their prescribed length of time and then withdraw, but the groups of struggling young men remain, and it is no unusual sight to see the lads drop down one by one from sheer exhaustion, and finally the victor remains alone, his clothing torn to shreds, his body a shining surface of perspiration, his hair as tousled as a mop, and the coveted basket crumpled and mashed out of all shape and usefulness. But the smile of victory denotes that these things are as nothing compared with the joy of possession, of winning the prize. For, not only does the possessor of the basket gain the object itself, but he is supposed to be the recipient of all the blessings prayed for from Those Above by its devout maker.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The North Plainfield High School team plays the final game on its schedule Wednesday, June 5, with the Pingry School nine at Elizabeth.

The Park Field Club team will cross bats with the Watchung baseball nine on the Cricket grounds Saturday morning. Owing to the rain the game between these two teams last Saturday was stopped in the fourth inning, when the score stood 7 to 7.

A game of baseball has been arranged between the striking employes of Scott's and Pond's to take place at Dewey Park Decoration Day. The game will be the first of a series of three to be played between the two nines for the S. D. Drake trophy silver cup.

Dupee, the regular pitcher for the Leal's School team, is as yet unable to resume his position in the box by reason of a strained back received some time ago. He hopes to be in shape, however, for the contest with the Columbia freshmen on Memorial Day.

From present indications the possibility of deciding the contest in the series of games between the Borough and City High School nines is very remote. The rain prevented the game scheduled for yesterday, and there remains no open date so far as the city boys are concerned.

There will be a sport sandwich at the original Recreation Park, Westfield, Decoration Day. The crust will be base ball at 10 a. m., Westfield against Knickerbocker A. C., and 3:30 p. m., Westfield against Equitable Life, with the I. O. S. championship meet in between at 1:30 p. m. June schedule. June 1, Clark's O. N. T.'s; June 8, Hudsons or Murray Hills; June 15, Bayonne Field Club; June 22, Loyolas; June 29, Haledon A. C. of Paterson.

GOLF.

There will be golf all day Memorial Day on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds, including play for the Chapman cup and the Holiday cup.

A handsome flower garden has been laid out directly in front of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds, adding much to the general attractiveness of the surroundings.

In a few days the deed for the farm recently purchased by the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be recorded. The $21,000 bonds to be issued will date from June 1.

Already suppers are becoming popular at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club house, and Fred Ivamy, the steward, is maintaining an enviable reputation among the members. Last week dinners were given by Miss Lowe and J. W. Sandford.

There will be a reception and informal opening of the Westfield Golf Club house Wednesday evening. The course will be opened officially Decoration Day with interesting events. The club now has a membership of 150 and new members are frequently being received.

If possible the trolley company will be persuaded to extend its tracks from the present terminus near Hillside Cemetery to the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club house. Now that the club has purchased the farm and have become permanent tenants the members believe that they can secure the extension.

There is no member of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club that takes more interest in the club and its course than E. T. Barrows, chairman of the greens committee. Nearly every morning during the week Mr. Barrows visits the course and spends an hour looking after matters that need attention. It is this sort of interest that produces the best results and the members of the club appreciate the efforts put forth by Mr. Barrows.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS MADE.

ALL READY FOR THE MEMORIAL DAY CELEBRATION.

Last Meeting of Joint Committee in Charge Was Held Last Evening—What Was Done

The last meeting of the joint committees having in charge the arrangements for the Memorial Day celebration, took place last evening in Comrade Moffett's office. From the reports given everything is in condition and no part which will mar the day's programme has been left unprovided for. The exercises for the most part will be the same as those of previous years, one of the exceptions being that the afternoon service will be held in Reform Hall instead of Music Hall as has been the custom.

As the space in the latter hall is limited, and to prevent all objectionable noise tending to mar the exercises, the committee wishes it made known that women with small children and children under five years of age will not be admitted. Children over five years must be accompanied by parents Admission to the hall will be without ticket. The exercises will begin at 2 o'clock.

Today the descendants of Mr. Fenner number eighty and all of the three generations now living are expected to be present.

A business session will be held in the morning and the afternoon will be spent in country frolics. Dancing in the barn will be one of the true farmhouse pleasures.

A big dinner served in genuine country fashion will be served at noon. Rev. Mr. Hart, of the Reformed church in Raritan, will make an address during the day.

LITERARY.

The June Magazine Number of The Outlook, which is its Annual Recreation Number, contains an article of extreme value by Phillip W. Ayres, on "The Forester and His Work." Mr. Ayres tells of the life of the forest, its importance to mankind, and of the tracts of forest land that already have been reserved, and it is hoped will be reserved, by the Government. The article is illustrated by photographs of trees, woodland and forests of the West and South. ($3 a year. The Outlook Company, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York.)

The June Forum is largely occupied with the discussion of national and international affairs. The leading articles, by Prof. Paul S. Reinsch, deals with the large question of "Governing the Orient on Western Principles," and considers especially the lessons of British experience in India. Albert G. Robinson supplies an account of "The Work of the Cuban Convention," and suggests an explanation of the misunderstandings that have arisen between Cuba and this country.

Harold Martin, a correspondent of the Associated Press, vigorously protests against the methods of "The Manila Censorship." Henry Litchfield West draws upon his long and intimate knowledge of Washington public life for an estimate of "The Place of the Senate in Our Government." Municipal affairs are presented by a paper in which Gustavus Myers, an authority upon the history of New York City government, and sets forth "The Secrets of Tammany's Success." John P. Young contributes "An American View of the British Industrial Situation," from the protectionist standpoint.

Shudders at His Past.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." They're unrivaled to regulate Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by L. W. Randolph. Only 50 cents.

—Preparatory service will be held at Warren chapel Friday evening and the Lord's Supper will be celebrated next Sunday morning.

—The least in quantity and most in quality describes DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous pills for constipation, and liver complaints. L. W. Randolph.

—The attendance at the Bible classes of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, including teachers, was thirty-eight.

—If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or water-brash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation, such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

Usually the Case.

She—What became of your cousin who met a man one day and married him the next?

He—She's in St. Louis, I believe.

"She certainly married in haste—I wonder if she is repenting at leisure?"

"No; I understand it keeps her so busy trying to support her husband that she has no time for repentance."—Chicago Daily News.

Chronic Kicker.

First Waiter—That man over at the corner table is an awful kicker.

Second Waiter—Yes; he complained the other day because there were no pearls in his oysters.

"And now he wants to know what we mean by removing the diamonds from the diamond-back terrapin."—Philadelphia Record.

A Royal Chair.

An interesting chair in the newly restored church called the Garrison church, at Berlin, has been ordered by the kaiser to be placed in his pew there. It is a simple wooden affair, and bears the following inscription: "King Frederick William I. once sat on this chair during divine service."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A General Idea.

"But," said the cruel editor, "this is not good dialect poetry."

"Not good dialect?" answered the dreamy poet. "Sir, I defy you to find a single word that is spelled correctly in that poem. I guess I know what dialect is."—Baltimore American.

Easy to "String."

Nell—I never knew a girl so susceptible to flattery as Maude.

Belle—That's right. Jack told her she was an angel, and she went right off and began taking lessons on the harp.—Philadelphia Record.

EVACUATING PEKING.

Gradual Transfer to Chinese Arranged by Commanders.

PEKING, May 28.—Arrangements are being made for the gradual transfer of the administration of Peking to the Chinese. There is no mutual agreement between the powers about this except on the general purpose to proceed with the evacuation, and each commander is acting independently.

The Japanese will transfer their sections first. Then the French and Italians will follow. The Japanese have already trained and drilled a number of Chinese who will act as police.

The affairs of the Chinese city will be administered by Chinese and those of the Tartar city by Mantchoos. Prince Ching will be the chief acting military governor.

It is feared that in the future there will be no unanimity in the administration of affairs and that the condition of things will be as bad here in regard to government as they have been in the past. Many Chinese still fear that the premature withdrawal of the foreign troops will have a tendency to encourage thieves and ruffians. The presence of the foreign troops has had a restraining effect upon this class of persons, although daily reports of robberies are already coming in.

Monument to South Carolinians.

CHATTANOOGA, May 28.—The monument erected by the state of South Carolina on the battlefield of Chickamauga was dedicated yesterday. Governor McSweeney of South Carolina made an eloquent speech, in which he extolled the virtues of the American soldier. Addresses were also made by General C. Irving Walker, Hon. D. S. Henderson, Colonel J. L. Harvey Wilson and Bishop Capers, at the conclusion of which the monument was unveiled. Governor McSweeney turned the monument over to General H. V. Boynton, who spoke in reply. The monument is 33 feet high. Its base and shaft are of South Carolina granite.

A Bad Cent Abroad.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Counterfeit cents are coming into the United States subtreasury nowadays with a rush. Apparently the counterfeiters are working overtime, and all the efforts of the United States secret service men have not availed in locating the plants from which the humble little counterfeits are turned out. More bad cents are now being received at the subtreasury for redemption than ever before in the history of the institution. Between 500 and 600 of the bogus coins are arriving daily. In April of 373,870 cents turned in 13,168 were counterfeit.

Bricklayers and Builders Agree.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The joint board of arbitration of the Mason Builders' association and the Bricklayers' union reached a settlement early this morning. The strike and the lockout were both declared off. All the bricklayers returned to work this morning. Two points in dispute are to be settled later by arbitration. If the arbitrators fail to agree, they will refer the matter to an umpire, whose decision will be final. On and after June 28 the wages will be 60 cents an hour, an advance of 5 cents.

Anarchist Plots Revealed.

ROME, May 28.—A newspaper published in Verona reports the attempted suicide of a youthful blacksmith named Pietrucci, who has confessed that he belonged to a society of anarchists and was chosen by lot to kill the emperor of Germany. He preferred suicide to making the attempt. In his confession he also disclosed the names of certain of his comrades who had been selected to kill Queen Helena of Italy, President Loubet of France and the czar of Russia.

Fatal Stage Collapse.

ROCKLAND, Me., May 28.—By the breaking of a coal stage at Spruce Head five men fell 25 feet to the deck of the schooner Ned P. Walker. James D. Caven was killed, Fred Cook and Willis Adams probably fatally hurt and Willis Bradbury and Orlando Allen very badly hurt. Four of the men were discharging coal from the schooner, and Willis Adams, superintendent, happened on the staging by chance.

Discovery of Iron Ore.

ST. PAUL, May 28.—A valuable discovery of iron ore made last week within 20 miles of St. Paul has been made public by negotiations for its purchase by the Minnesota Iron company and J. J. Hill. The discovery was made upon the farm of A. E. Manley, a Great Northern conductor, while his son was chasing a rabbit.

Famous Woman's Birthday.

BOSTON, May 28.—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe quietly celebrated her eighty-third birthday yesterday. Innumerable gifts and congratulatory telegrams were received.

ASSEMBLY IS UNITED

Unanimous Vote by Presbyterians For Revision.

THE ANTIS YIELD GRACEFULLY.

What Was Looked Forward to as a Day of Bitter Discusion and Fighting Turns Out to Be a Love Feast.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—The members of the Presbyterian general assembly held an old fashioned "love feast" yesterday. After years of fighting the highest authority in the church has authorized a revision of the Westminster confession and a short statement of faith. To the amazement of the commissioners themselves this was done with perfect unanimity. Instead of the hard fight looked for between revisionists and antirevisionists there appeared in the assembly only one class of men—revisionists. The antis had yielded gracefully during the interval since Saturday. After the final vote every man jumped to his feet and sang the Doxology.

Two slight amendments were proposed to the majority report and accepted without a question. The old committee upon revision was reappointed, and the result of its finding will be laid before the next session of the general assembly which is to meet in the Fifth Avenue church in New York city.

The choice of New York was not made without a protest upon the part of western delegates who favored Los Angeles as the next meeting place, but their pleas brought few votes. Dr. Purves was elected chairman of the committee on arrangements for the next session.

These matters made up the preliminary business of the assembly yesterday, and it was after 10 o'clock when the moderator called the order of the day.

Counterfeiters Taken In.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Four men who were charged with making and passing counterfeit coins have been arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields by William J. Flynn, agent in charge of the secret service bureau of this city. The prisoners said they were John Speciale and Herbert Hubbard, both of whom live in lodging houses on the Bowery, and Frank Green and Paul Sanders, who occupied furnished rooms in a house at Bergen street and Third avenue, Brooklyn. All of the men waived examination except Sanders, who demanded a hearing on the charge, which was set for Wednesday morning next. The capture of this quartet was made after the secret service men had been on the track of the alleged counterfeiters for more than a fortnight.

The Subway Strike.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Little progress was made toward terminating the rapid transit tunnel strike at the conference held yesterday afternoon. When the conference adjourned, it was the understanding that the situation had rather grown more difficult. Representatives of the strikers submitted a copy of an amended agreement which will be considered at a full meeting of subcontractors today. The subcontractors present at the conference held out little hope of its acceptance. They were firm in declaring that outside strikes would in no way be included in any agreement with their men. Chief Contractor McDonald issued a statement declaring that this was "a walking delegates' strike" and accusing the workmen of bad faith.

Robber Nearly Kills Old Woman.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Mary Skally, who lives alone in a small house at Babylon, is dying at her home from the effects of a brutal beating that she received at the hands of an unknown robber. Mrs. Skally is 90 years of age. During the night she discovered a thief in her room and, jumping from her bed, grappled with him. He threw her down and beat and kicked her into unconsciousness and then muffled her head in a skirt. Her screams before she became unconscious were so piercing that the robber escaped through a window, probably through fear that the attention of the neighbors had been attracted to the house. Mrs. Skally was unable to give the alarm until many hours after the assault.

Park For Peekskill.

NEW YORK, May 28.—President Lane of Peekskill, N. Y., is in receipt of a letter from Senator Chauncey M. Depew, offering to donate a park to the village. Just where the park is to be located is not yet known, but it is thought that it will be cut out of what is known as Depew's woods, which are 50 acres in extent. The senator has asked the privilege of attending a meeting of the trustees to explain fully his intention, and one will be called at his convenience.

Ticket Scalpers Win.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The act of the last legislature against ticket scalpers was declared to be unconstitutional by Justice Gildersleeve of the supreme court in ordering the discharge of Charles Weil, who was held for trial in a magistrate's court in a test case for violation of the law. He had sold a ticket to Boston over the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, although not an authorized agent of the company to sell its tickets.

No Bait For Cod Fishing.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 28.—Cod fishing at the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon this year is the poorest on record. This is chiefly owing to the inability to procure bait, as the Newfoundland bait act is being rigidly enforced. St. Pierre fishing vessels have deferred their departure to the Grand Banks because of the lack of bait, and 400 boats fishing in the inshore waters are obtaining no results from the same cause.

Irish Jumper Beats Record.

LONDON, May 28.—In the Irish championship games at Dublin P. O'Connor of Waterford covered 24 feet 9 inches in the long jump, beating all previous records.

Australasia's Population.

MELBOURNE, May 28.—The new census returns give the population of Australasia at 4,550,651. This is an increase of 740,756 since the last enumeration.

Mrs. Bonine Must Remain In Jail.

INSULAR DECISION

FORAKER ACT UPHELD.

Congress Had Right to Pass Island Customs Laws.

The United States Supreme Court Reverses Decision In De Lima Case and Sustains Circuit Court In Downes Case—Justice Brown Delivers Opinion In Both Cases—Dissenting Opinions Are Presented.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—In the United States supreme court yesterday opinions were handed down in all but two of the cases before that court involving the relation of the United States to its insular possessions. The two cases in which no conclusion was announced were those known as the 14 diamond rings case and the second of the Dooley cases. The undecided Dooley case deals with a phase of the Porto Rican question, and the diamond ring case involves the right to the free importation of merchandise from the Philippines to the United States. The original intention of the court had been to adjourn for the term after yesterday's sitting, but discussion of the cases passed on took about five hours, so the court adjourned until today, when it is presumed the remaining cases will be passed on.

Of the several cases decided yesterday the two which attracted the greatest share of attention from the court were what is known as the De Lima case and that known as the Downes case, and of these two the opinion in the Downes case is considered the most farreaching, as it affects our future relations, whereas the De Lima case dealt with a transitional phase of our insular relations. The De Lima case was the first to receive the attention of the court, and as it appeared to be quite sweepingly opposed to the government's contentions many persons precipitately arrived at the conclusion that the government had been worsted all along the line. This view suffered a decided change when the conclusion was announced in the Downes case. The court was very evenly divided on both cases, but political lines were not at all controlling.

The De Lima case involved the power of the government to collect a duty on goods imported into the United States from Porto Rico after the ratification of the treaty of Paris and before the passage of the Porto Rican act. The court said the government's contention in this case was substantially a claim that Porto Rico is foreign territory. The entire case turned upon that contention. The court held that the position was not well taken, that Porto Rico was not at the time foreign territory and that therefore the duty which had been collected must be returned.

The decision in the Downes case followed the history of the dealings of the United States with Porto Rico a step further. That case dealt with the legality of the exaction of duties on goods imported from Porto Rico into New York after the passage of the Foraker act providing for a duty upon goods shipped from the United States into Porto Rico and also on those shipped from Porto Rico to the United States. In this case the court held that such exaction was legal and constitutional.

The point of the two opinions considered collectively is that Porto Rico was never after the acquisition of that island foreign territory; that until congress acted upon the question no duty could be collected, but that as soon as congress outlined a method of controlling the island's revenues that action became binding—in other words, that congress has power under the constitution to prescribe the manner of collecting the revenues of the country's insular possessions and has the right to lay a duty on goods imported into our insular possession from the United States or exported from them into the United States. It holds, in brief, that for taxation purposes they are not a part of the United States to the extent that goods shipped between their ports and the United States are entitled to the same treatment as though they were shipped between New York and New Orleans.

Justice Brown delivered the court's opinion in both, and there were vigorous dissenting opinions in both. In the Downes case four of the nine members of the court united in an opinion, characterizing in strong language the opinion of the majority in that case. In this opposing opinion the chief justice and Justices Harlan, Brewer and Peckham united, and the chief justice and Justice Harlan presented their views in writing. Justices Gray, Shiras, White and McKenna also, while agreeing with the conclusion announced by Justice Brown, announced that they had reached the conclusion by different lines of argument, and Justices Gray, White and McKenna announced opinions outlining their respective positions. Justices Shiras, White and McKenna also dissented in the De Lima case, uniting in an opinion. Justice Gray also presented an independent and dissenting opinion in that case.

The small courtroom was crowded to repletion throughout the day, prominent government officials and many attorneys being present, and the proceedings were followed from start to finish with keen interest.

The first case decided was that of Elias S. A. De Lima et al., plaintiffs in error, against George R. Bidwell, collector of the port of New York, the case coming to the supreme court from the circuit court of the United States for the state of New York. The decision was rendered on behalf of the majority of the court by Mr. Justice Brown, the opinion being concurred in by all the justices except Justices McKenna, Shiras and White. The decision hung upon the case coming from the state of New York involving the levying of $13,000 in duties on goods imported from Porto Rico into the United States, the collection of the duty having been sustained by the lower court. In effect the decision was that territory acquired by the United States is a part of the United States and not foreign territory and that such import duties could not be levied. The decision of the lower court was reversed.

In the Downes case the United States supreme court decided, in an opinion by Justice Brown, that while Porto Rico is a territory of the United States it is not such for tariff purposes and that the Foraker act is constitutional. The judgment of the circuit court was affirmed. A dissenting opinion was handed down by Justice White, in which Justices Shiras and McKenna concurred.

The opinion of the court went into the case very fully. Justice Brown early in his opinion outlined the distinction between this case and the De Lima case, which had just been decided, saying:

"In the case of De Lima versus Bidwell we hold that upon the ratification of the treaty of peace with Spain Porto Rico ceased to be a foreign country and that duties were no longer collectible upon merchandise brought from that island. We are now asked to hold that it became a part of the United States within that provision of the constitution which declares that 'all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.' If Porto Rico be a part of the United States, the Foraker act imposing duties upon its products is unconstitutional not only by reason of a violation of the uniformity clause, but because by section 9 'vessels bound to or from one state' cannot 'be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.'

"The case also involves the broader question whether the revenue clauses of the constitution extend of their own force to our newly acquired territories. The constitution itself does not answer the question. Its solution must be found in the nature of the government created by that instrument, in the opinion of its contemporaries, in the practical construction put upon it by congress and in the decisions of this court.

"Eliminating, then, from the opinions of this court all expressions unnecessary to the disposition of the particular case and gleaning therefrom the exact point decided in each, the following propositions may be considered as established:

"First.—That the District of Columbia and the territories are not states within the judicial clause of the constitution giving jurisdiction in cases between citizens of different states.

"Second.—That territories are not states within the meaning of revised statutes, section 709, permitting writs of error from this court in cases where the validity of a state's statute is drawn in question.

"Third.—That the District of Columbia and the territories are states as that word is used in treaties with foreign powers, with respect to the ownership, disposition and inheritance of property.

"Fourth.—That the territories are not within the clause of the constitution providing for the creation of a supreme court and such inferior courts as congress may see fit to establish.

"Fifth.—That the constitution does not apply to foreign countries or trials therein conducted, and that congress may lawfully provide for such trials before consular tribunals without the intervention of a grand or petit jury.

"Sixth.—That where the constitution has been once formally extended by congress to territories neither congress nor the territorial legislature can enact laws inconsistent therewith.

"Whatever may be finally decided by the American people as to the status of these islands and their inhabitants—whether they shall be introduced into the sisterhood of states or be permitted to form independent governments—it does not follow that in the meantime, awaiting that decision, the people are in the matter of personal rights unprotected by the provisions of our constitution and subject to the mere arbitrary control of congress. Even if regarded as aliens, they are entitled under the principles of the constitution to be protected in life, liberty and property."

DECISION INTERPRETED.

Views of Solicitor General Richards, In Charge of Insular Cases.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Solicitor General Richards of the department of justice, who had charge of the insular cases before the supreme court, makes the following statement containing his interpretation of the decisions of the court:

"The important question involved in these cases was whether the cession of territory contained in the treaty of Paris made Porto Rico and the Philippines an integral part of the United States within the meaning of that provision of the constitution requiring 'all duties, imposts and excises to be uniform throughout the United States.' The court held that the cession simply made Porto Rico and the Philippines domestic territory of the United States, subject to the full control of congress, which control could be exercised without reference to those limitations. This limitation the court held was intended to apply to the states of the Union and does not apply to acquired territory unless by treaty and by subsequent act of congress it is incorporated within and becomes an integral part of the United States. The decisions are substantially a victory for the government. They sustain to the fullest extent the so called insular policy of the administration. The government now has the sanction of the supreme court for governing these islands as their needs require.

"The court holds that the constitution did not of its own force at once apply to those ceded territories, placing their people, their products and their ports on an immediate equality with ours and conferring upon them all the rights, privileges and immunities enjoyed by the people, products and ports of the several states. While their fundamental rights are preserved by those underlying principles of the constitution which apply everywhere the status of their citizens and the nature of the customs and commercial regulations are to be determined by congress in the exercise of the power vested by the constitution in congress to make all needful rules and regulations respecting territory belonging to the United States. Obviously what I have said regarding Porto Rico applies equally well to the Philippines, so that the president is perfectly free under the Spooner act to govern the Philippines as their needs and their interests may require.

"At the same time that the court has sustained to the fullest extent the contention of the government in these cases it has decided as a matter of statutory construction that the Dingley act could not be held to impose duties on goods brought from Porto Rico because by cession Porto Rico became domestic territory of the United States and therefore ceased to be 'a foreign country.' The decisions of the court call for no change in the administration of the law."

THIRD DAY'S JOURNEY.

Presidential Train Speeds Homeward Without Exciting Incident.

JULESBURG, Colo., May 28.—The presidential train made the third day's run on the homeward journey without incident. The trip across Wyoming was at an average elevation of over 4,000 feet, and at Sherman, just before the train began to descend the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains, the elevation exceeded 7,500 feet. Brief stops were made for water and to change engines at Rawlins, Laramie and Cheyenne, Wy., and Kimball and Sidney, Neb. The president made no remarks at any of these places, but he appeared on the rear platform and shook hands with some of those nearest the car. There were crowds at every station along the route, and every cattle ranch had its little group of cowboys sitting bolt upright on their horses and waving their sombreros as the train went by.

Mrs. McKinley is standing the trip very well and seems rejoiced that every hour brings her nearer home. The weather has been exceedingly pleasant, and that means much for her comfort. Arrangements for running the president's train from Chicago to Washington have been completed. The train will arrive at the national capital at 7:30 Thursday morning. A slow run will be made from Omaha to Chicago, timed to have the train arrive there early tomorrow morning instead of late at night.

EXCURSION STEAMER RAISED.

The Empire State, Beached at Brockville, Ont., Docked For Repairs.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., May 28.—The steamer Empire State, beached at Brockville during Friday night's storm with 500 excursionists from Ogdensburg to Kingston, has been raised and taken to Kingston under her own steam, with a wrecking pump on her deck, and was docked.

Manager Folger of the Thousand Islands Steamboat company, owners of the vessel, states that the accident was due to two open portholes through which the water entered the hull. So many conflicting stories are told by passengers that great public indignation prevails along the river. A deputation of Brockville councilors will go to Ottawa and demand a government investigation into the matter. The steamer was passed by both the Canadian and American inspectors of hulls, and their certificates are on board the boat.

The steamer, which was the principal excursion boat on the St. Lawrence, was built in 1863, named Sylvan and run on the Hudson river. Her sister boat, Rothesay, which was brought to the St. Lawrence from the Hudson, collided with a tug in 1889 and was beached and never raised.

WILL VOTE TODAY.

Cuban Conservatives Claim 17 to 11 For Platt Amendment.

HAVANA, May 28.—By unanimous agreement the Cuban constitutional convention has decided to take final vote on the acceptance of the Platt amendment today. This decision was reached after long arguments against the acceptance of the amendment by Senores Tamayo and Portuondo, who were answered by Senores Sanguily and Berrel. The conservatives claim that the Platt amendment will be accepted by the convention by a vote of 17 to 11.

The action of the Nationalist party in Havana in coming out against the amendment threatens a bad party split which is endangering the election of Senor Gener, the candidate of the Nationalists for the mayoralty of Havana. Of the six Nationalist delegates to the convention Senores Zayas, Lacret and Gener will follow the party dictum, while Senores Nunez, Rodrigues and Diego Tamayo will oppose it and vote in favor of the amendment. An attempt is being made to read the three latter delegates out of their party. They have refused to resign.

May Retire Both.

CHARLESTON, May 28.—A movement has been started here with the view to calling a convention at which the plan is to have all forces unite immediately in calling on Governor McSweeney to appoint General Wade Hampton, a former United States senator, to fill the term made vacant by the resignation of Senator McLaurin. At the same time, according to the present plan, a party will be organized to defeat both Tillman and McLaurin in the primary. The governor, however, will be urged to appoint successors to fill the unexpired terms without ordering a special primary election. Should this be done both Tillman and McLaurin will be retired from public life.

A MINING DISASTER.

Deadly Explosion of Dust In a Tennessee Mine.

TWENTY-TWO BODIES RECOVERED.

Thirty-five Men at Work When the Accident Occurred, and It Is Feared That All Have Perished.

CHATTANOOGA, May 28.—An explosion at the mines of the Dayton Coal and Iron company at Dayton, Tenn., yesterday afternoon, caused by dust gas or fire damp, killed probably 35 miners.

Twenty-two mangled bodies have been taken from the mines. Soon after the explosion eight miners were taken from near the mouth of the mine horribly burned, most of them fatally. The explosion occurred in the Richland mine shortly after the men started to leave for the day. Gas dust always accumulates in the mine at a point where there is a dip, and the explosion occurred when the men reached this place.

It is supposed that it was caused by a lighted torch carried by one of the miners, though the rules prohibit the use of such light in the mines.

The miners were walking out all together, as indicated by the fact that all the bodies have been found near each other. The explosion loosened the slate in the roof of the mine, hundreds of tons falling into the passageways, and it will be several days before it can be cleared away. The work of rescue began immediately after the explosion.

It is believed that all the 35 men in the mine perished. It was the most terrific explosion ever known in the mining section of east Tennessee. The bodies of the miners recovered are mutilated almost beyond recognition.

All the miners are men of family, and as soon as the explosion was heard women and children rushed to the mine and piteously cried and begged for information about husbands and sons.

The miners found near the entrance to the mine had nearly all their clothes burned off, and their flesh was baked from head to foot. It is not thought that they can recover.

The Richland mine is situated on a spur of Walden's ridge and has been worked for many years. It is a companion of the Nelson mine, belonging to the same company, in which 32 miners lost their lives by an explosion in 1895.

Suit Against Strong Executors.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Elizabeth, Jane and Frank T. Griswold, creditors of the estate of the late William L. Strong, have asked the supreme court to set aside judgments in four suits brought against the executors, Putnam Bradlee Strong and Albert Shattuck, by which $200,000 worth of securities found among the ex-mayor's papers were divided between Mary U. Strong, the widow; her brother, Robert W. Ahern, and her two sisters, Mrs. Rebecca S. Beasley and Mrs. Josephine W. Hogan. It is charged that the suit was a "family affair" and the executors did not defend the suit in good faith, but connived with the plaintiffs in procuring the judgments.

Hazen's Resignation Accepted.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Secretary Gage has received and accepted the resignation of Mr. W. P. Hazen, for the last four years at the head of the United States secret service at New York. Mr. Hazen resigns to engage in private business. During the last Cleveland administration Mr. Hazen was chief of the secret service and during his connection with the office has done most efficient service in connection with some of the most notable counterfeiting cases in the history of the department. His resignation was accepted with regret.

Must Accept American Conditions.

LONDON, May 28.—"The pope had a long consultation with Cardinal Gibbons," says the Rome correspondent of The Daily News, "regarding the position of Catholics in Cuba and the Philippines. According to authoritative information, the pope sees the necessity of compelling the monastic orders to adapt themselves to the situation created by the American occupation. Cardinal Gibbons made it clear to the pope that unless they give way the American government may expel them altogether."

A Machinists' Strike Settled.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 28.—The strike of the machinists employed by the Brooks Locomotive works was settled last night. All who struck are to be taken back without discrimination, the union is recognized, a shop committee will adjust grievances, 55 hours will constitute a week's work, and a straight increase of 10 per cent in wages is granted. These are substantially the demands made by the machinists.

Prisoner Attempts Suicide.

TRENTON, May 28.—John Coan, an inmate of the New Jersey state prison, attempted suicide by throwing himself from the gallery of the third tier of cells to the stone floor below. He was badly injured, and the prison physicians are doubtful as to his recovery. Coan was serving a year's sentence for malicious mischief, and his time was nearly up.

Night Watchman Shot by Burglars.

WEBSTER, Mass., May 28.—A daring attempt to blow up the safe in the car barn of the Worcester and Webster Street Railway company took place here, and Night Watchman Frank Balcom, who interrupted the robbers at their work, was shot and, it is feared, fatally wounded. The safe breakers, four in number, escaped.

Storti's Life Prolonged.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The United States supreme court has announced that the hearing in the case of Luigi Storti, under sentence of electrocution in Massachusetts, would be postponed until the 28th day of October next. This decision will have the effect of prolonging Storti's life until after that date.

MISS JACKSON'S PUPILS GAVE ANNUAL RECITAL

Casino Was Crowded With Relatives and Friends Who Heard An Excellent Programme.

YOUNG PEOPLE DID WELL.

SHOWED CAREFUL TRAINING ON PART OF THEIR INSTRUCTRESS.

Several Drills Were Given and the Remainder of the Programme Consisted of Great Variety of Recitations Creditably Given.

Before an audience which completely filled the Casino, the pupils of Miss Addie Parker Jackson's classes in physical culture and rendering, gave their annual reception last evening. It proved a most successful affair, the pupils acquitting themselves in a most creditable manner. In the rendition of all the numerous numbers on the programme the thoroughness of Miss Jackson's methods in teaching and the conscientious work of each individual was clearly depicted. Whether the subject dealt with was pathos or humor, it was rendered in a clear, distinct tone and augmented by timely gestures. The selections given embraced a wide range of subjects, but with none of them did the pupils reciting seem ill at ease. They were handled in a manner which would have reflected credit on elocutionists of more mature years and experience.

While the programme was for the most part composed of recitations the initial numbers of the first part outlined the pupils' progress in physical culture by several drills in which selected members of the class took part. The first two were termed hygienic and aesthetic drills and consisted of a number of skillful and difficult movements in which the participants were ably lead by Miss Gertrude Abbott. The third drill was called a Mexican drill and was for the most part a repetition of the former two with slight changes.

At the conclusion of the drills, the following selections were given: "Apples Finky, The Water Boy," Miss Aimee Conant; "The Story of Almiry Ann," Miss Margaret Abbott; "What Did The Clock Lose?" Garthwaite Carman; "A Conscientious Gossip," Miss Hazel Grant; "The Story of The Old Man," Miss Mary Westcott; "The Arithmetic Lesson," Howard Runyon. They were rendered in a pleasing manner and it would be difficult to make any exception as judging from the applause they were all greatly appreciated by the audience.

Master Runyon's "Arithmetic Lesson" helped out by a blackboard was given in true boyish style and caused much amusement. "Our Holidays" followed in which five pupils took part. Miss Lucie Budlong acted as introductor while Miss Marian Robinson was "New Year's Day," Miss Gertrude Abbott, "Washington's Birthday," Arthur Robinson, "Fourth of July" and Miss Margaret Lee, "Christmas Day." Each gave a selection to correspond with the day represented. Those of Miss Marian Robinson, who is but a very small girl, and Howard Robinson, the typical Young America, were very amusing and admirably rendered.

Part first terminated with a musical monologue "Was it the Song or Jack"? by Miss Wilhelmina Patton. Miss Patton acquitted herself in her usual excellent manner which was worthy of all the commendatory remarks heard after the rendition.

Part second was opened by Miss Alice Conant, who gave "Love's Sacrifice" from Ouida's "Under Two Flags." The selection offers an opportunity for energy and dash, and Miss Conant was equal to the occasion. Miss Helen Adams gave "Sir William Napier and Little Joan"; Miss Dorothy Hoar, "My Grandmamma's Fan"; Miss Anna Conant, "The Signalman's Story"; Miss Ella Case, "A Little Mother's Confession"; Miss Mildred Spicer, "As the Moon Arose"; Miss Lucie Budlong, "The Old Man's Ship Comes Home." The programme concluded with a monologue, "Alonzo's Letter," by Miss Janet Carter, which merited the frequent applause given.

Trolley Company Settled.

The action instituted some time ago by Wm. G. DeMeza, representing Ira VanBuskirk, of West Second street, to recover damages for injuries received by his client in the Westfield trolley accident, has been amicably settled by the defendants in the suit, the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company.

TO SUPPLY LIGHT.

Possibilities of Big Electric Light Plant to be Erected at Union in Near Future.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 29.—In the near future an immense electric light plant will be erected at Union. It is claimed that the intention of the company engineering the scheme is to supply only Union with power although it is admitted that a line will be run to Senator Kean's residence on Morris avenue in this city. There is a widespread belief that the promoters purpose to use the plant to greater advantage.

According to the plans decided upon the plant will be located at the Elizabeth Water Company's works, which is controlled by the Keans, and this is the foundation for a rumor that Senator Kean is backing the enterprise. The declaration has been made, however, by one in a position to know, that Hamilton F. Kean, and not the Senator, is the one who is fostering the establishment of the plant.

The company will make a bid, it is understood, to supply Union township as well as Morris avenue, through the various municipalities with light and power.

HOSPITAL LAND PURCHASED.

DECISIVE STEPS WERE TAKEN YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Formal Transfer Of Deeds From Heirs Of Randolph Estate To Hospital Governors.

The land upon which the new hospital is to be built was formally purchased yesterday afternoon by the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, and the deed was passed from the heirs of the Randolph estate to the board. This settles the question as to where the hospital will be erected. The board does not consider the objections to the new site serious enough to change the location as the members have been asked to do, and they will follow the proposed plans.

It will necessarily require much time to get in readiness for commencing the work on the hospital, as the plans will have to be presented and considered before anything else is done. No doubt plans for the structure will be asked for in the near future.

The Daily Press was delayed in going to press this afternoon on account of an accident to the machinery in the press room.

MANY EVENTS PLANNED FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

The Holiday Promises To Be An Unusually Active One For Many Plainfielders.

PROGRAMME OF THE G. A. R.

MANY BASEBALL GAMES ARE SCHEDULED FOR THE DAY.

Activity At Both Of The Local Golf Clubs Where a Number Of Competitions Will Be Held—Other Events For The Day.

Every true American citizen will recall with pride tomorrow the bravery of those who fought, bled and even died that the land they loved might not be politically divided. In this city as well as in the surrounding suburbs the occasion which has always borne the title of Decoration Day, though now is fast becoming known as Memorial Day, will be observed by events both solemn and joyful.

Though the old soldier will not be overlooked the day will be given up in many respects to one merry round of pleasure. Golf, baseball, tennis, bicycle, horse and foot races will constitute the athletic attractions, which, combined with picnics, fetes, parties and receptions, will afford a refreshing relief from the every day grind in business life.

First and foremost will be the commemorative exercises held under the auspices of the Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, Grand Army of the Republic. Early in the morning details of the veterans will wend their way to the several cemeteries and place floral remembrances upon the graves of their departed comrades. Not one will be forgotten. In addition to the bright flowers each grave will be marked by the usual miniature flag of the free people.

There will be a parade of the Post, in the morning, which to the music of fife and drum, long familiar to them, the surviving Union soldiers of the Rebellion will march with solemn tread to the cemeteries where short services will be held. In this sad journey they will be escorted by the newly organized Company K.

The climax of their exercises will be held in the afternoon, when the members of the post will assemble at Reform Hall to listen to a patriotic discourse to be delivered by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis.

The sports will equal any arranged for former years, not only in the variety, but in the number of events. Chief among these pleasures will be the contests in the great national game—base ball.

In the morning, games will be played in different sections in this vicinity. On Pittis' field, the Leal's School nine will meet the Columbia Freshmen at 10:30 o'clock. The annual game between the Warren Engine Company and the West End Hose Company nines will be held on the old cricket grounds.

A rather unique contest will be the contest at Dewey Park. Picked nines representing the striking machinists of the Scott and Pond Tool Works will fight for supremacy on the new diamond at that place. A silver cup has been offered to the winner of a series of three games to be played between these two teams during the summer months. This will be the initial contest in the series.

St. Mary's nine has a game scheduled with the Roselle Athletic Club team, which will be played at Roselle.

For the afternoon baseball games will also form an attraction. On the Plainfield avenue grounds, at 3 o'clock, the City High School team will cross bats with the Rutgers Preparatory School nine, from New Brunswick. The St. Mary's boys and the nine of St. Peter's and St. Paul's Lyceum will struggle on the former's West Fourth street grounds.

Hope chapel's team will spend the day in Brooklyn, where it will play two games with the Ivy Club of that city. One is scheduled for the morning and the other for the afternoon.

The Plainfield A. A. and the Garwood A. C. will cross bats on the latter's grounds at that place in the afternoon.

The Westfield team has two games scheduled. In the morning at 10 o'clock it will play the Knickerbocker A. C., and in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the game will be with the Equitable Club nine. At 1:30 o'clock the I. O. S. championship meet will take place.

Golf enthusiasts will find plenty of events to interest them. The links at both the Hillside and Park Clubs will be the scene of several exciting contests.

At the Park Golf Club the morning first preliminary round, medal play, for the Holiday Cup, is scheduled to begin at 9:30 o'clock. The four players making the lowest average net scores in either two or three of the preliminary rounds will qualify for the semi-finals later in the season. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be a men's handicap sweepstakes. In this event the player making the lowest gross score will be credited with the first win for the new scratch trophy, which is to be contested for by challenge on every succeeding Saturday afternoon. Tea will be served by the women during the afternoon in the clubhouse.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has also arranged a special programme. On its links the first round, match play, for the Chapman cup will be played in the morning, while in the afternoon the semi finals for the Chapman cup will take place as will also the first round, medal play, for the Holiday cup.

At Westfield the new golf club at that place will be opened with a dance this evening and the formal opening of the course tomorrow will be attended by a reception.

The track sports at Dewey Park in the afternoon will serve to draw a crowd. Silver prizes have been offered in a number of events which include bicycle and foot races.

James E. Martine, the popular "farmer orator," will make a stirring patriotic address at the flag raising at Nelson's hotel in the afternoon.

A considerable number of Plainfielders are expected to attend the Union County Hunt Club's horse show at Elizabeth. Some fine blooded stock will be exhibited, and the show bids well to be a successful society affair.

The Irvington-Milburn cycling road race is set for the morning. This twenty-five mile handicap event will be started at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. One hundred entries have been received in this event. A motorbicycle is offered as the first prize.

Company K, of this city, will be the guest of Company M, of Somerville, in the afternoon. A sham battle is the attraction in which the citizen-soldiery of these two places will participate.

H. P. BALDWIN PASSED AWAY.

VETERAN RAILROADER DIED AT ROSELLE LAST EVENING.

Was General Passenger Agent Of Jersey Central For Nearly Half a Century—Lived At Roselle.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Roselle, May 29—H. P. Baldwin, who held the responsible position of general passenger agent of the Jersey Central Railroad for forty-nine years, died last evening at his home in this place at 11 o'clock, following a severe illness of four weeks. Dr. Pierson was in attendance and several consultations had been held recently. Everything possible was done to prolong life, but owing to a serious complication of diseases, and Mr. Baldwin's advanced age, all efforts failed.

Mr. Baldwin was born near East Orange. Thirty-three years ago he took up his residence at Roselle and he lived here the rest of his life. At a comparatively early age he accepted the position he held up to within a short time of his death. During his long service he always held the highest respect and admiration of all the employes of the Jersey Central Railroad.

Railroading was in a primitive stage when he took charge and he lived to see wonderful changes which marked the advent of the Twentieth Century. Last spring Mr. Baldwin was elected mayor of Roselle borough. He was a faithful member of St. Luke's P. E. church and Roselle Lodge, F. and A. M. He always took a deep interest in matters pertaining to Roselle and his influence was always on the side of improvement.

Mr. Baldwin is survived by a wife and four daughters. The daughters are Mrs. H. P. Byllesby, Mrs. Warrington B. Lawrence and Miss Baldwin, of Roselle, and Mrs. Isaac Post, of Scranton, Pa.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and interment will take place at Easton, Pa.

Benefit Dance.

A number of friends of Richard Day, of West Second street, have made arrangements to hold a dance for his benefit. It will take place at Mountainside Grove on June 5. Prof. O'Reilly will furnish the music.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR WILL GATHER AT LOUISVILLE

Triennial Conclave of That Masonic Order Will be Held During Month of August.

PLAINFIELDERS TO BE THERE

TRINITY COMMANDERY WILL SEND A SMALL DELEGATION.

Fine Programme Has Been Prepared For Entertainment Of The Visiting Knights—Jersey Commanderies Expected—What Is Planned.

The sixteen commanderies in this State will be more fully represented at the twenty-eighth triennial conclave of the Knights Templar this year than ever before. The conclave will be held at Louisville during the fourth week of August.

Three years ago the triennial conclave was held in Pittsburg, where fully 25,000 delegates were in attendance, while the one three years previous was held in Boston and was also largely attended. The conclave this time promises to eclipse all previous meetings not only in the number of delegates as well as visitors, but also in the grandeur of the reception on the part of the people of Louisville.

Among the commanderies from this State which will attend in a body is the Hugh de Payens, No. 1, of Jersey City. It has engaged quarters at the former home of John A. Haldeman, of the Courier Journal, in the most fashionable part of the city. A number of members of Pilgrim Commandery, No. 16, of Hoboken, expect to attend the conclave. Other subordinate commanderies that will no doubt be represented are: Palestine, No. 4, of Trenton; Damascus, No. 5, of Newark; Corene, No. 7, of Camden, and Trinity, No. 17, of this city.

Dr. D. C. Adams and Jacob Kirkner, of Plainfield, are expected to attend the conclave, as both are officers of the grand commandery of this State.

The representation of the conclave is made up of Council officers of the grand commanderies of the several States, and the past grand commanders of the commanderies of the various States.

As at present arranged the programme is finer than at any one previous held. It is as follows:—

Sunday: Services in Broadway Methodist church, conducted by Very Eminent Sir and Rev. J. O. W. Coxe, the grand prelate of the grand encampment of the United States.

Monday: Grand escort of all commanderies to quarters.

Tuesday: Mammoth parade; 30,000 uniformed Knights and 125 bands of music.

Wednesday: Competitive drill for five silver trophies, valued at $5,000; reception at the Masonic Widows and Orphans' Home; Horse Show, entertainment entitled "An evening of Darky Song and Dance." Col. W. S. Hays, the song writer, will be in charge and under his direction 150 pickaninny voices will render "coon" songs; reception to President McKinley and Admiral Schley; a visit to the famous Kentucky Derby grounds where the equine aristocracy of the State will be exhibited.

Rev. Mr. Newman is a son of H. O. Newman, of West Fifth street, and is a young man possessed of rich intellectual endowment. A host of friends in this community predict a brilliant future for him.

Reform Club Meeting.

NEW FREIGHT LINE.

Work Being Rushed On Line To Connect Pennsylvania Railroad With Tidewater.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, May 29—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is vigorously rushing the work on the uncompleted section of the New York Bay Railroad which runs parallel to the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks between the Elizabethport branch of the Central road and Newark Bay.

The new line is on the south side of the Lehigh spur which crosses Newark Bay. On the opposite side of the spur is the Pennsylvania Railroad's shortcut branch. With these two branches in operation the company will be able to respond to all the demands made upon it for both freight and passenger service.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad bridge across Newark Bay will be used by the new line. As at present arranged the route will extend from the main line at Waverly across the Newark Meadows and then over Newark Bay and the Bergen peninsula. It is intended to use the new line as a freight route to tidewater.

RECEPTION TO GRADUATES.

MEETING OF BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI HELD.

Decided to Give Reception to Class of 1901 at Park Club—Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the North Plainfield High School Alumni Association was held Monday evening at the High School building. President, N. Douglass Drake occupied the chair. The reports of the secretary, Miss Emma Line, and treasurer, Miss Grace Emmons, were presented and showed that the association is in excellent condition financially and otherwise. While there is not a balance in the treasury all accounts were closed even, much to the gratification of the members.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Frank Bach; vice-president, N. Douglass Drake; treasurer, Miss Aimee Emmons; secretary, Miss Ida Fountain.

The members decided to give this year's graduation class a reception and it will probably be held the Friday evening following commencement at the Park Club. The association will hold another meeting Monday evening at the High School to make final arrangements for the reception.

PLAINFIELD INTERESTED.

Two Former Residents Wedded At Church Of Heavenly Rest, New York, Yesterday.

Many Plainfield people will be interested in the marriage of Miss Emma Haviland and Charles Edward Case, which took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth avenue, New York.

Miss Haviland was given away by her father, A. W. Haviland. The maid of honor was Miss Gertrude Haviland, a sister of the bride. The bridemaids were Miss Cora Underhill Haviland, another sister, Miss Clara Cary Case, a sister of the groom, and Miss Mary Wells, of Plainfield. The best man was Frederick Case, the groom's brother, and the ushers were Henry Bushnell, Fred W. Goddard, Howard Foster, M. E. Haviland, H. Buell and Henry Newhall.

The bride's gown was white crepe de chene, trimmed with old point lace and pearls. The bridemaids were gowned in white organdie, with large picture hats, trimmed with lilacs. Their bouquets were white lilacs. There was no reception except for the bridal party and a few intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Case will make their home in Rochester, where Mr. Case is in business. A number of Plainfield people were present at the marriage.

Smoker and Entertainment.

At the conclusion of the regular meeting of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, last evening, the members enjoyed a smoker and informal entertainment. Speeches were made by several of the officers and a number of well-rendered vocal solos by George Dufford were greatly appreciated. Refreshments in abundance were served at the close.

Hopes For Speedy Recovery.

Miss Nellie Wilbee, aged eleven years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilbee, of Johnston avenue, was taken to the hospital Monday evening where she was operated upon for appendicitis. She is doing well and the physician hopes for an early recovery.

David W. Rogers, of West Second street, is again detained at his home with a severe attack of rheumatism.

VETERANS FEEL THEY HAVE BEEN SLIGHTED.

Were Not Formally Invited to Send Details to The Plainfield Schools This Morning.

STATEMENT MADE BY POST.

SPECIAL EXERCISES HELD AT THE VARIOUS PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Col. Mason W. Tyler Made Address at Plainfield High School This Morning—Programmes at Several Other Schools.

Following the custom of former years, Dr. J. E Berg, commander of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., sent a communication to H. M. Maxson, superintendent of city public schools, asking for information as to the time for holding memorial services in the various schools, as the Post desired to send details out as usual.

F. A. Clark, as clerk of the Board of Education, replied to Commander Berg's letter and informed him that exercises would be held this morning at the High School at 8:30 o'clock and Col. Mason W. Tyler would speak. The time for holding the exercises in the other schools was appended. The letter was read last evening at the Post meeting and caused a sensation.

The following statement, expressing the sentiment of the veterans, was drafted and is intended to explain the situation to the teachers in the schools:

"In view of the absence of even a semblance of an invitation to the G. A. R. Post to participate in the memorial exercises of the public schools, we will send no official delegates; realizing that the matter is taken out of our hands by the superintendent and officials of the Board of Education. While keenly feeling the slight we do not resent it in the least, but accept the situation. Volunteers will no doubt be present as a portion of the visiting public."

Official: H. C. Smith, Adjutant.

Superintendent H. J. Wightman, of the borough public schools, sent an invitation to the post to send details to the schools, and this was done.

Major W. D. W. Miller made an address to the pupils of the primary department of the North Plainfield schools this afternoon on the meaning of Memorial Day.

An elaborate programme had been arranged by the children which afforded them considerable pleasure. Recitations, of a patriotic nature, were delivered by Grace Schuyler, Celeste Kolb, Bessie Conroy, Marguerite Bennett, Alice Mason, Winnie Giese, Lottie Conger, Helen Peter, Mabel Grant, Ernestine Richter, Gay Hartley and Sadie Foster, and Carl Hammond, Harry Allen, Fred Clark and Howard Debele.

The little ones sang some National airs and also participated in a flag drill.

Memorial Day exercises were held in the assembly room of the Somerset street school building by the pupils of the Borough High and Grammar School.

The affair was naturally of a purely patriotic nature and was interesting throughout. Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph delivered the address. Some patriotic airs were rendered by a violin quartette, composed of the Misses Mary Seal and Emma Almer, and George and Robert Hand. The Misses Bessie Martin, Lizzie Ryan, Ursula Krewson and Lena Hammond, and Otto Mueck recited appropriate pieces, and the Misses Aynes LaBoyteaux and Bessie Martin, and Clyde Slater, rendered a vocal trio. A number of National tunes were sung by the pupils as choruses.

In recognition of the day the little pupils of the Franklin School saluted the flag at their exercises this morning. No formal programme had been arranged, but the little ones sang in chorus a number of patriotic and religious selections.

A novel feature of the Bryant School exercises was a descriptive recital of the principal battles of the Civil War, by the following: Fort Sumter, Shepherd DeKay; Siege of Vicksburg, Walter Caldwell; Battle of Gettysburg, Arthur Loizeaux, and The End of the War—Richmond, Charles Loizeaux.

An unique flower drill was participated in by Misses Fannie Hand, Eneid Conde, Luella Day, Elizabeth Pound, Elizabeth Jones, May Frazee, Florence Smalley, Josephine Fisher, Minnie Line, Josie Cuthbertson, Cornelia Christoffersen, Helen Guttridge, Loretta Cashin, Louise Davis, Grace

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Speaking of the retirement of several of the older officials of the Central Railroad of New Jersey the Plainfield Press says:

The newspapers all through this section of New Jersey have said some very true and yet very complimentary things about the men who have just retired from active service on the Jersey Central Railroad. It may have often seemed to these same men that their efforts were not appreciated, but the happenings of the last few weeks show that the directors of the company, and the public as well, are fully aware of the extremely valuable services of these same men, and that both directors and public have taken their best method of letting their appreciation be known.

There is a good deal of truth in this. The public, as a rule, are "down on the railroads," and they often let the officials know their sentiments. But when railroad officials and the public get along well together for half a century, it is evident that good service has been rendered. So far as the city of Elizabeth is concerned it has had excellent friends in H. P. Baldwin an S. M. Williams, rarely appealing to these officials in vain for anything that could reasonably be given. It is to be hoped that their successors will continue, in full measure, the friendly relations that have so long existed.—Elizabeth Journal.

Shudders at His Fate.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." A preparation, such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

RAIN MARS EXPOSITION.

Fifth Successive Day of Moisture Has a Depressing Effect.

BUFFALO, May 29.—The fifth successive day of downpouring rain depressed the spirits of nearly every one connected with the Pan-American exposition. The landscape gardeners are the only ones on the grounds who are satisfied with the unusual weather conditions. Young, tender plants that would wilt under the hot rays of the sun are adding to the beauty of the Rainbow City. The peony show which was to have begun yesterday has been postoned a week on account of the backward season.

The inhabitants of the Midway suffer most from the cold, clammy downpour. The Indians from the south, the orientals, the natives of the south sea islands, the Mexicans and the South Americans suffer greatly, and many cases of sickness have developed among them.

A BAN ON SECRET ORDERS.

United Presbyterians Vote to Exclude Members From the Church.

DES MOINES, May 29.—By a vote of 90 to 63 the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church adopted the judiciary committee's report with regard to an interpretation of article 15 of the creed. The action of the assembly is in effect to exclude members of secret orders from admission to the church. It is also interpreted by some of the delegates to mean the expulsion of members of the church who now belong to the secret societies. The final discussion was long and heated. M. C. McKittrick of Los Angeles said he would rather cut off his right hand than to vote for the exclusion of members of secret societies already in the church.

"If we let this report go through as it is," said Dr. McCreery of Pittsburg heatedly, "we are saying that men who have been good members of the United Presbyterian church for years must be turned out of doors. I want to tell you, fathers and brothers, that if we pass this report without amendment we are going to make more trouble than the United Presbyterian church has ever seen."

Aged Confederate Died In Poverty.

MILFORD, O., May 29.—Colonel James G. Miner, an assistant secretary of the Confederate navy during the civil war, has just died in poverty here, aged 82 years. Colonel Miner was a graduate of Edinburgh university, a native of New England, but a resident of Texas and a friend of General Samuel Houston. He served under Taylor in the Mexican war. Before the war he was one of the owners of the famous Tredegar Iron works of Richmond. The civil war swept away his fortune, and since then he had battled unsuccessfully in the effort to build up a new fortune. He invented a high pressure engine, but could not bring it to a financial success. In a trunk in this city he had $1,000,000 of Confederate bonds and money. Three weeks ago his wife, who bravely shared his ill fortune with him, died, aged 80, and a Mrs. Spencer gave her burial and took the broken hearted old man to her home.

A Double Tragedy.

LINCOLN, R. I., May 29.—In a fit of jealousy, inflamed by liquor, William Martineau, aged 35, shot and instantly killed his wife, 22 years old, and, after attempting to kill Albert Fairbanks, who sought to rescue the woman, turned the weapon on himself and completed the double tragedy. Martineau had been jealous of his wife, who was very pretty, at different times, and twice she had left him because of discord. Tuesday she left him for good, she said, going to the home of Mrs. Harper until she could return to her parents.

Children Burned to Death.

BELLE CENTER, O., May 29.—The two children of Mrs. Frank Sickles, aged 2 and 5 years respectively, were burned to death by a gasoline explosion at their home here. In attempting to rescue the children Mrs. Sickles was fatally burned.

Presbyterian Assembly Indulges In Personalities.

MINTON NAMED TO SUCCEED DICKEY.

Trouble Arose Over Appointment of Chairman For the Revision Committee—Congress Urged to Act on Temperance Question.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—The one hundred and thirteenth Presbyterian general assembly was dissolved at 6:15 o'clock last night by Moderator Minton after having been in session for nearly two weeks, during which time many matters of the utmost importance to the church were considered. Chief among these was the question regarding the revision of the confession of faith. After a discussion continuing nearly four days this momentous subject was referred to a special committee of 21 members, who will make recommendations as to the manner in which the creed should be revised and present them to the next general assembly, which meets in New York.

For the first time since the assembly convened the equanimity of the commissioners was disturbed by the introduction of personalities. The trouble occurred during the discussion on the chairmanship of the revision committee. Rev. Dr. J. D. Moffat suggested a change in the minutes of Monday's session so the records would show that a new committee had been appointed to revise the creed regardless of the old committee, of which Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey of this city was chairman. His suggestion was adopted, and Rev. Dr. James E. Moffat of Cumberland, Md., moved that Moderator Minton be elected chairman of the committee. This incensed the friends of Dr. Dickey, and, although Dr. Moffat's motion prevailed, the subject was revived later in the session by Rev. Dr. S. J. Niccolls of St. Louis. Dr. Niccolls moved to reconsider the motion, but as he had not been present during the earlier debate he was declared out of order.

The motion to reconsider was then renewed by Rev. W. D. Crockett of Canton, Pa., and many of the commissioners participated in the debate that followed. Realizing the delicacy of his position, Moderator Minton relinquished the chair to Vice Moderator Pitcairn. The matter was finally adjusted by Dr. Dickey, who advised the assembly against reconsidering the motion, saying he was confident there had been no attempt to cast any reflection upon him, but that the commissioners merely desired to honor his successor as moderator.

Dr. Dickey's friends wanted the election of the chairman to be made by the committee, in which event it is conceded Dr. Dickey would have been re-elected. The motion, however, was lost.

There are still six members of the revision committee to be appointed, but Moderator Minton said he had not yet made any selection.

The closing hours of the assembly were devoted to routine matters. The report of the committee on temperance urged ministers to call the attention of congressmen in their districts to the necessity for the completion of legislation now pending regarding the drink traffic in the islands of the Pacific. The report also urges the government to take effective action toward the suppression of the liquor traffic in all of our new possessions.

Confederate Veterans Meet.

MEMPHIS, May 29.—Twenty-three hundred and five members of the United Confederate Veterans, survivors of the great armies that battled for the cause of the south during the war of secession and representing 1,331 camps of the organization, met in Confederate hall yesterday for their eleventh annual reunion. Several delegations arrived too late to participate in the opening session of the convention, but it is expected there will be fully 2,500 old soldiers in attendance. Although the convention in point of oratory, enthusiasm and all other respects was a most brilliant success, the weather put a damper on the one feature of the reunion, which Memphis had arranged with especial care and pride. This was the great floral parade, which, owing to the threatening clouds and muddy streets in the outskirts of the city, was postponed.

New Turret For Warships.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The navy department has approved the plan of a balanced turret for the new monitor Nevada, and this will be a precedent for the monitors Florida, Wyoming and Arkansas of the same class. This is the first introduction of the balanced type of turret for the monitors, and it practically makes universal this form of construction among the large ships of the navy. By this new system the entire structure, including the guns, is balanced at the center of gravity instead of the center of the turret, and as a result the weight of the finger is almost sufficient to swing the guns about on their track.

Soldiers Repay Kindness Shown.

ALBANY, May 29.—The members of Company C of the Twenty-third regiment of Brooklyn, who were stationed in this city during the recent strike, have presented Mrs. J. A. Jones of 197 Quail street with a handsome silver tea service. The gift was in consideration of the many courtesies shown the members of Company C by Mrs. Jones while they were in service in this city.

Drowned While Fishing.

GENEVA, N. Y., May 29.—William L. Cook of Oakes Corners, N. Y., four miles west of here, was drowned in Canandaigua outlet while fishing. He jumped in after his dog, which had fallen in. The accident was witnessed by a companion, who did not reach him in time.

Alabama Crops Ruined.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., May 29.—The Tennessee river has flooded thousands of acres of land, and it is estimated that the farmers of this section have lost $100,000 by the floods. Replanting of thousands of acres of cotton and corn will be necessary.

A Strike In Southern Railway Shops.

CHARLESTON, May 29.—All union men in the Southern railway shops here have struck for a nine hour day. The shops thus far are to handle the running work with a nonunion force. The men at two other local shops are out.

Weather Probabilities.

Cloudy, with occasional rains; brisk north to northeast winds.

PORTO RICANS SORRY

News of Insular Case Decision Causes Disappointment.

FAVOR DECLARATION OF SELF SUPPORT

Under the Foraker Law, Whenever the Island So Declares, President McKinley Is to Proclaim Free Trade.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 29.—The first report of the supreme court's decision in the De Lima case received here, which was interpreted as declaring the taxation of imports from Porto Rico to the United States 15 per cent of the Dingley duties to be unconstitutional, was received with great satisfaction. When the full report of the De Lima case was published, there was evidenced a general feeling of disappointment among Porto Rican merchants, who had hoped that the court's decision would give them a year's free trade. Porto Ricans are reluctant to believe that the full report is true.

The consensus of opinion on the matter seems to be that the Porto Rican legislature should be convened in extra session to declare Porto Rico self supporting without the collection of customs on imports between Porto Rico and the United States. A general spirit of complaint that all the supreme court's decisions were against Porto Rico is noticeable. When San Juan merchants were questioned on the subject, they manifested much regret at the outcome, as they had hoped to have refunded all the moneys paid under the 15 per cent application of the Dingley duties. It was generally expected that the court's decision would grant Porto Rico free trade and her citizens full citizenship and constitutional privileges. When told if the latter privileges had been granted, the internal revenue laws of the United States would be applied to the islands and that all funds and customs thereunder collected would be deposited in the federal treasury, all Porto Ricans questioned in the matter acknowledged that this would be bad and that their present status was preferable, as they did not believe that the island could stand the collection of United States internal revenue and that such collections, if attempted, would necessitate an even heavier property tax for the maintenance of Porto Rico.

Only a few Porto Rican business men understand the importance of the supreme court decisions. Those who are bankers predict an immediate revival now that the status of the country has been decided.

By agreement with New York houses many Porto Rican shippers will receive half of the amounts refunded under the new decision.

The people generally are as much disappointed at not being granted American citizenship as they are with the court's decision in regard to the tariff. The members of the cabinet seem to favor free trade. The island's yearly budget is $2,000,000.

As a result of the consultation in Washington between Governor Allen and President McKinley, Mr. Hollander will in a few days submit a report to Governor Allen showing the operations of the former's new revenue act, from which it will appear that expectations are entertained as to the adequacy of the measure. It has been fully realized that the insular treasury is rapidly approaching a position where it can dispense with the customs receipts accruing from trade with the United States without in any wise endangering the present secure financial position of the island.

By the provisions of section 3 of the Foraker bill free trade becomes operative whenever the Porto Rican legislature passes a resolution that an adequate system of insular taxation has been put into operation, and President McKinley upon notification of this resolution is to proclaim free trade for Porto Rico. If the plan now in contemplation is carried out, Governor Allen will convene the legislature in extra session solely for the purpose of passing this resolution. This action will probably be taken July 25, at which time the Hollander bill will have been in force for nearly one month, and it is probable that free trade will be declared in October.

To Refund $2,000,000.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Spaulding announced that the amount collected under the Dingley act on Porto Rican imports which will be refunded to the importers under the supreme court's decision is about $2,000,000. The payments will begin when the collectors send in certified statements of amounts due importers under the decision.

Murdered by Italians.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 29.—Jacob Larsen, an engineer, employed as night foreman of a gang constructing a sewer a mile east of Greenwich, was murdered at 9:30 last night by three Italians whom he had discharged. The murder was a particularly brutal one. Larsen was stabbed in the abdomen, being nearly disemboweled. According to the account of the fireman, an eyewitness, the three Italians approached Larsen near the boiler house of the sewer. A scuffle occurred, and in an instant the Italians made off. Larsen, staggering, started for the house of the foreman of the works, a quarter of a mile away, and when he had nearly reached it fell. In ten minutes he was dead. A posse has been organized and is scouring the country for the Italians.

The Central's New President.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The presidency of the New York Central to succeed Samuel R. Callaway, who resigns to become head of the American Locomotive company, has been offered to W. H. Newman, president of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway. Mr. Newman was in the city yesterday and in consultation with W. K. Vanderbilt and other directors of the New York Central. It is understood that he will accept the offer. Mr. Callaway will continue to perform the duties of his present position, however, until July 1. Mr. Newman's successor as president of the Lake Shore has not yet been discussed.

Noted Book Company Fails.

BUFFALO, May 29.—The Peter Paul Book company, one of the oldest and largest firms of its kind in western New York, has gone into the hands of a receiver. In its petition to the special term the company states that it is insolvent and that it will be in the interest of its creditors and stockholders if the corporation goes out of business.

NO MORE DECISIONS.

Until Court Makes Ruling Philippine Imports Will Be Collected.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Interest in the supreme court decisions centers at the war department, and efforts have been made to ascertain the intention of the department regarding the Philippines, as they are under the department's control. Secretary Root will express no opinion, saying that he has not yet the full text of the decision before him and that it will require careful consideration before the entire import of these opinions can be ascertained with a view of governing future executive action.

Several senators and representatives called on the secretary and discussed the situation with him, giving their views and interpretations of the opinions rendered Monday and the bearing they would have in the future government of the Philippines. Among these was Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman of the Philippines committee of the senate. He expressed the opinion that the decisions of the court would make Philippine legislation absolutely necessary in the coming session of congress. He also was clearly of the opinion that under the Spooner law the president had absolute power to provide for a revenue, both customs and internal, for the Philippine Islands in the general scheme for the Philippine government.

It is believed that the war department will promulgate a tariff for the Philippines soon.

After a session of three minutes the United States supreme court adjourned until the second Monday in October. The brief session was devoted to the formal disposition of motions. The two remaining insular cases, one of them that of the 14 diamond rings, dealing with importations from the Philippines, and the other, known as the second Dooley case, involving the question of exportations from the United States to Porto Rico, failed to receive attention, and they go over until the next term.

NEARING HOME.

Presidential Train Makes the Trip From Omaha to Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 29.—The trip of the presidential train from Omaha eastward across the state of Iowa was made over the Chicago and Northwestern, and to avoid the crowds at the stations the engines and train crews were changed a few miles from the end of each division. Few stops were made, but the train was slowed up at principal towns and cities, and the president appeared on the rear platform.

Iowa is Secretary Wilson's home state, and he shared the honors with the president yesterday. At Tama, where Mr. Wilson formerly resided, there was a big crowd to greet them both, but no stop was made. At Marshalltown the local G. A. R. post was lined up in the station.

Mrs. McKinley's condition has continued to show steady but not rapid improvement since she left San Francisco. She is gaining some strength, and the president is much encouraged. She has not yet left her couch, however. Dr. Rixey does not desire to have her tax her strength, but he permits her to sit up in bed most of the day. The president is at her side much of the time.

At the place where the Chicago and Northwestern crosses the Des Moines river over the new Boone viaduct, said to be the longest and highest double track structure in the world, the train was halted for ten minutes to permit the photographers with the party to take several group pictures of the president, cabinet and newspaper men. The train reached Chicago about 3 o'clock this morning. It was not run into the station, but was switched to the tracks of the Pennsylvania in the outskirts of the city.

At Canton today a stop of 20 or 30 minutes will be made to permit some of the relatives and friends of the president and Mrs. McKinley to come aboard.

New Jewish University.

NEW YORK, May 29.—A Jewish university, with an income of $60,000 a year, is to be established in this city. Its projector is the Rev. Dr. Isadore Singer. At a meeting held last night it was decided to open temporary offices and to begin as soon as possible preliminary work upon lecture arrangements. It was decided that new buildings should be located upon Washington Heights in order that students might attend at Columbia university if they so desired. The name selected for the enterprise is the New York University For Jewish Theology, History and Literature. At the meeting a provisional executive committee was named composed of prominent rabbis, laymen and financiers. The new university is not intended as a rival of either the Hebrew Union college at Cincinnati or the Jewish Theological seminary in this city.

Fairbanks For President In 1904.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Senator Fairbanks of Indiana has been formally announced as a candidte for president before the Republican convention of 1904. Harry S. New, Republican national committeeman from Indiana, who has arrived in Chicago, is authority for the statement that Indiana will stand behind Mr. Fairbanks in his race for the honor. "Senator Fairbanks will be supported by a solid delegation from Indiana," said Mr. New. "The whole state will be back of him at the next national convention. He is the logical candidate of the party, and with his nomination Indiana will be assured to the Republicans."

All Against Tammany.

NEW YORK, May 29.—One of the most remarkable and formidable conferences ever gathered together for the unifying of forces against Tammany Hall was held last night at the headquarters of the Citizens' union. The conference was participated in by Republicans and Democrats, who joined in a resolution to "insure the overthrow at the polls of the existing reign of political corruption, extravagance and indecency and establish a clean and efficient municipal government for this great city."

Trial Causes Excitement.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 29.—The case of Abraham Campbell, a farmer now on trial at Goshen on a charge of cruelty for assaulting James Kolls, a 13-year-old orphan boy whom he had taken from the Snake Hill (N. J.) almshouse, is exciting great interest. According to the physicians, the boy's body bore evidence of severe punishment.

An Island Gusher.

SANDUSKY, O., May 29.—An oil well that throws a six inch stream of petroleum fully 100 feet in the air has been struck on Middle Bass island, in Lake Erie, a few miles from this city. There is much excitement at Middle Bass.

From Infancy To Age

Laxakola for Babies.—It is the best and most effective laxative for children. BEST because it is pure and made entirely of harmless ingredients. BEST because it is non-irritating and never gripes or causes pain or irritation. BEST because it is sure and never fails. BEST because "Children like it and ask for it." BEST because its tonic properties are so good and so strengthening that it keeps the little ones in fine, hearty condition.

It is a dangerous thing to give little babies violent cathartics that rack and rend their little bodies. DON'T DO IT—give them Laxakola. For constipation, coated tongue, simple colds and fevers it is invaluable.

Laxakola for Young Girls on the threshold of womanhood, has been found invaluable. When they become pale and languid, the eyes dull, aching head, feet and hands cold, appetite gone or abnormal, and their systems generally run down, they need building up, and their blood needs cleansing. Give them Laxakola, its gentle bowel action to cleanse and its tonic properties to build up the system, will show immediate and most beneficial results.

Laxakola for Mothers.—It is particularly valuable and useful to women, especially mothers, as it is a gentle and safe remedy to use during all conditions of health whenever their peculiar and delicate constitutions require a mild and efficient laxative and tonic, while to nursing mothers, worn out with the care of infants and whose systems therefore are particularly susceptible to disease Laxakola particularly appeals.

It clears the complexion, brightens the eye, sharpens the appetite, removes muddy and blotched condition of the skin and cures sick headache to a certainty by removing the cause.

To women suffering from chronic constipation, headaches, biliousness, dizziness, sallowness of the skin and dyspepsia, Laxakola will invariably bring relief.

Laxakola for Old Folks.—In the Autumn and Winter of Life, when the various organs through long years of action have become more or less sluggish, it becomes necessary to stimulate them by some remedy best adapted to that purpose. That Laxakola is such, has been proved beyond all question. Its gentle warming, soothing action on the bowels, liver and kidneys, stimulates them to increased activity, cleanses the blood, quickens the circulation, and puts the whole system in a condition of health and enables it to ward off disease, while its tonic properties tone up the system and keep it healthy.

Laxakola Does It.

Laxakola is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical because it combines two medicines for one price, tonic and laxative. No other remedy gives so much for the money. All druggists, 25c. and 50c., or free sample of The LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau St., N. Y., or 356 Dearborn St., Chicago.

CHINA TAKING HOLD.

Force Ready to Police Peking Under Hui Yu Fen.

PEKING, May 29.—Twenty-five hundred German marines who are under orders to move to Kiao-chau will begin leaving at once, and the movement will be carried on gradually. Fourteen hundred will start today, about one-third of whom will travel overland.

The last of the American troops embarked on the transport Sumner on Sunday. The Sumner sailed for Manila yesterday.

Chinese regular troops under General Kou are now 50 miles north of Peking. General Ma is co-operating with the Germans at Fonping and Antzeling to the west of Peking. Four thousand of Governor Yuan Shih Kai's troops left the province of Shangtung yesterday for Peking. They are under command of General Chang. When they arrive here, they will be placed in charge of Hui Yu Fen, the former civil governor of Peking and ex-director of railways.

Hui Yu Fen has always been a friend of the foreigners, is an earnest reformer and was selected to assist the Peking authorities in securing unanimity of action in maintaining order. Many of Yuan Shih Kai's troops were originally raised by the former civil governor, and his selection for this new post is regarded as a very good one.

Chou Ham, provincial judge of Chi-li, will have charge of the troops in that province, but will be subject to the orders of Hui Yu Fen. Choufu, late commissioner for the settlement of missionary claims, will have charge of the rations and pay of the soldiers.

The preparation of the route by which the court will return to Peking has been assigned to Choufu, and a map of that part of Chi-li through which the court will proceed has already been prepared. A scheme is being prepared also for the transportation and reception of the emperor and dowager empress.

A third list of reprehensible Chinese officers, all in Peking, has been prepared. Fifty have been ordered punished.

The ministers will ask that these officers be prohibited from ever holding office again.

An official guard has been sent by the governor of the province of Shansi to escort the Protestant missionaries to Taiyuen-fu. The guard will arrive here on June 5.

Boxers Again Active.

LONDON, May 29.—"The Boxers are again active in all districts where there are no foreign troops," says a dispatch to The Standard from Tien-tsin, dated May 27. "Yesterday a missionary who was going to Tu-lu on the Grand canal was forced to return to Tien-tsin on account of a fierce fight raging between Boxers and Catholic converts. There was heavy firing on both sides." "Four thousand insurgents from the province of Kweichow have invaded the province of Szechuen," says the Shanghai correspondent of The Standard, wiring yesterday, "causing a widespread panic. It is said that 3,000 Yunnanese are about to join them."

Famous Will Case Settled.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The lawyers representing the heirs of Mme. Connelly, a fashionable dressmaker, have come to an agreement as to the division of her estate, which is estimated to be worth $1,000,000. By the agreement Mme. Connelly's heirs in New York city will receive property at Elberon, N. J., valued at $300,000. Her two brothers, Thomas and Richard Hodnett, who were sheep farmers in Australia, will receive a large share of the estate. Mme. Connelly died suddenly of heart disease at the age of 75 in this city in November, 1899. For a quarter of a century she was one of the most fashionable costumers in the city. She amassed a fortune after leaving the employ of A. T. Stewart, for whom she was a buyer abroad.

Dynamite Explosion Kills Three.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 29.—Three Italians employed on the new electric railroad being constructed between Scranton and Wilkesbarre were instantly killed by a terrific explosion of dynamite. They were employed in the blacksmith shop, and without any warning a big box of dynamite exploded. The frame shanty was blown to pieces and the three men hurled high in the air and killed.

Missing Banker's Body Found.

BERLIN, May 29.—The body of Simon Loewongard, formerly a banker in Cologne and recently extradited from the United States on a charge of forging bills of exchange, who had been missing since the night of May 3, when the North German Lloyd steamship Lahn arrived at Bremerhaven, has been found on the shore near Bremerhaven.

Shot His Little Sister.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 29.—Cleal Cline, aged 10, accidentally shot and killed his younger sister while at play. The bullet passed through her head and struck a boy named Sibley on the head, badly wounding him. A young brother of the Clines playfully slipped the fatal cartridge in the weapon with which the shooting was done.

Canal Claim Adjusted.

ALBANY, May 29.—The state canal board has awarded Grannis & O'Connor of Syracuse $66,214 on their claim against the state for moneys due on contract No. 5 of the western division of the Erie canal made with the state under the $9,000,000 improvement act. Interest from Aug. 14, 1898, was also awarded.

THE CUBANS ACCEPT

Convention Stands 15 to 14 For Platt Amendment.

CLOSING STRUGGLE IS A BITTER ONE

Conservatives Denounced as Traitors and Perjurers—Speech of Senor Gomez Nearly Carried the Day For the Radicals.

HAVANA, May 29.—The Platt amendment was accepted by the Cuban constitutional convention yesterday by a vote of 15 to 14. The actual vote was on accepting the majority report of the committee on relations, which embodied the amendment with explanations of certain clauses.

The radicals made a hard fight at the last moment, and Senors Portuondo, Gomez and Tamayo bitterly arraigned the conservatives. Senor Tamayo was particularly vindictive and declared that everybody who voted in favor of the Platt amendment was a traitor to his country. The convention compelled him to retract this statement. On several occasions personal encounters seemed imminent.

Senor Gomez spoke for more than an hour, and his speech undoubtedly won over Senors Castro, Robau and Manduley. He appealed to the patriotism of the delegates and rehearsed the long fight for independence, denouncing as perjurers all who favored the Platt amendment on the ground that they had sworn to draw up a constitution for an independent republic.

Several conservatives rose and asked Senor Gomez to retract, but he absolutely refused.

The following delegates voted against the majority report: Gomez, Gener, Portuondo, Lacret, Manduley, Cisneros, Ferrer, Fortun, Robau, Tamayo, Silva, Castro, Zayas and Alemán.

Senores Rivera and Bravo were absent.

The convention will continue its sessions, which will be devoted to drawing up the election law.

La Discusion in an extra exclaims, "Now will come immediate independence!"

Havana merchants were not surprised by the decision of the United States supreme court in the insular cases. Porto Rico is not looked upon here as a dangerous rival, but there is considerable fear that the court may give a similar decision with regard to the Philippines.

The merchants seem confident that the United States will make a reciprocity treaty with Cuba.

Return of the Volunteers.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—In reply to a request from the war department General MacArthur has informed the department that the volunteers will leave Manila for the United States on the following dates: Transport Thomas sailed May 27 via Nagasaki, with Forty-seventh infantry, 33 officers and 972 enlisted men; battalion Forty-ninth infantry, 24 officers and 358 enlisted men; band and three companies Thirty-eighth infantry, 10 officers and 285 enlisted men. Ohio sails today direct with headquarters and 10 companies Forty-second infantry, 29 officers and 740 enlisted men. Transport Grant with Forty-eighth infantry and two battalions Forty-ninth infantry, transport Kilpatrick with Forty-third infantry and Transport Logan with two battalions Thirty-eighth infantry and Forty-fourth infantry sail June 1. General Corbin says that the troops mentioned in General MacArthur's message comprise all the volunteers now in the Philippines and that the arrangements made for their departure indicate a complete fulfillment of the law requiring the disbandment of the volunteer army by July 1.

Bribery Cases on Trial.

MOBILE, May 29.—Captain Cyril W. King was on the stand in the United States district court yesterday in his own defense against the charge of accepting a bribe from Contractor Hobson. His testimony was in effect that Hobson was greatly behind in his contract work at Fort Morgan and unless helped would fail. King and Hobson calculated that the margin of loss was between $6,000 and $8,000 and that if King would give Hobson his personal services in helping him complete the contract Hobson would give him $5,000, or one-half the minimum amount at stake. King said he performed numerous services for Hobson and believed he fairly earned the money paid him by Hobson.

Engineers Leave Lake Steamers.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., May 29.—The Marine Engineers' association has taken up the fight in earnest against the Rutland Transit steamboat line, the only company of importance holding out against the union demands. With the arrival here of the steamer Langdon, both the engineers went ashore under union orders and were followed by the firemen, wheelmen and watchmen. Unable to secure an engineer, William Wise, chief engineer of the company, has taken charge of the steamer's engine as far as Buffalo, where she is to load freight for Chicago. Her former engineer has gone by rail to Buffalo to report. The engineers of the steamer Smith of the same line left on reaching the dock.

Car Conductor Under Arrest.

ALBANY, May 29.—On a warrant issued by Coroner Meredith of Rensselaer county Charles T. Johnson, who was conductor of the car wrecked in the collision Sunday on the Albany and Hudson railroad, was placed under arrest. He is in the Troy jail and will be charged with criminal negligence, resulting in death. The coroner is endeavoring to locate the responsibility for the running of the south bound car beyond siding 69, where it should have stopped, according to the rules of the company, until the north bound car had passed it.

America a Common Enemy.

VIENNA, May 29.—The Neues Weiner Tagblatt, in the course of an article advocating the formation of a European customs league against the United States, says: "America is the common enemy of all, an enemy so formidable that each European country must succumb unless leagued with the rest of Europe. Even united Europe will have a hard fight."

Many Killed by Lightning.

BERLIN, May 29.—During the last few days numerous thunderstorms have occurred throughout Germany. Near Aschaffenburg, Bavaria, three persons were killed by lightning. Near Crossen four were killed and in Frankfort forest five.

Memorial Day.

It is eminently proper that once a year the people of these United States should unite to honor the memory of the men who fought to sustain the unity of their country, some of them died while in actual service, while others of whom have passed away since that memorable conflict came to a close. For such a purpose was the thirtieth day of May set aside and termed Memorial or Decoration Day, and is observed throughout the land as a legal holiday.

While there a few, indeed, who forget that tomorrow will be a holiday, its significance is not fully realized by many. The many holiday attractions have tended to crowd the real features of the day into a secondary place. While the day is intended for a holiday, its specific object is to give an opportunity for proper exercises in memory of the men who fought and died for their country.

As is very fitting, the local organization of the Grand Army of the Republic has taken the initiative in arranging for tomorrow's celebration.

Tomorrow there will be a parade of the veterans and decoration of the graves of the soldiers in the local cemeteries. In the afternoon, there will be a gathering at Reform Hall at which a patriotic address will be made.

There need be no alarm felt by citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield over the fact that four cases of smallpox exist in the borough of Dunellen. Every precaution possible is being taken by the health authorities of that borough, and it is so far from Plainfield that there is but very little chance of a possible spread of the epidemic in this direction. Modern sanitary methods are so complete that epidemics, of the nature of those which have occurred in past years, are prevented through the control of the dread disease before it assumes the magnitude it did in former days. While it is possible that a few more cases may appear in Dunellen, Plainfield need not fear any invasion of the disease.

The action of the North Plainfield Board of Education, in deciding to name the new manual training school after the man who made that department of the borough public schools possible through his generosity, is very commendable. The borough of North Plainfield is certainly under great obligations to Charles W. McCutchen and that is but a very small way in which those obligations can be recognized. There are few municipalities in the State which possess citizens of the nature of Mr. McCutchen and it is but simple justice that the representatives of the people in school affairs should acknowledge their indebtedness as fully and in as public manner as possible.

While the objectors to the proposed new site for Muhlenberg Hospital have had full opportunity to state their objections to the members of the Board of Governors at the hospital, their protests will be of no avail. The members of the Board of Governors have given the subject full consideration and believe that their choice is the best that they can make. There are bound to be some disadvantages, of more or less importance, to each of the sites in question, but the people of Plainfield are perfectly willing to accept the judgment in the matter of the well-known citizens who compose the board. The purchase has now been made and it is now a settled thing.

The New York and Queens County Railroad (trolley) Company has joined the advertising procession, says the Philadelphia Record, which will eventually include every business enterprise. On Sunday last this company took two full pages in the New York newspapers to tell what "invigorating rides" can be taken on its lines. That the traffic will be enormously increased by these "ads" is beyond a doubt. Thousands of city people had no idea of the pleasant trips they could take for little money.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital has been remarkably fortunate in the past in securing very capable and competent women to act in the capacity of superintendent of that institution. It is to be hoped that the new choice of the board will be equally satisfactory.

All that is lacking to complete the new roadway and bridge, which connects Madison avenue and Duer street, is a good sidewalk on the western side of the street between Front street and the bridge.

If Greater Plainfield only existed, both city and borough would be equipped with street signs. The city has them and the borough needs them greatly.

Memorial Day this year promises to see more activity in Plainfield than has marked that holiday for several years past.

As tomorrow will be a legal holiday, The Daily Press will not be published.

Deeds Filed At Elizabeth.

The following deeds have been filed in the County Clerk's office at Elizabeth: Walter L. Hetfield, et ux, of Plainfield, to Aretta H. Manning, of the same place; 100 feet along the northeast side of West Third street, corner of John M. Hetfield's property, $1; John H. Hays, et ux, et als, to Almira Robinson, of Plainfield, 64 5 feet along southeast line of West Front street, Plainfield, $1.

Picnic at Grove.

The members of the Central Social Club, a local organization, have made arrangements to hold a picnic at Mountainside Grove tomorrow afternoon and evening. An excellent orchestra will be in attendance and the dancing will begin at 3 o'clock. The committee of arrangements consists of Daniel Guinee, John Wierenga, Harry Mattis and Frank McCabe.

Narrow Escape From Death

Thomas Endicott, son of Judge Allen B. Endicott, of Atlantic City, narrowly escaped death Sunday evening by coming in contact with an electric light wire. Aside from a heavy shock and a few burns he escaped further injury. The young man is a nephew of Dr. G. W. Endicott, of Park avenue.

Old Soldier's Experience.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25c at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Surprise Party Given.

A surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. William Ackerman, of Summit avenue, by forty of their friends Monday evening. The evening was given up to dancing, games and other social enjoyment. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Will Drill in Armory.

It was the intention of Company K to hold an extended assembly drill on the old golf grounds this evening, but owing to the disagreeable weather it will take place in the armory. Drilling will commence at 8:15 o'clock. This will be the last drill of the season.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylish, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace. Price $3.50.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, May 29.—Since the smallpox made its appearance in the borough, the number of persons undergoing vaccination is unprecedented. The offices of the local physicians have been besieged since Saturday, and one of them has administered virus to seventy-five people, mostly all children, although numerous adults have submitted to the process. No more cases have made their appearance, although one boy, who is said to have chicken-pox, and who was the seatmate of one of the Soukup children, is being closely watched. None of the cases in the Soukup family have as yet become alarming.

Tomorrow being a legal holiday, the majority of Dunellen's citizens will have a day to themselves, although they will have to visit outside places for amusement. The tournament at Dewey Park will no doubt secure a large number, while the ever popular Mauch Chunk excursion by way of the Jersey Central will secure its usual quota. There are several ball games scheduled at Plainfield, which will no doubt interest enthusiasts in this line. Marksmen are also invited to attend the shoot of the Middlesex Gun Club to be held in the afternoon.

After every heavy shower, the property at the corner of New Market road and Walnut street becomes inundated and the water remaining becomes stagnant. Residents in the vicinity complained to the Board of Health and the latter in turn notified the Potter estate that the trouble must be remedied. It is possible the ground will have to be filled in or drains laid.

Strawberries, cream and sociability were the features of the festival at the Presbyterian church last evening. There was a good attendance and the financial result will no doubt be very satisfactory. The affair was arranged and conducted under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

All the local grocers in the borough have decided to close their stores all day tomorrow in order to give the clerks a full day off The post office will be opened until 10 a. m., and from 4:30 to 6 p. m.

Mrs. William Gundrum, of New York, has returned home after a visit with her brother, Henry Wiedenhaupt.

Miss Etta Pittinger, of High Bridge, is spending a few days with Miss Mabel Lewis.

A letter remains uncalled for at the post office addressed to Theodore Foscue.

(Special Correspondence.)

New Market, May 29.—The funeral of James Cosgrove was held from his late residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock. They were conducted by Rev. Frank Fletcher in the presence of numerous relatives and friends. Those who acted as pall-bearers were Nelson Blackford, Jos. Meeker, Wm. Lienan, Lewis Dunn, H. C. Gaskill and C. E. Kelly. Interment was made at Samptown.

A large number attended the dime social held at the residence of Fred Nelson, of Watchung, last evening. An excellent programme of vocal and instrumental selections was rendered and at the close refreshments were served. The journey to and from Watchung was made in wagons.

Dr. Rosa Palmburg, a returned missionary from China, who was accorded a reception by the members of the Plainfield Seventh-Day Baptist church, spent yesterday with her sister, Miss Ella Palmburg.

Rev. Martin Sindall, formerly pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, but now of Berlin, N. Y., spent yesterday with friends in town.

Knight and Anna Morrison. Miss Marguerite Johnstone and Charles Line recited.

A delegation of the G. A. R attended the exercise. Captain M. C. Dobbins made an address.

Patriotic songs, recitations and an address by Captain M. C. Dobbins constituted the exercises at the Washington School. The recitations were delivered by the Misses Jennie Trotter, Overetta Culyer, Elizabeth Frank, Laura Baker, Rose Rothberg and Ethel Vail, Walter Knowlton and Francis Baker. The fifth class recited "The Blue and the Gray" and the entire school saluted the flag.

The Memorial Day exercises at the Plainfield High School this morning included an address by Col. Mason W. Tyler, a recitation by Fred Van-Auken, a soprano solo by Miss Cornelia Miller and songs by the school.

At the Lincoln School the exercises were held by the several classes separately in the various rooms. Brief talks were made, patriotic music sung and recitations rendered by the pupils.

Captain Wm. Hand delivered a patriotic speech to the pupils of the Irving School today.

As in the other schools the exercises consisted chiefly of recitations and songs. The fourth year and the sixth grade each gave a class recitation.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, May 29—The usual observance of Memorial Day will be a feature in this town tomorrow. There are a number of veterans of the Civil War buried in the Baptist cemetery and their graves will be decorated with flowers by a detail from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Plainfield. The public school will be closed. Today exercises appropriate to the day were held at the school under the direction of Superintendent Morey and the teachers.

The public school will close next month at the usual time, when the event will be marked in a fitting manner. This will be the last year for Superintendent Morey, who has tendered his resignation to take effect at the end of the school year. He has held the position three years and has given general satisfaction. Miss Robinson and one or two of the other teachers will also resign at the end of the school year. They will teach elsewhere. As yet their successors have not been chosen, but it is the purpose of the Board of Education to maintain the school at its present standing of efficiency.

Roy Day, who is one of the best bicycle riders in this vicinity, is entered in the Milburn road-race which comes off tomorrow. He is a fast man and his many friends are predicting that he will go a place among the leaders. For a few weeks past he has been in training riding over the hills and he is now in the best of condition.

James H. Guerrier is now a special marshal doing duty with Marshal George Allen. They do duty Saturday nights and Sundays. As the order of the borough is now excellent their services are not in great demand. When the pleasant weather arrives they will have plenty to do.

A game of baseball was scheduled yesterday between the local team and the team from the North Plainfield High School. Rain, as usual, prevented the contest. If the present weather continues there will be no attempt to arrange games for the present.

Some of the local machinists who have been employed at Scott's Press Works may seek jobs in other places if the prospects for an early settlement are not brighter. It is understood that machinists are wanted at Paterson and they may go there.

DEMONSTRATION OF PRACTICAL HARMONY WAS GIVEN IN FIRST PART.

Then Followed a Number Of Piano Selections By Pupils Of Miss Palmer.

A musicale given by Miss Palmer and her pupils at the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School, LaGrande avenue, yesterday afternoon, attracted a large audience. Part first was devoted to a demonstration of practical harmony, both written and played. Miss Palmer gave a short talk, in which she explained the method used in teaching the piano. Part first consisted of the following:

Construction of major and minor scale and and the triads found in each.
Eleanor DeGraff and Lillian King.
A sequence of triads comprising those of every major and minor key.

The following pupils took part: The Misses Edith Mellick, Alice Ross, Eleanor DeGraff, Elinor Waring, Helen Batchelor, Helen Cruikshank and Hartley Mellick. One number which was to have been rendered by Miss Margaret Lowe, had to be omitted, owing to her absence from the city.

"I'm already a member of the professional club over in the city," he said. "That has some point to it. But what's the sense of a social club?"

"It's a good place to meet the fellows and kill an hour or two of an evening now and then," Lombard urged.

"But I haven't time enough as it is, without killing any," Stanton objected. Still, he allowed himself to be put up. There was really no help for it; it occurred to him, too, that there was a certain undefined duty which a fellow owed to the brother of a lady he was about to marry; and Lombard took it upon himself to see that, after he was once well inside, he was not allowed to become a dead letter.

"It's astonishing what a difference it makes with a fellow whether it's business or society he's at," Stanton reflected, as he watched young Lombard, at the clubs. "He has a wonderful facility in adjusting himself and permeating everything. I haven't a bit of it. But it's something a man ought to have, I suppose, especially if he is about to be married. If I could only be let alone, I should rather like to drop in here occasionally and look on. I might pick up some of that facility myself, in time."

The thing which he abhorred most intensely and received most abundantly was flattery. Next to that he disliked being questioned. It is often the case with an expert at cross-examinations.

One evening at the club Stanton was fortunate enough to meet a man who was not a bore. His name was Richard Raymond. He was engaged in the insurance business in the far west, and knew the country, even to the Pacific coast, with all the wonders and treasures of its vicinage, as well as Stanton knew New York or Brooklyn. He gave him more entertaining and valuable information in five minutes than he had often obtained at the club in an entire evening.

He knew Stanton, too, and said some very clever things about him, but he said them in such a clever way that they were not at all offensive. He didn't stop the moment he had said them and bow and smirk and wait on a broad grin till Stanton had succeeded in saying something equally silly in contradiction or reciprocation.

Stanton smiled as he sat contentedly listening, and commented with himself: "If he were to digress to insurance, now, and ask me to take out a policy in one of his companies, I presume I should do it." But Mr. Raymond did not digress. He hardly mentioned insurance again. Speaking of minerals, however, he said that he had brought on a fine collection; it was at the hotel, and if Stanton cared to walk home that way and stop for a moment he should be glad to show it.

The collection proved thoroughly entertaining, and when, in the course of conversation upon it, the subject of California wines was touched, it appeared that Raymond had brought on some choice samples of these, too, in proof of a pet theory that with proper care in preparation, and proper age, the vineyards of the Pacific could be made to rival the vintage of the world.

While he was speaking of it he poured out a glass of the wine. This was a little different; for among other social habits which Stanton had never contracted was the habit of drinking.

"I have very rarely tasted wine, and should be no judge," he said, in an effort courteously to decline; but when Raymond gently but firmly insisted, it occurred to him that there was something of a social duty in accepting hospitality, after he had been accepting so much other entertainment, and he drank the wine, much as he would have taken out a policy in one of the insurance companies.

Unacquainted as he was with wine, Stanton was forced to admit that it was a wonderful product. Before he realized what he was doing, he had lighted a fresh cigar and made himself comfortable in one of Raymond's upholstered arm-chairs.

It seemed but a moment later when he opened his eyes with a start and a confused chagrin at the conviction that he had actually dropped asleep while Raymond was talking; but his eyes once open rested full upon Sam, who was laying his morning mail upon his dressing case, and over Sam's shoulder upon the clock, which declared that it was after ten.

Six days out of seven Stanton entered his office on the stroke of nine, and this was not the seventh day.

Seeing that Sam had noticed his open eyes, he simply remarked: "I am ready for my bath, Sam;" but when the man went out to prepare it, the young lawyer rose slowly and stood looking into his own face in the mirror, as though he might learn from it something which he very much wished to know.

"Society!" he muttered, in unutterable disgust, and began slowly poking the letters about that he might read the postmarks.

It is pleasant to have broad shoulders upon which to lay the burden of our shortcomings, even the overloaded shoulders of society.

One letter attracted his attention, more from its weight than from the fact that the handwriting was Miss Lombard's. It had evidently been delivered by messenger. He opened it mechanically and held in his hand Miss Lombard's card and their diamond engagement ring—nothing more.

"Is it broken, I wonder?" he muttered, slowly turning the ring over, before it dawned upon him that it was the engagement, not the ring, which was obviously the broken thing.

A creature of instinct, following instinct, he stretched himself, yawned, and went into the bathroom, saying to himself: "Thank heaven, there'll be no more society, no more clubs, no more wine, for me."

As Sam was leaving the bathroom, Stanton turned upon him and asked, abruptly: "Was I brought home drunk last night, Sam?"

Too sharp a question or command had always bewildered Sam, and always would. A man often speaks the truth when he is bewildered. Sam muttered: "Yes, sir," and then wished he had denied it.

"Did the Lombards bring me home?"

"Yes, sir," said Sam; and, as there was nothing more, he went out to kick himself about for the rest of the day.

At the office Stanton found a letter from the elder Lombard. He half expected it. He swung his chair into the best light and made himself secure in the seat before he opened it; but it was very short. He read:

"Dear Sir:—After the disgraceful exhibition which you made of yourself at our home last night, my daughter wishes me to say that love or respect from her would be no longer possible. Kindly allow all intercourse with our family to cease with this letter. We require no explanation and would accept no apology."

Slowly tearing it in pieces, Stanton said to himself:

"I rather like that letter. It's very much to the point, and there's no ambiguity; but I wish I knew how I got myself to his house and what I did there. I probably shall know, some day, and things will adjust themselves. They always do."

They did adjust themselves, but not precisely as he anticipated. The first intimation of an adjustment came to him through the newspaper, in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Lombard and Mr. Richard Raymond.

He thought of the glass of wine, and with a shudder sprang to his feet.

Presently he was restlessly pacing the room, muttering: "Absurd! Simply impossible. Why shouldn't he marry her if he wants to? Why shouldn't she marry him? He can tell her more in ten minutes than most men could in an hour. She'd have been bored to death shut up with me. Upon my word, I believe it was fortunate all around. I've had enough of society. I'm satisfied. I've come near enough to marriage to know that I'm not adjustable. It's an excellent place to stop."

Thereupon he stopped walking, tried to stop thinking of that glass of wine, and, having at last fully made up his mind about marrying, he expressed it so plainly to the trustees, the judge and the clergyman, when they attempted to renew their effort, and, indeed, to society at large, that the hint was finally taken. He was set down as incorrigible, and John Olmstead's will went out of sight and out of mind.

Stanton realized that the time was coming when some distant relative of his uncle's would appear and claim the property, and he was quite content that he should have it.

"I'd like to keep this house, because it's home," he said, to himself. "But that can easily be arranged. It is neither modern nor well located to tempt one who has recently come into a large fortune. I will lay aside enough to purchase this property, and they can have the rest."

With that he dropped the entire matter, to rest until he should receive notice that the term of his possession had expired, leaving the income from the estate, as deposited for him by the trustees, to accumulate for the future purchase.

Life actually began to assume for him a certain degree of serenity. He read of the sudden death of Mrs. Raymond in the far west, and honestly felt sorry for her husband; but a little later the serenity was sadly and suddenly disturbed by a confession from a client for whom he had been doing some charity work in the courts.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Is Often Made By the Wisest of Plainfield People.

It's a fatal mistake to neglect backache.

Backache is the first symptom of kidney ills.

Serious complications follow.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure them promptly.

Don't delay until too late,

Until it becomes diabetes—Bright's disease.

Read what a Plainfield citizen says:

Mr. C. H. Lippencott, of 39 Chatham street, says: "I was a victim of kidney complaint and dreadful backache, so bad in damp weather, or when I caught a cold, that I could not get about. I was in the hardware business at this time and the heavy lifting and being on my feet so much greatly aggravated the trouble. I was at my worst when I concluded to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It only required a few doses to convince me that I had the right remedy. My backache disappeared before I had finished the first box."

SUMMER SILKS.

Foulards Are Particularly Prominent For Warm Weather.

Among all the varieties of light summer silks—india silk, china silk, taffeta, surah and foulard—none is prettier than the last named, which, long relegated to the background, has now been brought forward by fashion and reinstated in the favor it deserves. Soft, satiny and cool, it is shown in innumerable colorings and designs for summer costumes, simple or elaborate.

The gown illustrated is of foulard having a bluet blue pattern printed on an ivory ground. The top of the skirt is laid in flat plaits at the hips and back and has applications of cream lace around the foot. In front is a full tablier of embroidered cream tulle. The bodice has a guimpe and chemisette of plaited cream mousseline de soie, and there is a deep bertha of cream lace bordered by two lines of black velvet fastened with gold ornaments. The mousseline collar is ornamented with lines of black velvet and little buckles and has a velvet cravat with gold tips. The foulard sleeves are open at the wrist over full puffs of cream mousseline gathered at the wrist. The belt is of black velvet. The hat of lace straw is trimmed with pink poppies having black hearts. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SUMMER WRAPS.

Silk Dust Cloaks Covering the Gown From Head to Foot.

The dust cloaks prepared for summer are really very attractive. The loose sack form is almost universally adopted, but there is great diversity of color and decorations. Grosgrain or taffeta is chiefly employed, in black, dark blue, garnet, green, gray and other serviceable tones. Sometimes stitching and tucks are the only decoration used, and those in moderation, but there are more elaborate examples, in which lace, embroidery and passementerie appear. Ornamental buttons are, of course, a feature in many of the cloaks, but in some cases no buttons at all appear, choux of the material being put in their place.

The picture given today shows a jacket of gray satin cloth. It is short and has a tight back and loose double front closed with two rows of large buttons. Lines of stitching ornament the seams and the wrists of the plain sleeves, and the collar and revers are entirely stitched. The accompanying hat is of neapolitan braid, the crown being covered by an enormous flower. The brim is lifted at the sides by bows of velvet placed next the hair. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Still There Was Danger.

A little girl from Memphis who has spent her life in the city went out to visit her grandparents, living in the country during the holidays and, as usually happens in such cases, the little city lady displayed her ignorance.

The little girl soon after her arrival in the country manifested great apprehension of being hooked by the cows about the place. One day her mother told her to go to a neighbor's home and carry a message. The little girl started, but at the gate she encountered a cow, one of the muley species.

In great excitement she ran back to her mother, crying: "Oh, mamma! there's a cow down there!"

The mother looked out of the window and saw the meek-looking bovine.

"Why, daughter, that's a muley cow. She hasn't any horns and can't hook you."

"But, mamma!" exclaimed the child, "she hasn't any horns, but she might hook me with her pompadour!"—Memphis Scimetar.

Rubbing It In.

"What pawt have you—aw—weserved foh me?" asked young Softleigh of the fair manager of the amateur theatricals.

"Why, really, Mr. Softleigh," she replied, "I'm afraid I have overlooked you, and all the parts have been assigned. Oh, by the way, there is the part of the heroine's father. I think it would about fit you."

"The pawt is weally of little—aw—consequence, doncher know—just so I'm one of the—aw—actahs," said Softleigh. "What am I—aw—supposed to do in the pawt?"

"Well," replied the fair manager, "as the heroine is supposed to be an orphan, your cue is to remain dead."—Chicago Daily News.

"Resolved, That the thanks of the Board be tendered to the director for the able, efficient and courteous manner in which he has presided during the past year."

The clerk put the question on the foregoing resolution, and it was unanimously adopted.

The director returned his thanks for this further expression of kindly feeling on the part of the Board toward him.

By Freeholder Farrell:

"Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be extended to the clerk for the able manner in which he has attended to the duties of his office, during the past year."

On motion, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder King:

"Resolved, That notice of said application be given by ten days publication in two daily newspapers, to wit: the Plainfield "Courier-News," and the Elizabeth "Daily Journal."

Freeholder Brucklacher moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll-call they were unanimously adopted

By Freeholder Swain:

"Resolved, That the sincere thanks of the members of this Board be tendered to E. M. Wood, county collector, for neatly bound copies of the Laws of the State of New Jersey, year 1901, presented by him this day, to each member of the Board."

On motion of Freeholder Westphal, the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Miller:

"Whereas, It is reported that said Roth is the owner of real estate located in the city of Plainfield estimated to be of the value of $700, more or less, therefore be it

"Resolved, That application be made to the Orphans' Court for the appointment of a guardian as provided, by statute in such cases made and provided, to the end that said property may be applied to the support of the said John Roth."

Freeholder Westphal moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll-call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Robison:

"That the regular meetings of this Board be held on the first Thursday in each and every month, except when said Thursday falls on a legal holiday and then the regular monthly meeting shall be held at such time as the Board may direct."

On motion of Freeholder Wahl the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder McCandless:

"Resolved, That when this Board adjourns, it stands adjourned to meet on Thursday, May 23, 1901, at 2:30 p. m."

Freeholder Swain then presented to Freeholder Adams an old relic in the shape of an ancient pistol, attached to the same was a card stating that it had been used with disastrous effect during the time of the revolution in exterminating a goodly portion of the population of Cranford, sometimes called mosquitoes. Mr Swain believed, that as Mr. Adams was a great lover of the antique, he would appreciate the gift.

Freeholder Adams returned his thanks for the gift and said, that his feelings would not permit him to make an extended reply at this time.

Freeholder King moved to adjourn, which was carried.

The Director declared the Board adjourned until Thursday, May 23, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Negotiations are on for a game between the City and Borough High School teams for Monday afternoon. As each team has won one in the series of three games there is much anxiety on the part of both to win the deciding game.

Dupee is expected to be in condition to pitch for the Leal's team in the game against the Columbia Freshman tomorrow morning. The strain received in his back is rapidly disappearing and it is hoped that he will be able to last the game out.

James Motross, the crack pitcher of the Hope chapel team, has shown the effects lately of a strained arm. Yesterday it was necessary to take him out of the box, in the game against the North Plainfield High School team. It is doubtful if he will be able to pitch in both of the games scheduled by the team for Memorial Day.

GOLF.

There will be general play at golf on the Westfield Club course tomorrow, no regular schedule having as yet been arranged. There will be a concert and many social features. This evening an informal opening of the clubhouse will take place.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Ladies' Bowling Club of the Gesang and Turn Verein will bowl in the championship contest this afternoon in Saengerbund Hall.

JUBILEE CONVENTION.

Commemorating Anniversary of Organization of First Y. M. C. A.

A jubilee convention, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the first Young Men's Christian Association on this continent, will be held in Boston, Mass., June 11 to 16.

Its purpose is to review the progress made by the association and to inaugurate an aggressive spiritual movement in the association. It will be the most representative gathering of association men ever held on this continent. Not only will every section of this country and Canada be represented, but active workers from all parts of the globe are expected to attend.

Although no definite arrangements have yet been made as to the delegation from the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., it is understood that it will be ably represented.

POLICEMAN CAME.

Ended an Early Morning Seance and Arrested the Participants.

Mrs. Agnes Kane and Mrs. Fanny Neal, of the East End, were holding a levee at the corner of East Third and Washington streets at the unseemly hour of 3 o'clock this morning when they were taken into custody by a patrolman. They had evidently toyed too long with the cup that cheers and were in a healthy state of intoxication. Both were lodged in the city jail, but owing to the absence of City Judge Runyon from the city, they will not answer for their indescretion until this afternoon.

Mrs. Amy E. Lorton, of Watchung avenue, is attending the annual meeting of the Society of Friends, in New York.

HOPE CHAPEL BOYS WON.

DEFEATED BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL NINE BY SCORE OF 4 TO 2.

Hurriedly Arranged Game Played On Plainfield Avenue Grounds Yesterday Afternoon.

A closely-contested game of baseball, played between the North Plainfield High School team and the Hope chapel nine yesterday afternoon on the Plainfield avenue grounds, ended in a victory for the latter team by a score of 4 to 2.

The game was rather slimly attended owing largely to the fact that it had been hurriedly arranged yesterday noon, but those who witnessed the contest enjoyed an exciting game. Martin, of the Clinton Avenue nine, held down second base in place of Hand on the Hope chapel team and distinguished himself in that position. At critical stages his clever work counted for much.

In the fourth inning J. Montross, Hope's regular pitcher, weakened somewhat and Charles Smith was brought in from shortstop. Smith's work in the box was very creditable, as it was also at the bat.

Both teams put up a good game, the boroughites excelling in double plays. One of these was a fly brought down by Conover, the second baseman, who put it to Hamilton, sending a runner out on that bag. Crite, on another occasion, struck Montross out and George put the ball to Armstrong on third catching Martin "sleeping" there, Hamilton, at short on the North Plainfield team, made a poor showing.

The batting order follows:

North Plainfield.	Hope Chapel.
Gerge, c.	Mague, l. f., s. s.
Jacot, 1b.	Roseberry, c. f., c.
Woodland, r. f.	Duckworth } r. f. 3b.

NEARLY DROWNED.

Small Boy Fell Into Raceway And Was Rescued Just In Time.

William Schorb, Jr., the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schorb, of East Front street, narrowly escaped death by drowning in the raceway in the rear of French's mill yesterday afternoon. In company with a companion he was playing about the water when he slipped from a small wharf and fell in. He was completely submerged and rendered helpless. His companion immediately set up a shout which brought the boy's uncle, John Hendricks, to the scene, who rescued him just in time. Beyond a thorough wetting and a bad fright the boy was none the worse for his involuntary bath.

CONFERENCES ARE HELD, BUT NO SETTLEMENT.

Committees of Strikers Visit Several of the Employers And Are Received.

BUT FAILED TO DO ANYTHING

SOME QUESTION AS TO SITUATION AT NILES WORKS IN HAMILTON.

Reported That Men Are Working There And Also That They Are Not—Committee Visited Mr. Scott Without Result.

Interest locally in the machinists' strike has centered upon several conferences which the strikers have had with the employers. Two of these were with the officials of the Pond Tool Machine Works and the other with Walter Scott. Neither of them resulted in the slightest change in the situation, although it showed the determined nature of the men. They have eliminated the grievance committee and apprentice clauses from their demands, but stand firm in the request for the nine hour day with ten hours' pay. They refuse to return to work under any but these conditions.

The conferences with Superintendent MacMurray and General Manager Stebbins, of the Pond Tool Works, resulted from an announcement made by the former that the employes of the Hamilton, O., shop of the company had resumed work on a basis of fifty-seven and three quarter hours a week with fifty-nine hours pay. The Pond men in the meantime had been informed that the Hamilton shop employes had not returned but were still on strike. The original shop committee was appointed to wait upon Mr. MacMurray and make this fact known. They conferred with him yesterday but arrived at no definite conclusion.

Another conference was held this morning when further facts in regard to the condition at the Ohio shop were made known to Mr. MacMurray, but the result has not yet been made public. The committee will make a meeting to be held in Trades' Union Hall this afternoon.

The regular committee of the striking machinists of Scott's Press Works, waited upon Walter Scott this morning to ascertain whether he would concede their demands so far as the proposition for a nine hour day with ten hours' pay is concerned

Mr. Scott, when interviewed by a Press reporter this morning, stated that he had given this committee no answer. It was suggested that the differences between the men and their employers might be submitted to arbitration, but Mr. Scott declared with much emphasis that the owners are able to take care of their own affairs without calling on the assistance of others.

There is no appearance of any willingness on the part of Mr. Scott to grant the demands of his machinists. He will, however, receive any delegation they may choose to send to him. but is very reticent as to the position he will take in the matter, especially as to whether he will enter into any discussion with the committee.

It is generally understood that a meeting of prominent press works owners was held in New York yesterday. When asked whether he attended, Mr. Scott declared that he did not, and further that he knew nothing about it.

The condition of affairs is precisely the same as it has been since the strike commenced.

—"I have been suffering from Dyspepsia for the past twenty years and have been unable after trying all preparations and physicians to get any relief. After taking one bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure I found relief and am now in better health than I have been for twenty years. I cannot praise Kodol Dyspepsia Cure too highly," thus writes Mrs. C. W. Roberts, North Creek, Ark. L. W. Randolph.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. A. T. Stryker and daughter, Ruth, are among those in attendance at the yearly meeting of Friends being held in New York.

Miss Egel, private secretary for S. D. Drake, has just recovered from an attack of intermittent fever and is again at her post of duty.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, who has been detained at home by illness, is somewhat improved. Dr. Fritts is in attendance.

Passed Examinations.

Captain Browning, First Lieutenant Lewis and Second Lieutenant Mosher, of Company K, went to Trenton yesterday and took their examinations as commissoned officers. All three passed successfully.

LITERARY.

It is not often that Eden Philipotts writes, but when he does he produces something worth while. "Cross ways," a novelette, in Leslie's Monthly for June, is by all odds the best story which Mr Philipotts has written since his "Children of the Mist" raised him to the first rank of contemporary story tellers. Among other stories in the number should be mentioned the amusing yarn, called "No. 367," "The Sheriff," a true story of a western "character," and "The Man Who Feared," a story of Chapultepec, by William McLeod Raine. The serial story, "The Road to Frontenac," by Samuel Merwin, reaches a climax of great interest, and "Margininalia" is most amusing.

In the opinion of an astute correspondent of McClure's Magazine, "Josiah Flynt's articles have done more for the improvement of municipal government than has been done by any or perhaps all other movements in that direction." Such being the case the citizens of Boston, particularly those of the Back Bay, should welcome Mr. Flynt's article in the June number, "Boston—A Plain-Clothes Man's Town," in which "Boston Common Slimy," a hobo, discourses as follows:

"'There's a Back Bay in ev'ry town, ain't there? Sometimes it's like Fifth Av'noo up-town in York an' keeps its mouth shut, an' sometimes it ain't. This Back Bay here in Boston don't shout such a —— of a lot, but it shouts just enough to keep the mayor, the chief and the other guys a-listenin', see? The town'll never be absoloot'ly shut—dead shut, I mean—even if the Back Bay screamed itself hoarse. You can't tell 660,000 men an'women to be good an'think they're goin' to jus' 'cause you say so. All that the Back Bay's shoutin' really does here is to keep the graft from getting too bad, rotten bad.'" c

Maxfield Parrish's fine decorative design on the cover of The Ladies' Home Journal for June forms a fitting introduction to a remarkably attractive issue. Among the most interesting features of this number are a double page of pictures, entitled "Where Golf is Played," showing some of the handsomest country club houses in America; a series of curious "Love Stories of the Zoo," told by Clifford Howard; the first installment of a fascinating new serial, "Aileen," by Elizabeth Knight Tompkins; a touching full-page picture of "The Passing of the Farm," by W. L. Taylor; the queer experiences with "Some People I Have Married," by Rev. D. M. Steele, and a vigorous article on "Women as 'Poor Pay,'" by Edward Bok. Numerous other articles of general and domestic interest fill out the rest of the number. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy. c

Boiler Would't Work

Owing to failure of the boiler to work properly the employes at the skirt factory were sent home at 7 o'clock this morning.

The First Oil Well.

Pennsylvania has the honor of discovering the first coal oil well. This was in 1859, by Col. Drake, in the outskirts of Titusville. The state a number of years ago erected a monument to the discoverer. The first well was not a great gusher, but as oil was then selling for about $14 a barrel, gushers were not necessary to produce a fortune in a few weeks. The methods of production were as crude as the oil, the old-fashioned well sweep being used to bring the oil to the surface. There was no casing then, as now, and no shooting of wells in the up-to-date way now employed. —Chicago Chronicle.

Not the Real Thing.

"Bah!" exclaimed the prospective purchaser to the expectant book dealer.

Being asked for an explanation of his ejaculation, he said:

"You call this book a Collection of Portraits of One Hundred Authors. Why, only three in the bunch have their heads resting on their right hands, with a roll of manuscript in the left."

Saying "Bah!" again, with the conscious air of one who has unearthed a fraud, he left the shop in high dudgeon.—Baltimore American.

The Smallest Wild Cattle Known.

Dr. R. Lydekker says the Celebes has the distinction of being the home of the smallest representative of the wild cattle, not only of this but of any period in the world's history. It is called the "anoa," and is not much, if any, larger than a well-grown Southdown sheep. Its height at the shoulders is three feet and three inches. It has many of the characteristics of the large Indian buffalo and there are reasons for thinking that it may be a primitive type of buffalo.

Saving Water Power.

During the last year nearly 5,000,000 tons of coal have been saved by large manufacturers utilizing water power.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

AN ELABORATE PROGRAMME OF SPORTS MARKED MEMORIAL DAY IN PLAINFIELD.

Threatening Weather of Yesterday Interfered But Little With Various Outdoor Events Planned For the Day.

LOCAL GOLFERS HAD A LIVELY DAY OF IT.

CITY HIGH AND LEAL'S SCHOOL WERE BOTH DEFEATED IN EXCITING GAMES DURING AFTERNOON.

Borough Firemen Played Ball—St. Mary's Games Called Off But Another Was Arranged—Athletic Meet at Dewey Park—Horse Show at Elizabeth—Irvington-Milburn Race Ridden in Mud.

The uncertainty of the elements had its effect on the various kinds of outdoor sport which had been planned as features for Memorial Day in Plainfield and vicinity. While no rain fell in the morning, the earth was extremely moist and some of the events, scheduled for yesterday, were given up. As the clouds broke away during the course of the morning and the sun came out, new arrangements were hurriedly made and the afternoon passed off with a number of interesting events on diamond, track and golf links.

Memorial Day was a big day at both golf clubs and the soggy condition of the turf did not deter many more score enthusiasts from spending most of the day on the links. While some of the baseball games were postponed, several exciting ones were played on local grounds during the day. There was also considerable activity in other lines of outdoor sport.

HOLIDAY PLAY AT HILLSIDE.

Good Scores Turned in for Holiday Cup—First and Semi-Final Rounds for Chapman Cup.

The devotees of golf were out in large numbers on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course yesterday. Although the weather in the morning was somewhat discouraging, it did not keep the followers of the game from enjoying their favorite sport. It was thought that the recent heavy rains would materially affect the course, but on the contrary it was in fine condition and made good scores possible.

The morning was devoted chiefly to the first round of play for the Chapman cup and this was full of interest. Some of the best playing of the season was witnessed in this event and there were some surprises. J. Whitney Baker beat Morris J. Dumont 1 up in 19 holes, W. L. Glenny beat H. R. Stockton 2 up and 1 to go, Dudley H. Barrows beat George T. VanBoskerck 1 up in 20 holes, Howard Wright beat Thomas R. VanBoskerck 6 up and 4 to go.

The semi-finals were played in the afternoon when Glenny beat Baker 2 up in 18 holes, and Wright beat Barrows 6 up and 5 to go. The finals will be played tomorrow afternoon between Glenny and Wright. This was Wright's first win for the cup, but his opponent has won it twice and if he is successful in tomorrow's play the cup becomes his personal property. H. R. Stockton also has two wins to his credit for the cup.

The other event of interest in the afternoon was the first play for the Holiday cup given by Ernest R Ackerman. This is handicap play for active members, to be played for every holiday up to Election Day; the four winners playing off at handicap match play and no one being allowed to score more than one preliminary win.

In this event George R. VanBoskerck scored the first win with a net score of 80. There were a goodly number of entries and as will be seen by the scores the competition was close throughout, all but one player keeping below the hundred mark. Below are the scores:

George T. VanBoskerck, 92, 12 80; W. L. Glenny, 85, 0-85; D. H. Barrows, 100, 15-85; J. W. Baker, 86, 0-86; R. F. Murray, 97, 10 87; W. F. Murray, 103, 16 87; Howard Huntington, 102, 15-87; E. A. Stevenson, 115, 27 88; E. T. Barrows, 106, 18-88; F. W. Yates, 115, 27 88; Olaf Saugstad, 98, 10 88; Thomas R. VanBoskerck, 99, 10 89; L. H. VanBuren, 104, 15-89; Townsend Rushmore, 109, 18-91; Howard C. Tracy, 118, 27-91; J P. Murray, 108, 15-93; F. A Clark, 113, 18-95; H. C Munger, 112, 15-97; L. C. Byce, 120, 20-100.

ACTIVE DAY FOR GOLFERS.

Several Competitions Held on Links of Park Golf Club Yesterday—Many Entered.

Several interesting competitions marked Memorial Day at the links of the Park Golf Club yesterday. Despite the threatening weaather of the early morning, many golfers assembled there. During the morning the course was very soft and good scores were difficult to make. The condition of the greens improved greatly during the afternoon.

The event of the morning was the first preliminary round for the Holiday cup It is a handicap competition eighteen holes, medal play, preliminary rounds to be played on Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day. The four members making the lowest average net scores in at least two of the preliminary rounds will qualify for the semi-finals to be played Election Day. There were nearly thirty entries for this event. The best scores were:

	Gross.	Hand.	Net.
Allan B. Laing	116	30	86

Townsend won the latter, making 101. Fred P Taylor, who played round with him, was a single stroke more. LEAL'S PLAYED GOOD BALL.

Lost to Columbia Freshmen by One Run in an Exciting Game Played Yesterday Afternoon.

The Leal's School team put up an exceptionally good game of baseball in the contest with the Columbia Freshmen nine on Pittis' field yesterday afternoon, but unfortunately were defeated by one run, the final score being 9 to 8. The game was to have been played in the morning, but owing to the condition of the field it was postponed until afternoon.

Judging from the appearance of the two teams it looked as if the New Yorkers would have a walk over, but the plucky boys of Plainfield put their whole strength and enthusiasm into the game. Tilney, behind the bat, made base stealing a scarce article and Dupee, in the box, struck the Columbia batters out in a manner that was bewildering to them. After the first inning, when Dupee allowed three men to get to first, not a "freshie" got his base on balls, while twelve of them did succeed in "fanning" out because of Dupee's deceiving drop and out shoot.

In the third inning the local team got on to Grant's curves and hit him freely until the fifth inning when he was supplanted by Tyler, who was almost as bad as the other in allowing men to get to first.

Hitchcock, their catcher, was injured in putting a man out at the home plate in the middle of the contest, but played the game out although it was evident that he was suffering from the injury.

The batting order follows:

Col. Freshmen.	Leal's.

CITY HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATED.

Lost To Rutgers Preparatory School In Game Yesterday Afternoon.

The Rutgers Preparatory School team defeated the Plainfield High School team yesterday afternoon on the Plainfield avenue grounds in a game that excelled in one respect only, and that was in general ragged play all around. The score 21 to 17 shows that errors were plentiful and the batteries easy.

Not in a long time has Van Auken of the local team pitched such a poor game. Hay, of the Rutgers' Prep. team, was no better. O. Wilbur, the visitors' second baseman, was largely responsible for the poor showing made by the New Brunswick team.

The batting order follows:

Rutgers.	P. H. S.

ST. MARY'S PLAYED BALL.

Regular Scheduled Games Were Called Off, But Team Met P. A. A. and Defeated Them.

Although the St. Mary's ball team had two games scheduled for yesterday, neither were played. The first game was to have been with the Roselle A. C. on the latter's grounds. The local team journeyed thither, but the diamond was not in a fit condition and they returned home. Their opponents in the afternoon were to have been from the St. Peter and St. Paul's Lyceum, of New York, but for some reason they did not make their appearance at the appointed time.

The St. Mary's team was about to leave the field when it was discovered that among the spectators was the Plainfield Athletic Association team which had cancelled its game with the Garwood nine. A game was immediately arranged.

The St. Mary's boys were a little out of practice, not having a game for two weeks, while the Association team was also handicapped in several ways. The battery on both sides did commendable work, but the field support was poor. Owing to the late hour at which the game commenced only six

SEARCH FOR GREEN'S BODY IS SUCCESSFUL.

Remains Finally Discovered in River Near Des Moines and Are Shipped Home.

DROWNED SOME TIME AGO.

F. S. GREEN RECEIVED WORD CONCERNING RECOVERY YESTERDAY.

Body Found Half a Mile From Spot Where Volney F Green Was Drowned While Out Duck Shooting — Was Under Twenty Feet of Sand.

Frederick S. Green, of 947 West Sixth street, received a telegram yesterday morning from Des Moines, Iowa, telling him that his son's body was found at that place Wednesday evening at 6:15 o'clock.

Mr. Green first received a telegram from A. B. Shaw, superintendent of the School of Osteopathy, where Volney Green was a student. This announced that the body had been found. The second telegram came from Mr. Burd, a classmate of young Green, and who was with him when he was drowned. This telegram stated that he was found in the Black Coon river, which empties into the Des Moines river six miles from Des Moines. The body was found a half mile from Valley Junction, where Mr. Green was drowned. The telegram stated that the body, although buried under twenty feet of sand, was in very good condition.

It was necessary to put the body in a metallic casket to ship home. This was attended to by Mr. Burd, and the casket was shipped by express to Plainfield last night. The news of the finding of the body was indeed welcome to Mr. Green and his family, for it dispels that awful suspense accompanied by the terrible feeling that the whereabouts of the body would probably never be known. As soon as the body arrives arrangements will be made for the funeral services.

GRAND ARMY MEN OBSERVED MEMORIAL DAY WITH PARADE AND PUBLIC EXERCISES.

Winfield Scott Post Visited Local Cemeteries Yesterday and Held Services at Graves of Old Soldiers.

COMPANY K ACTED AS AN ESCORT FOR VETERANS.

PUBLIC EXERCISES WERE HELD AT REFORM HALL DURING THE AFTERNOON.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis Delivered the Chief Address—Mayor Jenkins Made a Short Speech—Route of Parade—Many Houses Were Decorated—Those Who Took Part in Afternoon's Exercises.

Memorial Day did not open auspiciously for many people in this city who were looking forward to the proper observance of it, for the early hours were threatening with rain and had every appearance of a disagreeable day. Before 11 o'clock, however, the clouds broke away and the sun appeared for the first time in several days and brought cheer to the hearts of veterans and their many friends who assisted in observing the day.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., accompanied by Company K. of the Second Regiment, assembled at 9 o'clock and carried out the line of march already prepared. This was the first appearance of the local company, and the soldiers acquitted themselves with credit. They marched finely and many compliments were accorded them. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps furnished excellent music and also came in for a share of praise.

First came a platoon of police in command of Sergeant Frederickson, then followed W. C. Smith, as marshal, on horseback. He was followed by the fife and drum corps, Company K in charge of Captain W. K. Browning, and the G. A. R. members in charge of Commander Berg.

The line formed on East Front street with the right resting on Watchung avenue. The marchers then proceeded through East Front street to Elm place, to North Plainfield cemetery, where a service was conducted over the grave of the late E. C. Morse, thence through Chatham street to Somerset street, to Front street, to Central avenue, to Fifth street, to Evergreen cemetery, where a short service was held, thence to Plainfield avenue, to Seventh street, to Park avenue, to Front street, to the Post rooms.

Along the line of march there were many beautiful decorations. Previous to the parade various details visited all of the local cemeteries, as well as those in the suburban places and decorated the soldiers' graves.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock appropriate exercises were held at Reform Hall under the auspices of the G. A. R. The hall was prettily decorated with flags and bunting and a chorus of fifty girls and boys occupied seats on the platform.

Commander Berg was in charge of the programme which opened with the singing of "Columbia" by the chorus. Rev. L. E. Livermore then offered prayer, after a pleasing 'cello solo by Dr. Waldo, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Charles L. Lewis. After another selection by the chorus, Adjutant H. C. Smith read the National and State orders from the departments of the G. A. R. He also read the speech made by Lincoln at Gettysburg, and a list of fifty-seven deceased members of the Post. Following this "taps" were sounded by Commander Berg. The veterans then saluted in memory of the dead.

After a short address by Commander Berg, a solo was rendered by Charles L. Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. Lewis on the piano and Dr. Waldo on the 'cello.

There also took part in the programme Senior Vice Commander Charles Stephens, Junior Vice Commander Augustus Runyon, Officer of the Day I. L. McVoy and Chaplain John Goodwin. They were followed with the decoration of the "unknown grave" by nine girls, each of whom recited an appropriate verse. Another 'cello solo by Dr. Waldo preceded the address of the afternoon.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis spoke on the subject, "The Relation of the Civil War to the Present and Future of Our Country." The address was a patriotic and soul-inspiring one. The speaker reviewed briefly the events from the Civil War to the present time and especially noted the important ones. He praised the veterans and their deeds, as a result of which there is today a grand and glorious country. He spoke of the recent war and triumph and laid great stress on the importance of maintaining the highest type of true manhood and womanhood and placing suffrage in the hands of the right ones to preserve this country.

Throughout the address by Dr. Lewis there was frequent hearty applause, and at the close Mr. Lewis sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "Just Before The Battle, Mother." At this time Mayor Jenkins was introduced and he made a short address to the veterans, praising them for what they had done for the country. He also paid a tribute to the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans. His remarks were cordially received by all. The exercises of the afternoon were brought to a close with the singing of the National hymn while the collection was being taken.

Credit is due the members of the Woman's Relief Corps and Miss Jennie Smith for their time and attention in training the children to sing the various patriotic hymns.

MISS CURRY'S WORK.

Her Little Missionary Day Nursery Will Hold a Birthday Party.

Recently many Plainfielders have received an invitation, accompanied by a little bag, to a birthday party of the Little Missionary Day Nursery, 93 East Eighth street, New York City, to be held today. Those receiving these invitations can scarcely fail to remember Miss Sarah Curry, the matron of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp.

Miss Curry has nearly one hundred children in New York under her care, and at the camp last summer she had forty little babies, without their mothers. This is the fifth birthday party in which she presents her family to the public, and the children have made wonderful advancement under the care and instruction of Miss Curry. It will repay anyone who is interested in the poor children of the slums to see what the manager has done for the little ones in the years of her consecrated work. A liberal response is asked for this worthy enterprise.

OFF THE TRACK.

Big Trolley Car Caused Trouble On Line By Jumping Rails On Second Street.

The schedule of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway was disarranged for two hours yesterday morning during the heaviest part of the holiday rush by an accident which occurred on the Second street line where the double track commences.

In making the switch, one of the large cars, No. 76, leaped the track and ploughed for some distance in the mud. All efforts on the part of the crew to replace it proved of no avail and the wrecking crew was summoned. It was nearly 12 o'clock before the car was replaced, passengers in the meantime being transferred around the obstructed point.

LITERARY.

It is a pleasure to note the splendid tribute to Mrs. Phœbe A. Hearst, by Senator Dolliver, in the June "Success." The Iowa statesman points out two facts; that her money was obtained without depriving anybody else of it, and that she is modestly and beautifully preaching a new gospel of wealth by dedicating it to the good of mankind. Equally interesting, too, are the contributions along inspirational lines by such uplifting writers as Thomas Wentworth Higginson, the late Cushman K. Davis, Mary Lowe Dickinson, Hezekiah Butterworth, Walter H. Page, Arthur Twining Hadley, Charles F. Thwing, David Starr Jordan, and John Gould Schurman. The up-to-date features are furnished by Lyman J. Gage, Governor Voorhees, of New Jersey; Ali Ferrouh Bey, Turkish Minister; Sir Henry M. Stanley, Minister Loomis, of Venezuela; Sarah Bernhardt, and Charles Dennison Kellogg.

Shudders at His Fate.

Slavery Preferred to Freedom.

LONDON, May 31.—Ninety-eight per cent of the slaves of Zanzibar and Pemba prefer to remain slaves, according to correspondence issued by the foreign office concerning the working of the decrees freeing the slaves. Fewer slaves applied for freedom in 1900 than in 1899 because, the British commissioner avers, most of the slaves know they are not likely to gain much present advantage, seeing that those who were thrown on their own resources have a difficult time to make a living. The masters have been kinder since the slave legislation was enacted and seek to make their service more attractive.

Justice Brewer to Be Married.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Associate Justice David J. Brewer of the United States supreme court and Miss Emma Miner Mott, a well known schoolteacher of this city. The wedding, which will take place next week at Burlington, Vt., where the nearest relatives of Miss Mott reside, will be a very quiet affair because of the recent death of the bride's mother. Miss Mott is the principal of the Morse School building. She met Justice Brewer at the First Congregational church, where both attended services. Justice Brewer is a widower.

THE CUBAN PROBLEM

Important Conference Held at the White House.

OUR FUTURE RELATIONS DISCUSSED

Removal of Americans and Attempt at Self Government Present Many Important Questions For Officials to Settle.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—An important conference on Cuban relations took place at the White House yesterday afternoon. There were present with President McKinley Secretary Root, Senator O. H. Platt, chairman of the senate committee on relations with Cuba, and Senator Spooner of Wisconsin. For more than an hour and a half the situation in Cuba was considered, and when the conference broke up no determination had been reached. It is expected that the whole matter will be brought before the cabinet today and possibly will be further discussed with those who have had much to do with shaping Cuban relations thus far.

The president and his advisers must determine whether the Platt amendment has been "substantially" adopted by the convention. This is preliminary to the withdrawal of the United States authority and forces from the island of Cuba. If it should be found that the interpretation of the convention is not satisfactory to this government, quite a difficult problem arises, as it seems to be the intention of the Cubans to proceed to form a government, and that government must be recognized or rejected by the president, as he has full power to determine whether the act of congress has been complied with by the convention.

Another problem which has been discussed by those interested in Cuban affairs relates to what would follow should the new Cuban government be recognized. The Cuban government, it is asserted, will be for some time without the machinery to execute its own laws and put in operation its own edicts. It is held by some lawyers that the moment the Cuban government is recognized the authority of the United States ceases, and there is some question as to who would be responsible for the preservation of law and order, as the new government would have no troops and no police force and would be practically powerless should there be any disturbance.

The question whether United States forces would be warranted in upholding the government in executing its orders has been raised; also whether the president of the United States would be authorized as commander in chief of the army to give orders to our troops further than their recall from foreign territory.

Copper Found In Butte City.

BUTTE, Mon., May 31.—A rich lead of copper ore was uncovered on the site of the projected Hirbour building on the corner of Main street and Broadway, the busiest thoroughfare of the city. The find was made by workmen who are engaged in the work of excavating for the foundation for the big structure that is to be built on that corner. The vein was uncovered within ten feet of the surface. The discovery created much excitement among the workmen, and work was practically suspended for an hour after the find was made. The lead is three feet in width, and experts who examined it say that it is very rich.

Mutes Married After Fifteen Years.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 31.—After a courtship extending through the past 15 years Solomon Kimball of Meridale, Delaware county, and Miss May Beemis of Cortland county were married at the bride's home on Wednesday. Both bride and groom are mutes, and their acquaintance was formed at the Institute For Deaf and Dumb at Rome. Through correspondence and silent manipulations of their fingers on rare occasions when they met the lovemaking had been kept up since that time.

Plague Increasing.

HONGKONG, May 31.—The epidemic of bubonic plague is increasing. The cases among the Asiatics during the past month averaged 40 a day and those among the Europeans 12. Considerable discussion is going on as to the misgovernment of the colony. The epidemic now prevailing is attributed to the bad drainage system, the intense overcrowding of houses and the lack of an efficient municipal administration.

Refused Medical Aid and Died.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 31.—Mrs. Henrietta Ockerman, aged 60 years, is dead at the home of her mother in Chenango Forks. She was a Christian Scientist, and, although every effort on the part of relatives was brought to bear on her, she absolutely refused to allow a physician to attend her. Her death was caused by congestion of the lungs.

ONE DAY TO MEMORY

First Decoration Day of the Century Fitly Observed.

DEDICATION OF HALL OF FAME.

Impressive Ceremonies at Grant's Tomb—Minister Wu Ting Fang the Orator—Important Events In Various Places.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Army, navy and the state's national guard joined forces with the remnant of the once great Army of the Republic in doing honor to those who have died in the service of their country in two great wars. It was the same long parade of uniformed men, crashing bands and prancing horses that has become a feature of Memorial day in New York, and the veterans of the civil war, many of them in tottering age, were in the line that moved down Fifth avenue between a great crowd of applauding citizens, but the Grand Army men were fewer than in years past.

Every year the great parade becomes more pathetic, for death is fast thinning the ranks of the men who fought to save the Union, and some of the posts were yesterday represented by only a small part of the "boys in blue" who 20 years ago even were numbered in almost countless thousands.

But it was a brave showing the Grand Army made as they marched past the reviewing stand at Madison square and saluted Benjamin B. Odell, their governor. Tattered battleflags that once waved in the thickest of the fight were again shown to the public by the proud men who fought under them, and young and old along the sidewalks raised their hats in reverence as they passed.

There was no business doing yesterday, showing that in one respect at least the holiday was being observed. There was hardly a building of any size, public or private, that did not fly one or more flags, and the shipping in the harbor showed the colors.

Following the parade in this city, the chief event of the day for the old and young soldiers hereabouts, many memorial exercises had been arranged by individual organizations. One of the leading programmes of this kind had been provided for the members and friends of the John A. Dix post, G. A. R., which goes annually by steamboat up the Hudson to One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street to have services at the grave of General Dix in Trinity cemetery.

The programme of other posts were similar in nature to this. As important as any of them was the programme of the U. S. Grant post, No. 387, of Brooklyn, which goes annually to Grant's tomb, and a particular interest to its services yesterday was lent by the announcement that Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister and representative of the people whose great man, Li Hung Chang, delighted to honor General Grant, would deliver the principal address.

Since the body of General Ulysses S Grant has been laid at rest at Claremont there has never been a greater throng in upper Riverside park than at the memorial services which were held at the mausoleum yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. U. S. Grant, Brigadier General Frederick D. Grant, still bronzed from field duty with his troops in the Philippines; U. S. Grant, third, who is still a student at the Military academy at West Point, and other members of the Grant family occupied seats in the stand while Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to the United States, delivered the address of the day on the lesson of the life of the warrior at whose deeds the world marveled.

Before the beginning of the memorial services many wreaths had been deposited in the crypt where General Grant's body reposes. The immense marble pile was tastefully but not showily draped, and American flags were plentiful in the throng. One of the wreaths was from Li Hung Chang, who has always referred with pride to his friendship for General Grant.

In beginning his address Minister Wu, who was accompanied by several attaches of the Chinese legation, explained that he had met General Grant in China during the memorable trip around the world and had since had the greatest admiration for him. That the diplomat had been a close student of the general's career was evident from the manner in which the civil war campaigns and doings in times of peace were referred to.

In closing he said:

"A nation which has produced such men as Washington, Lincoln and Grant can do it again. A nation which has no lack of men able and willing to cope with every emergency that may arise in its progress is truly great and will continue to be so. The reason Lincoln is revered by posterity is not only because he was a wise statesman and president, but also because he devoted and gave his life to freedom and liberty.

"If Grant had done his work in China, there is no doubt that temples would have been erected to his honor throughout the empire. Before his shrine impressive ceremonies would be performed at stated intervals of the year by officials of the government, with the burning of incense and the offering of sacrifices. But things are done differently in this country. It has sometimes been said that republics are ungrateful. This grand mausoleum is at least a standing witness that the people of the United States are not unmindful of their obligations to the great leader that conducted them through a memorable crisis in their national life."

Minister Wu's address was received with great enthusiasm by the great throng about the mausoleum.

With impressive ceremonies and in the presence of nearly 2,000 spectators the Hall of Fame, on University Heights, was dedicated yesterday afternoon. Here overlooking the Harlem river, under the stately trees that crown the hill, were pronounced the words and performed the acts which shall mark an epoch in the history of those Americans whose names are now immortal.

Miss Helen Gould, into whose mind an American Hall of Fame was pictured in a perfect white dream and whose gift of $100,000 to the New York university has made that dream a classic reality, was the guest of honor at the opening of the beautiful pantheon.

The programme for the formal opening of the beautiful dome shaped building began on the open green terrace which surrounds the structure and ended with the unveiling of the bronze tablets in the seven sections of the colonnade.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew delivered the oration of the day, an eloquent tribute to those who are honored by this beautiful structure.

At the conclusion of Senator Depew's oration the tablets were unveiled to the following named: Washington, Lincoln, Webster, Franklin, Jefferson, Clay, Adams, Grant, Farragut, Lee, Marshall, Kent, Story, Peabody, Cooper, Stuart, Fulton, Morse, Whitney, Audubon, Gray, Edwards, Mann, Beecher, Channing, Emerson, Hawthorne, Irving and Longfellow.

Chancellor Henry M. MacCracken had charge of the ceremonies, which were under the auspices of the New York university.

At Historic Andersonville.

AMERICUS, Ga., May 31.—A memorial fountain over the Providence spring, in the historic Andersonville prison stockade, was dedicated in the presence of a large crowd. National Commander James Atwell of the National Association of Union ex-Prisoners of War unveiled the tablet, which bears this inscription: "This fountain was erected by the National Association of Union ex-Prisoners of War in memory of the 52,345 Union soldiers who were confined here as prisoners of war and of the 13,900 comrades who died and whose remains are buried in the adjoining National cemetery. Dedicated Memorial day, May 30, 1901."

Hobson In Michigan.

DETROIT, May 31.—Captain Richmond P. Hobson, famous for sinking the transport Merrimac in Santiago harbor during the Spanish war, was the center of attraction to about 2,000 people at the Lake Orion assembly, an interdenominational resort about 35 miles from Detroit. The event was a Memorial day service and the opening of the assembly. Captain Hobson made an address, which was characterized by eulogies of the soldiers of the civil and Spanish-American wars who gave up their lives in the cause of humanity.

Soldiers' Monument Unveiled.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., May 31.—A beautiful soldiers' monument, erected in memory of dead soldiers of the civil war, was unveiled here yesterday in the presence of a large gathering. The occasion was made auspicious by the presence of Senator Julius C. Burrows and General Elwell S. Otis, who made brief addresses. The oration dedicating the monument was made by State Auditor General Powers.

Heroes of Two Wars Remembered.

CHATTANOOGA, May 31.—Graves of the 13,500 Union soldiers and 400 Spanish-American war soldiers buried in the National cemetery here were decorated with fitting ceremonies. A feature was the fact that the programme arranged by the G. A. R. committee made the Spanish war men most prominent, with a view to filling out with them the fast thinning ranks of the older veterans.

Decoration Day In Manila.

MANILA, May 31.—Decoration day was quietly observed here by the army and navy and the government officials. The day was generally observed as a holiday, and business places were closed. The usual salutes were fired, and there were services at Malate, Paco and other cemeteries. The graves of American sailors and soldiers were decorated, but there were no civic ceremonies.

Graves Decorated at Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 31.—H. C. St. Pierre, a well known French-Canadian criminal lawyer, who was a Union soldier in the American civil war, delivered an oration over the graves of dead comrades under the auspices of Hancock post, G. A. R., in Mount Royal cemetery yesterday. The post marched to the cemetery and decorated the graves.

Woman Suffragists In Session.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 31.—The thirty-third annual convention of the National Woman's Suffrage association opened yesterday afternoon in the First Baptist church, with a large attendance of delegates and all of the national officers except Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch of Chicago. The convention was called to order by the president, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. A prayer was offered by Mrs. Ida L. McCoy, assistant pastor of the Wesley church. The roll call showed a satisfactory representation, nearly every state association having sent delegates. Mrs. Catt presented the honorary president, Susan B. Anthony, who for the first time gave over the reins of control of the convention to another. Before giving her own address of greeting Miss Anthony read that of the other honorary president, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

Her Body Petrified.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Thirty years ago the body of Mrs. Josephine Henshaw, weighing about 180 pounds, was buried in the old churchyard of the Presbyterian church at West Farms. With the widening of the street line recently part of the cemetery ground was cut away, and yesterday the body of Mrs. Henshaw was disinterred for removal to Woodlawn. As the grave was opened laborers bent low to raise the body. It would not yield. It was like solid clay, the features molded like a statue. Though the coffin was entirely decayed, the shroud of purple silk and the immaculate linen gown were in an excellent state of preservation. The body weighed fully 500 pounds, and it required the efforts of half a dozen workmen to raise it to the surface.

Mrs. McKinley's Condition.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Mrs. McKinley is fairly comfortable, but still feels the effect of the fatigue incident to the long trip from San Francisco to Washington. The physicians hope, now that she is again safely established in the White House, the slight improvement which has manifested itself since leaving San Francisco will be continued and that soon she may be able to sit up. She is still very seriously ill, and her every symptom is being carefully watched by those having charge of the distinguished patient.

Stars and Stripes on British Ships.

SYDNEY, May 31.—As the Duke of Cornwall and York in the royal barge crossed the harbor yesterday to inspect the naval depot at Garden island all the British warships were flying the United States flag out of compliment to the United States transport Glacier, which was moored in the stream.

GRANT ON THE PHILIPPINES.

Great Hopes For the Possessions In the Pacific.

NEW YORK, May 31.—General Frederick D. Grant, who has been relieved from duty in the Philippines for six months, arrived in New York yesterday from San Francisco, whither he sailed direct from Manila. General Grant is in the best of health and will sail for Europe next week to visit his daughter, the Princess Cantacuzene, in Russia.

General Grant spoke enthusiastically of our Pacific possessions and said that Uncle Sam made the best bargain of his life when he bought the Philippines.

"The resources of the country are practically inexhaustible," said General Grant, "and within the past year the products have increased 50 per cent. Within the next few years they will be tripled or quadrupled. The Filipinos produce the finest chocolate and hemp in the world, and as soon as the avenues of commerce are opened up between the islands and the United States a large export and import business may be looked for.

"The question of governing the islands is not a simple one, and as soon as we educate the Filipinos up to the twentieth century ideas we will find them among the most intelligent and industrious of our citizens.

"The natives, so far as their ideas of social relations, civil and personal rights are concerned, are still living in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. They see absolutely no wrong in one tribe crossing the borders of another, stealing everything in the way of cattle and farm produce they can lay their hands on and then returning to their own villages to feast on and rejoice over the spolls.

"There is a great field for missionary work in the Philippines, as at the present time there is practically no organized church on the islands. The establishment of churches and schools throughout the islands to rescue the people from their thirteenth and fourteenth century ignorance has already been commenced. I consider the work of rescuing that people the greatest humanitarian effort ever undertaken by any nation in the world—an effort which will redound to the lasting benefit of this country."

General Grant, after visiting his daughter in Russia, will return to New York in the fall and late in October will sail to the Philippines, where he will resume his command.

Queen Wilhelmina In Potsdam.

POTSDAM, May 31.—The zapfenstreich given last night in honor of Queen Wilhelmina was a most interesting ceremony. The bands played a number of old Netherlands hymns. All the assembled troops presented arms when the hymn called "Wilhelmus Nassau" was rendered. The music concluded with the "Honorar March of the Dutch Navy." Major John B. Kerr, United States military attache at Berlin, who has just received notice of his promotion to a lieutenant colonelcy, attended the ceremonies here at the special invitation of the emperor.

Mrs. Sheldon's Servant Quits.

TOPEKA, May 31.—Because the wife of the Rev. C. M. Sheldon would not permit a servant girl to dine with the family the girl left the Sheldon home, not, however, until she had reminded Mrs. Sheldon that her husband recently, in discussing publicly the servant girl problem, had insisted that the servant girl should have equal privileges with the family. Mrs. Sheldon told the girl that she was not responsible for her husband's opinion.

Woman Doctor Wants Big Money.

CHICAGO, May 31.—The largest claim ever filed in the probate court here has just been entered. Dr. Emma N. Warne claims from the estate of Francis T. Wheeler $100,000. The claim is based on a special contract for medical service and personal attention paid to Mr Wheeler, the terms of the contract reading that Dr. Warne was to "take care of Mr. Wheeler as long as he lived." Mr. Wheeler left an estate of $3,000,000.

Seven Drowned In the Schuylkill.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Five men and two women were drowned yesterday afternoon when a rowboat containing eight holiday excursionists went over the Flat Rock dam in the Schuylkill river and was capsized. One of the men in the boat was rescued. The accident happened near Shawmut, a suburb of Philadelphia. The current here is very swift, and the boat became unmanageable as it neared the dam.

The date of the wedding has not been fixed, but it will probably occur in the early fall. Miss Sigsbee is the only unmarried daughter of the family and is exceedingly handsome and talented.

HOME RULE FOR CHINA

Allies Hastening the Transfer of Police Duty.

SETTLING ON THE INDEMNITY.

Imperial Edict Expresses Willingness to Pay Four Per Cent Interest, the Payments to Extend a Term of Forty Years.

PEKING, May 31.—Another edict has been issued by the throne and has been received here in regard to the payment of the indemnities. China consents to the payment of 4 per cent interest per annum, but asks that the payments run for a term of 40 years instead of 30, as heretofore agreed upon by the ministers. The ministers are anxious that the indemnity question shall be settled in order that they may take up the trade questions and regulations, which will require protracted investigation. These investigations will not be taken up for the purpose of securing additional favors from China as part of the financial compensation, but to settle all the points in the protocol and give the court no excuse for not returning to Peking. The questions of reform in the government can be discussed subsequently.

Grand Secretary Kung Kang, the present head of Han-Lin college, has sent a memorial to the throne in regard to the destruction of that college. The previous head of the college, Yuen, some time ago memorialized the throne stating that the college had been destroyed by the foreign troops. The ministers insisted that this was not true, that the college had been destroyed by Chinese troops and Boxers, while the foreign troops had really endeavored to preserve it. The new memorial to this effect prepared by Kung Kang and approved by Li Hung Chang was forwarded to the court yesterday. The memorial also requests the rebuilding of the college on a new site, as the present site is part of the extension of the British legation.

Field Marshal Count von Waldersee has written to Li Hung Chang approving the occupation of certain districts by the troops now on the way here from Shangtung and Honan. Count von Waldersee also says that this movement will be extended to districts nearer Peking, and if the troops preserve order and protect the people the allies will evacuate Paoting-fu and Peking. These troops from Shangtung and Honan, numbering 13,000, are now co-operating, and others are expected to join them shortly.

Cornell Oarsmen Win.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 31.—Cornell oarsmen proved their worth once more yesterday and in the two mile race on Lake Cayuga rowed across the finish line easy winners over Columbia and Pennsylvania. Coach Courtney's men showed splendid form and in addition possessed weight and power superior to their opponents. They rowed to victory in the excellent time of 10m. 2s., lowering the record for the course made two years ago by 3½ seconds. Columbia was second, finishing in 11m. 2s., and Pennsylvania made the distance in 11m. 8½s. The Ithacans had a lead of two and a half lengths on Columbia, and the New York crew had about the same advantage over the Pennsylvania oarsmen.

Sanitarium Dedicated.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Country Home For Consumptives of the Montefiore Home For Chronic Invalids was dedicated yesterday at Bedford Station, N. Y. After preliminary exercises the keys were presented to Jacob H. Schiff, president of the home, by Isaac Eppinger, chairman of the building committee, Mr. Schiff giving a history of the home. Theodore Roosevelt, vice president of the United States, was then introduced and spoke of the magnificent work of the home. He said, "Only American citizens of Hebrew faith have put up these buildings, but they are to be open and free to people of all races and all religious beliefs."

Girl Sleeps For a Fortnight.

MONTREAL, May 31.—A remarkable case is now puzzling the doctors at the Hotel Dieu hospital in this city. Eliza Duquette, 24 years old, of Lacolle, Quebec, who is suffering from lethargy and catalepsy, has been asleep and unconscious for nearly a fortnight. Miss Duquette is the daughter of a rich farmer in Lacolle and has on many occasions shown symptoms of hysteria. A fortnight ago she suddenly became unconscious. Her case is marked by an almost complete absence of sensibility.

Bridegroom 90, Bride 87.

LA PORTE, Ind., May 31.—William E. Swanton, aged 90 years, and Mrs. Mary Langley, aged 87, have been married in Tipton county, this state. The couple were lovers 60 years ago. The day was appointed for the marriage, but an eleventh hour estrangement broke off the match. Swanton went west and was married, Mrs. Langley remained in Indiana and also married. Swanton has been a widower for ten years, and for five years Mrs. Langley has been a widow.

Wireless Telegraph Experiments.

HALIFAX, May 31.—The steamer Lake Champlain, which has just arrived, is fitted with the Marconi wireless telegraph apparatus, and Professor Stacey, who is a passenger, is making a practical test of the Marconi system. He says that on leaving England he communicated with Marconi stations at Holyhead and Rosslare, Wetford, Ireland, from a distance of about 50 miles. Several messages were sent. On the return passage other tests will be made.

Confederate Veterans on Parade.

MEMPHIS, May 31.—Marching to the strains of "Dixie," 3,000 Confederate veterans closed their annual reunion with a grand parade. Promptly at 10 o'clock the parade started from Confederate hall. At its head rode General George W. Gordon, chief marshal of the day, and his staff. Then came General John B. Gordon and assistant, General George Moorman, and then carriages containing the general headquarters, sponsor and maids of honor.

Remains of Babies Found.

LONDON, May 31.—A sensation has been caused at Birmingham by the discovery of 31 bodies of infants in a cellar beneath an undertaker's establishment. The bodies were in various stages of decomposition and huddled together in soap boxes. The establishment was conducted by a widow, who has been charged with causing the infants' deaths. The prisoner was remanded.

COMING EVENTS

May 31—Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey's Recital at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

June 2—Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting at 4:15 p. m. Subject, "Sacredness of Fatherhood."

Memorial Day.

Memorial Day turned out to be a very pleasant holiday for Plainfield and vicinity despite the gloominess in the morning. The threatening weather interfered, however, to a greater or less degree with the various plans for the day. While the celebration was not therefore on as elaborate scale as it would have been had the day dawned bright and clear, there was considerable activity in all the various lines of entertainment planned for the day.

The local Grand Army post conducted its parade and public exercises according to programme, the cloudy weather of the morning interferring but little. The outdoor sports suffered the most, the ground being very wet. Some of the baseball games were given up entirely and others postponed.

Despite the little trouble occasioned by the cloudy skies and wet ground, the holiday passed off very successfully and Plainfielders found plenty of ways of amusing themselves during the day. There was more activity in this city than has been seen on a holiday in Plainfield for several years.

Two weeks ago Hiram P. Baldwin retired from service with the Central Railroad of New Jersey after being in their employ for fifty years and general passenger agent for all but four years of that time. Tuesday night he passed away at his home in Roselle. Mr. Baldwin has been intimately connected with the progress and growth of the city of Plainfield through his connection with the only railroad which passes through this city. The wonderful advancement made by that company during the past half century is largely traceable to Mr. Baldwin. He was a good and a faithful servant to the men who employed him. Now his career is ended. Before he died, however, the directors of that company showed their appreciation of his services by giving him half-pay for the rest of his life while the public, through the columns of the newspapers, showed its kindly feeling toward the veteran railroad man. Mr. Baldwin practically gave his life to the service of the Central and died after building up the railroad to be one of the greatest of the feeders to the great metropolis, New York.

There are few better speakers in this State than Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who delivered the address at the Memorial Day exercises in Reform Hall yesterday afternoon. Dr. Lewis possesses an imposing presence and his ability as a speaker in no way lessens the fine impression first made. He has a fine command of language and his delivery is remarkably impressive. The Grand Army men could not have chosen a better man to speak at the meeting.

It is to be be hoped that the Plainfield police will co-operate with State Game Warden C. M. Hawkins in his endeavors to protect the song birds from the small boy and the Flobert rifle. Mr. Hawkins manages to cover a great deal of ground, but he has not yet attained the power of being in several places at once. The local police department should therefore lend him as much aid as possible in enforcing these laws in defence of the birds.

There has been no opportunity during the last week for the sprinkling wagons to flood the streets. Street Commissioner Gavett is looking after them now and will see that the local ordinance regarding street sprinkling is strictly enforced. There are many people in Plainfield who will appreciate prompt action on the part of the street commisioner.

It is greatly to be regretted that there has appeared anything which will tend to injure the hitherto harmonious relations between the Grand Army men and the local schools. Those who are acquainted with Mr. Maxson cannot believe that there was any slight intended.

If Mayor Newton B. Smalley wants to win the commendation of the people of North Plainfield, let him advocate new street signs for the borough. They will form an improvement which will not be confined to any one locality but to the borough at large.

SHAM BATTLE.

Company K Took Part in One in School Yard at Somerville—Fields Were Too Wet.

The members of Company K returned home from Somerville last evening thoroughly tired out but full of praise for the treatment they received during the day at the hands of Company M of that place.

The Plainfield boys assisted in the Somerville G. A. R. exercises after which they took part in a sham battle with Company M. It was originally planned to hold the bottle on the outskirts of the town but owing to the wet condition of the fields this was abandoned and the yard of the High school was made the scene of action. Company M formed in the street while Company K acted the offensive. Considering the lack of experience of the latter in military manouvess they did exceptionally well. The battle was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators. Before returning home, the Plainfield boys were served with supper.

SON IS ON THE SEA.

Mother of Rev. W. T. Griffin Died at Her Home in Flatbush Last Week.

Mrs. David Griffin, mother of Rev. W. T. Griffin, U. S. Consul to Limoges, France, died Tuesday, May 21, at her home in Flatbush, Ulster county, N. Y., and was buried the following Thursday there. Mrs. Griffin and Miss Griffin, wife and daughter of Rev. Mr. Griffin, attended the funeral services.

Mrs. Griffin leaves eight children, of which Rev. Mr. Griffin is one. The latter had no knowledge of his mother's death, as according to a letter received by her from him he sailed last Saturday for home, and he will learn of her death for the first upon his arrival in this country.

WHEEL DISAPPEARED.

James Neal Gave Chase and Found Small Boy With the Bicycle.

While James Neal, of West Front street, was watching the baseball game on the St. Mary's grounds, yesterday afternoon, an enterprising boy quietly appropriated his wheel. The latter had gone but a short distance when Neal noticed the wheel was missing and immediately gave chase. The culprit was overhauled and captured, but offered such a plausible excuse for having the bicycle in his possession that Mr. Neal was loth to prosecute him. He allowed him to go with a severe reprimand.

Third Anniversary Service.

Rev. E. E. Jackson will preach his third anniversary sermon at the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday. Commencing with next Tuesday and continuing until Friday, there will be festivals and concerts in connection with the celebration. Friday evening an address will be made by M. C. Dobbins, superintendent of the Sunday-school. Dr. Yerkes was to have made the address, but cannot on account of another meeting.

New Organ Has Arrived.

The handsome new pipe organ recently purchased for St. Joseph's church from a firm of Brooklyn organ builders, has arrived. Workmen are now engaged in placing it in position in the organ loft, which has been especially enlarged for the purpose. As soon as this work is completed competent organ tuners are expected to put the instrument in shape.

Old Soldier's Experience.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25c at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

There Is Still $100 Needed.

At the rally day services in the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Sunday, $91.50 was raised. This is encouraging and considered good, as the day was a very stormy one. There is yet $100 to be raised to clear the indebtedness.

Social Meeting Held

The colored Y. M. C. A. held a social meeting Wednesday evening, at which time new members were received. The membership is now forty-two.

Will Give Festival Soon.

The members of the Sunday-school at Washingtonville are planning to hold a strawberry festival soon.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Special Shoe for Women has room for the joints, making the shoe comfortable, and is at the same time stylish, and holds the shape, thus reducing the appearance of the joints to a minimum. In the ordinary shoe, the joints, in trying to make room for themselves, stretch the shoe out of shape, and it becomes shapeless and ugly. We carry them in Vici Kid, Goodyear Welts, Lace. Price $3.50.

Dunellen, May 31.—The local merchants have announced that beginning with Monday all places of business in the borough will be closed promptly at 7 o'clock each evening with the exception of Saturday. Heretofore the stores remained open until 8 o'clock, but in so doing the merchants and clerks had practically no evening to themselves. This movement also includes the postoffice and persons in the habit of calling for their mail after 7 o'clock would do well to bear it in mind.

The Dunellen Literary Circle held its second annual dinner at the Hotel Imperial, Plainfield, last evening. Covers were laid for twenty-one of the two dozen members. Between the courses anecdotes and humorous stories were told by the diners. W. J. Hamilton presided. A carriage drive along the mountain was also planned for yesterday afternoon, but this was abandoned.

The work of remacadmizing the New Market road as far as the railroad has been completed and is a decided improvement. The work will be extended along Washington avenue as far as Dunellen avenue, and has already been commenced.

Scotch Plains, May 31.—William Mayse, colored, one of those who engaged in a wholesale game of crap near this place two weeks ago, is now sorry he played. Ever since the raid was made Mayse has been out of sight, but the eagle eye of Policeman Guerrier discovered him yesterday and he was arraigned before Justice Clark at 5 o'clock last evening. The Justice is evidently out of patience with these breakers of the law and order and he imposed a fine of $9.85 which included costs. The fine was paid.

Owing to the poor condition of the Westervelt avenue grounds the game of baseball scheduled been the local team and the Garwood team was played at Garwood instead of here. A goodly number of local rooters followed the team and materially assisted them to win the game by a score of 12 to 9. A return game will be played at an early date.

Clever Work on the Piano By Young People—Those Who Took Part in the Recital.

The annual piano recital by the pupils of Miss Anna O. Marsh was held Wednesday afternoon at her home, 915 Madison avenue, and it was very successful. Rittenhouse, Jr., and played at the recital for the first time on the piano.

The pupils were assisted by Clarence Mills, who rendered a violin solo. Another number calling for special mention was the quartette by the Misses Ethel MacIntosh, Essie Thompson, Stephanie Krom and May D. Vail. The pupils who presented the programme are as follows: the Misses Marguerite Phillips, Jeanie L Millar, Ethel VanZandt, Ethel MacIntosh, Essie Thompson, Stephanie Krom, May D. VETERANS TOLD OF THE WAR

INTERESTING SERVICE HELD AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Addresses Were Made by Major W. D. W. Miller and Col. Mason W. Tyler—The Progamme.

A special service of a decidedly interesting and instructive character was held in the Congregational church on the eve of Memorial Day. Veterans, who were in the thickest of the fight in the great rebellion, were present at the meeting and recalled the incidents of '61 to '65, in an entertaining manner. A number of patriotic hymns were sung and the pastor, Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, read suitable Scripture selections. Miss Stephanie Krom read with much expression "The Old Coat of Blue."

"Lessons From the Service of Our Country," was the subject announced for the addresses of the evening and on this theme Major W. DeWitt Miller delivered an edifying discourse. As one lesson he described an opportunity that was not lost. It was on the second day of Gettysburg when Warren heroically captured the key to the situation—in the high water mark of the rebellion—Little Round Top. The value of standing steadfast was a lesson drawn from the action of Thomas at Chickamauga. Facing heavy odds this gallant general held his ground until nightfall and retreated victorious.

At the conclusion of Major Miller's talk, Colonel Mason W. Tyler spoke. The Colonel dwelt in a somewhat reminiscent style upon the war as he had seen it. From the time when he together with other undergraduates at Amherst responded to the call to arms until the last hours of the rebellion, the course of battle was depicted by him in a way which served best to bring out some important lessons of the struggle which threatened the Union.

When the formal exercises were finished the remainder of the evening was devoted to social enjoyment. Refreshments were served by the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society. Miss Agnes B. Freeman, the chairman of the committee, was in charge of this feature of the entertainment.

In his own rough way the fellow tried to return the favor which Stanton had been doing him by confessing that, some years before, he was in charge of the furnaces of a hotel when, late one night, a guest called him up to his room, showed him a man helplessly drunk, gave him $50 and a glass of brandy and secured his services in carrying out a little joke. The joke consisted in taking the man to the engine room, covering him with dirt and dilapidating him generally, then taking him in a carriage to a certain address and leaving him in the hands of the master of the house, with the message that he had been dragged out of a fight in a low dance hall and had given that number when asked where he should be taken.

Raymond was nowhere to be seen.

"And you was him, an' I done it," the man ejaculated, coming laboriously to the end.

Not a muscle of the lawyer's face moved till he had locked the door behind his penitent client. Then, with his fists clenched and crowded into his pockets for safe keeping, he walked slowly up and down the room.

For the first time in his life he knew what anger—hatred—meant.

If Richard Raymond had come into his office he would have killed him.

A new sentiment had taken such entire possession of him that for a time he had absolutely no control over himself, and the only good fortune of it was that he fully realized the fact.

He walked and walked and struggled with himself for hours before he dared unlock that door. At length the anger was driven into his heart, but it only waited—a most disagreeable companion—waited for its victim.

Late in the fall he saw him, for the first time, walking slowly on the opposite side of Broadway.

With his fists clenched, his heart throbbing, his teeth ground hard against each other, Stanton ran across the street.

He was utterly unconscious of what he even wished to do when they should meet; but they did not meet. Raymond was nowhere to be seen when he reached the pavement. He was glad of it afterwards.

"Broadway would have been a bad place to do anything," he muttered, as he walked away; and thereupon he asked himself, for the first time, what it was that he proposed to do. To his surprise he found the solution extremely difficult.

It was still unsettled when, a few weeks later, he walked up the stone steps of his home late in the afternoon, to find Sam waiting at the door.

Sam had grown gray in the service of two generations, and was more closely identified with that house than the young master, in his own estimation at least.

His face was even whiter than his hair as he labored through the information that an officer had invaded the sacred library and had calmly taken possession of everything in the name of a new heir.

"It's only a matter of form, Sam," Stanton remarked. "I had forgotten it, but this is the day that my rights expire. I shall purchase this house, however, and everything will go on as usual."

He waited a moment in the hall, to calm himself, for in spite of his prearranged plans there was something, either in the suddenness of the announcement or the manner of it, which disturbed him. It was the one spot in the world that was dear to him; the one place he loved; the one corner he held sacred. It was invaded by an officer, another, who for the moment, at least, had an undeniable right.

He entered the library. A man rose and handed him a legal document.

He turned to the light and opened it. One instant his eyes rested upon the paper. Then it fell from his hands. For a moment he stood there, motionless; then, leaving the paper on the floor, he turned from the library without a word, left the house, and like a drunken man staggered down the street.

CHAPTER III.

There were only two words on the paper which Stanton saw. It was covered with writing, but he saw only two words—the name of the claimant—Richard Raymond. He didn't know where he was going, but realized, at last, that he was again in his office; though by this time the great building was almost deserted and the cold December twilight was growing into night.

The very impotency of his rage made it more intense and bitter, and the last developement added fuel in the obvious fact that it was not even love for the woman which had tempted the man, but a plot, from the beginning, a plot to secure the property; a plot which had been carried out. Robert Stanton had silently, helplessly walked out of his own library and his house at the command of Richard Raymond, peacefully surrendering all to him.

He thought of the revenge he had been planning.

"He is prompt," Stanton muttered. "My possession does not expire until midnight. H'm. What of it?"

A little later he repeated: "Ten years ago to-night," and the spirit which came with the thought softened the hard lines on his face for an instant.

"If I were to marry before midnight he'd lose it now."

For a moment he walked more rapidly, then stopped short.

"Ask a woman to marry me within six hours, to save a fortune? I think not.

"If I had only a few hours more I might do something, but now—"

He stopped again, this time before the window, and stood looking out over the flickering and flashing lights. He didn't see them, though. He was thinking of his uncle, for the hard lines left his face again.

"Twelve o'clock, and all is well," he repeated, and, suddenly turning from the window, left the gas burning and the door unlocked and hurried away.

Dr. Morton looked up anxiously as Stanton entered his office a little later. His face was deathly pale. Without noticing the physician's extended hand, he asked:

"Do you recall my uncle's death?"

There was but one construction which a physician could place upon such a combination of incidents, and he replied, in a soothing tone:

"Certainly, Mr. Stanton, certainly. Be seated, sir. It was a trouble which is unmanageable only in advancing years. It was—"

"Do you remember the night and all the incidents?" Stanton interrupted.

"Why, yes, yes. It was the night of the storm and the fire. I remember, certainly."

RIPANS

Mrs. Lillian Morse, a housekeeper, aged twenty-one years, living at 145 Mifflin St., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "For a number of years I suffered with liver and stomach trouble. After eating I would swell so that I would have to undo my clothes. I had such pain in my back that I sometimes thought I would go crazy. Liver spots came on my face and I was a sight. I took every remedy I heard of and went to doctors, but obtained no relief. At last I heard of Ripans Tabules. I have taken them for three months and now I am well again and can truly say that they are of great value and I would not be without them."

WANTED:—A case of bad health that R.I.P.A.N.S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R.I.P.A.N.S on the package and accept no substitute. R.I.P.A.N.S. 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

RIBBON TRIMMINGS.

Narrow, Flat Bands Are Greatly Employed.

Narrow bands of velvet, satin and even moire are much employed for trimming either as stitched folds or in the form of ribbon. Bias folds are, of course, more readily shaped to any ornamental design than are ribbons, but the latter are thinner and are well adapted for a decoration consisting of straight lines, especially if the material of the gown is delicate.

A costume thus trimmed is shown in the illustration. It is of mauve satin cloth, and the skirt has two scant circular ruffles ornamented with bands of moire ribbon and a group of enameled buttons at the left side. The bodice is also trimmed with moire bands and lines of enameled buttons and has a wide plaited and crossed belt of mauve silk. The turned over collar is faced with white satin, and the cravat is of white lace, the front of the bodice being filled with cascades of white lace. The sleeves are of the pagoda form with ribbon bands, and inside them are full puffs of white mousseline de soie gathered into a band at the wrist. The toque of mauve tulle is trimmed with pansy velvet and a large buckle.

FOR OUT OF DOORS.

Millinery Fashions Tend Toward Floral Designs.

All hats are wide and flat, and the trimming is so massed that much skill is required to keep it from appearing lumpy. There are a number of exaggerated flowers used, the entire crown sometimes consisting of one immense rose or poppy. Much fruit and foliage are also seen, and hats almost or entirely composed of flowers have a decided vogue among the summer showings. One hat is almost covered with large flat pansies, and another is made of separate rose petals.

SILK CAPE.

Much ornamentation is also used on wraps, all except those meant for traveling and other hard service being elaborated with lace applications, mousseline de soie, etc. The cape illustrated is of black grosgrain, cut in deep, narrow points, which are stitched at the edge and terminate in a gold tip. The points fall over a deep, full flounce of plaited black mousseline de soie, and a long scarf of the plaited black mousseline fills the front. The ends of the scarf are trimmed with little ruches and a full frill. The high, flaring collar is lined with white mousseline de soie, and there is a cravat of the same material.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 2—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How to get rid of sin.—I John i, 5-10.

This is a topic of vast practical importance. Sin is the greatest curse in the world. Its blight is universal. The whole creation groans under its sway, and mankind everywhere is anxious to get rid of the power, pollution and guilt of sin. The cry of Paul has been echoed and re-echoed throughout the ages, "Oh, wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" And with him all may will exclaim, "Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Sin can never be got rid of by denying or ignoring its existence or by depreciating its real character. Some have denied that there is such a thing as moral evil in the world. What is so called has been looked upon as a human weakness, an imperfection, but without the character of guilt. Others have made light of sin, and this is the tendency of the age in which we live. Sin is made light of today. It is not taken seriously, as it was by our forefathers. Deep sorrow and contrition for sin are almost unknown today. A Jonathan Edwards would not be able today to stir as deeply a religious audience with a sermon on the subject, "Sinners In the Hands of an Angry God," as he was in his day and generation. This is simply because sin is made light of. A consciousness of the true character of sin must be present before one will ever get rid of sin. Who will seek a physician until he knows that he is ill? No one. No more will we seek freedom from sin until we feel that we are sinners.

John's method of getting rid of sin is to confess it. Being conscious of our sins, "If we will confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all sin." 1. This confession must be made to God. David confessed his sin to God. Both were pardoned. 2. This confession must be definite and personal. Many are willing to confess in a general way that they are sinners, but the confession that counts before God is the confession "of our sins," not the sins of humanity, which includes ourselves. 3. This confession must be made in godly sorrow, with faith in the cleansing blood of Christ and with the determination to turn from sin to God.

Such a confession is followed by forgiveness and cleansing. God both pardons and purifies, both justifies and sanctifies us. He has promised to do so and will be faithful to His promise. He is righteous in doing so because Christ has died for us, and His righteousness is imparted to us by faith.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a prepared programme, making a comprehensive, Scriptural study of sin, its origin, character and cure.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. iii, 1-7; Ps. li, 1-19; Isa. i, 16-20; liii, 1-14; lv, 1-17; Acts ii, 37, 38; Rom. x, 9, 10; I John ii, 1, 2; v, 1-4; Rev. xxii, 17.

Christian Fellowship.

Christian fellowship is one of the sweetest and most valuable of our gospel privileges and enjoyments. We do not make as much of it as we might; we dwell too much on the things that divide and not enough on the things that unite; we magnify small matters where we ought to dwell upon and exalt the more important and essential. The more we come together as Christians on the basis of common ideas the more we enjoy our community of interests. But we may and should be drawn together by virtue of kindred experiences and consecrations. It is the knitting of soul to soul through song and prayer and devotion to Christ that most commonly starts enthusiasm and deepens praise and gratitude in Christian convocations. We may not always think and feel alike as to methods, but we have the same aims and objects, and these foster and develop a oneness of sympathy and a responsiveness of heart and life that render conference sweet and desirable and result in a clearer spiritual vision and in a more intimate association.—Presbyterian.

Tact and Gentleness.

Of all the gifts to be prayed for, next to grace at heart, tact and gentleness in manner are the most desirable. A brusque, shy, curt manner, a cold indifference, a snappish petulance, a brutal appearance of stolidity, antagonize and wound and rob even really kind actions of half their value.

It is worth while to do a kind thing gracefully and tactfully. There is a certain propriety of demeanor which never makes a mistake, which guards the feeling of a loved one as carefully as a mother cherishes her little delicate child. In time such tact becomes natural, and one who has it makes others happy without trying to do so.—Christian Intelligencer (Baptist).

Suspense.

One bears with fortitude almost any certainty, but suspense tries endurance. What may be about to happen is harder to wait for than the sharpest blow and the heaviest load which have actually shown themselves to exist. "The waiting time, my brothers, is the weariest time of all."

Nevertheless even in the uncertainty of suspense one may rest on the pillow of the divine love. "I will trust and not be afraid," said one of old. We may say this still in every crisis and every contingency.—Christian Intelligencer.

True to Your Present Faith.

No man can ever go forward to a higher belief until he is true to the faith which he already holds. Be the noblest man that your present faith, poor and weak and imperfect as it is, can make you be. Live up to your present growth, your present faith.—Phillips Brooks.

PERHAPS THE MEAT you are buying, doesn't give you satisfaction. We hire this space yearly to tell you where you can make your money go the farthest, and where you can get the best, the juiciest meat in Plainfield. We don't make this assertion in the hope of getting you into our store under false pretence. We are anxious to please you, and once you give us your confidence you can rest assured that we will do nothing to abuse it.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 2, "How to Get Rid of Sin." Text, I John i, 5-10.

"God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all."

The first step needed in getting rid of sin is to clearly recognize its presence, its hatefulness and the pressing need that we be free from it. It is easy and a common experience for a person to realize that he is in many things unlike his neighbors and friends, but this does not very seriously disturb any one. It is often a source of satisfaction, and the differences are sometimes cultivated until they become distinct eccentricities. But there is no sense of wrongdoing in it all. Sin is recognized when one compares his own life as it is and has been with what it might and should have been had the laws of God been perfectly kept. When in some rare moment of self examination the inner soul is compared and contrasted with God's purity and all its blackness and deformity stand revealed against that background of whiteness and perfect beauty, then in some faint degree does the consciousness of sin press down upon the soul as guilt and blameworthiness with dread of evil consequences and self condemnation. If this is all, then despair will end the story.

The longing for help and escape from the torture of self accusation of wrong leads to consultation and confession. Concealment of evil only perpetuates its hold on the life. Acknowledgment of error is a step toward relief. There is no forgiveness without confession. All wrongdoing is violation of God's laws; therefore all seeking for righteousness must begin with acceptance of God's commands as just and right and free confession of personal fault and sin.

This is not enough. There must be the forsaking of the evil and choosing the good, with settled determination to do and be right. This leads to every possible attempt to repair any injury done to others by the wrong of the past. No well instructed soul can expect peace and pardon until all possible has been done to straighten out the ill effects of past conduct. If God forgives a man for theft, the man must first restore to the owner, so far as he can, the goods stolen.

Reparation man's condition of restoration to God's favor. You can't continue to cheat men and at the same time be clean before God.

After the sinning one has turned from the bad and done all possible to repair the mischief, confessed his fault before God fully and before men as far as is needful, then comes the all essential work of positive heart cleansing by the same Holy Spirit who has prompted and given power for all the previous process of sin expulsion. This love of cleanness of soul comes in many varying degrees, but always with refreshment and peace. The sinning is past. The guilt is pardoned. The whole desire is for the pure and godly. Temptations may arise, but power to overcome them will be given. The sweet influence of the Spirit of God fills the soul and by His light expels the darkness. Joy takes the place of depression, and confidence replaces fear.

How get rid of sin? Turn to God with all the heart. Forsake the evil and walk in light with Jesus.

Breathe on me, breath of God;
Fill me with life anew
That I may love what Thou dost love
And do what Thou wouldst do.

Breathe on me, breath of God,
Until my heart is pure—
Until with Thee I will one will
To do or to endure.

Breathe on me, breath of God,
Till I am wholly Thine—
Till all this earthly part of me
Glows with Thy fire divine.

A Good Man's Victory.

The victory which a good man gains over temptations is like the victory of the divinely implanted principle within him and of that divine aid which his inward faith invokes

WHIST.

The whist game, that was to have been played a week ago between the Park Club and the Knickerbocker Whist Club, was played Wednesday evening at the home of Wm. A. Freeman, of Sandford avenue. The Parks could have taken the game by default, but preferred to play it and they gave the Knickerbockers a chance to contest for the cup. The game resulted disastrously for the Parks as they lost by the score of 13 to 5. As there are only three more games this season, this puts the Parks out of the race until fall. The Park Club was represented by F. H. Freeman, Ralph T. Willis, Albert E. Woltmann and J. Gillmore Drayton. The visiting team was composed of Messrs. Cramer, Elliott, Watkins and Watson.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The weak player on North Plainfield's team has generally been Lewis, but lately he has shown improvement.

The Hope chapel team has a handy man in Smith. He plays short stop well and, when given a trial in the box, he has filled the position acceptably. At the bat also Smith is in his element.

RECEPTION TO TEACHERS.

Given by Mr. and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen at Their Home Last Night.

Prominent among the social functions held last evening was a charming reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen at their home on Myrtle avenue. It was given especially to those interested in the work of educational advancement.

In the gathering, which consisted of over seventy guests, were State Superintendent of Schools C. J. Baxter, Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, of the Plainfield schools, Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, of the North Plainfield schools, State Senator Charles A. Reed and thirty teachers of the borough schools.

An excellent musical programme was rendered by such well-known artists a W. Paulding DeNike 'cellist, William E. MacClymont, pianist, and Miss Bertha VanN. Willis, soprano soloist.

Hearing Tonight.

On the complaint of his family, Martin Miller, who lives near the borough line, was arrested last evening on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He will be given a hearing this evening by Borough Recorder Doud.

The Misses Voehl Entertained.

The Misses Tina and Della Voehl, of Somerset street, entertained a party of friends last evening. Games, music and refreshments made the evening an enjoyable one.

NO CHANGE.

Several Conferences Held Between Striking Machinists And Employers But No Settlement Reached.

During the past two days, practically no change has been made in the machinists' strike. The conference held Wednesday afternoon between the Pond men and Superintendent MacMurray resulted in nothing of importance and the situation there remains the same. The employes committee of the Aluminum Plate and Press Company talked with Superintendent Leary this morning but neither side made any further concessions.

All the local machinists are still hopeful of winning in the end as encouraging reports from all parts of the country continue to be received. The employes of the Niles-Bement shop at Philadelphia, who have been at work, will hold a meeting tomorrow and if their demands are not granted, will join the ranks of the strikers.

Picnic at Mountainside Grove.

The first picnic of the Central Social Club held at Mountainside Grove, last evening, was decidedly successful. A large crowd was present from early in the afternoon until late at night. It is the intention of the club to hold a similar affair in a short time. The committee in charge consisted of Frank McCabe, Harry Mattis, John Wierenga and Daniel Guinee.

Musical Club Entertained.

A musical club of young women entertained a number of friends at the home of Miss Grace E. Overton, on Rockview avenue, Wednesday evening. After the rendition of a musical programme, refreshments were served. Among those in the club are Miss Alice Gilbert, Miss Marie Newman, Miss Mabelle Phillips, Miss Edith Boone, the Misses Burnett, Mrs. Robert Taylor Johnston and the Misses Cahoone. The members meet together fortnightly.

Stopped a Runaway.

Frederick Breem, of the fire department, made a heroic capture of a runaway yesterday. The animal, which belongs to Robert Cook, of Crescent avenue, was hitched to a top buggy and this was partially wrecked. The horse dashed down Watchung avenue from the Park golf grounds to Chatham street where Breem pluckily brought it to a standstill.

Attended Family Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Martin and family, of Jackson avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin and family, of Duer street, attended the annual reunion of the Fenner family at Raritan yesterday. Horace Martin was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Picnicked At Sunset Cottage.

A number of young folks of North Plainfield held a picnic yesterday at Sunset Cottage. The young people drove over in carriages in the morning, and after having a pleasant time, returned before evening.

HOPE CHAPEL WON TWO GAMES

Team Journeyed to Brooklyn Yesterday For Two Games With The Clover Club.

The Hope Chapel baseball team administered two defeats yesterday to the Clover A. C nine of Brooklyn at Prospect Park in that city. Great ball was played by the Plainfielders at both games. The score in the morning contest was 7 to 6 and in afternoon 14 to 6.

J. Montross' pitching in the first game won the admiration of the crowd. He struck sixteen men out and gave only two bases on balls. Smith, who was in box in the second game, also did great work. J. Montross took Smith's place at short in the latter contest and Hartfelder caught while Gordon played at third base, his position being occupied by Auten. City Judge Wm. N. Runyon, who is deeply interested in the Y. M. A. of Hope chapel, accompanied the team and umpired both games.

BOROUGH SCHOOL BOYS WON.

Second Team of North Plainfield High Defeated Second Team of Hope Chapel Boys.

In a seven-inning game between the second teams of North Plainfield High School and Hope chapel played on the Plainfield avenue grounds yesterday morning, the boroughites won by a score of 13 to 8.

The boys from over the brook started in to do fast work at the outset of the game and succeeded in piling up seven runs in the first inning while the Hope chapel second nine only scored once. This lead was maintained until the game was called. George, Hamilton and Lewis, of the North Plainfield High School's first team, played with the boroughites and gave valuable assistance. There were no special features in the contest.

FIREMEN ON THE DIAMOND.

Great Game Between The Two Companies Of The Borough Fire Department.

The baseball match between the two companies in the North Plainfield fire department has become a fixed annual event, and the contest on the old cricket grounds yesterday morning naturally served to draw a great number of spectators, who were equally divided in supporting the two teams, one of which represented the Warren Engine Company and the other the West End Hose Company. Charles Keller was captain of the latter team, which again defeated the former nine, captained by L. B. Bodine. The score was 27 to 17.

The contest was a comedy of errors throughout and runs were frequent. A ball and bat, offered by Chief J. J. Stahl, and a banner offered by former Chief W. G. Debele, go to the winning team. Frank Blatz umpired the game.

The batting order follows:

ATHLETICS AT DEWEY PARK.

Bicycle Races Were Held, But Threatening Weather Caused Postponement of Some.

The tournament at Dewey Park yesterday was fairly successful, but owing to threatening weather all the events scheduled did not take place. The ball teams which were to contest for a cup did not appear and a game was played between two picked nines from Plainfield.

The five mile bicycle race was won by David Curtis, of this city, in 20 min. 48 sec. The remainder of the riders finished as follows: Comer, Rahway, second; Parry, Bound Brook, third; Springer, Rahway, fourth; Baker, Plainfield, fifth; Broshart, Dewey Park, sixth; Powelson, Bound Brook, seventh; Angerbauer, Plainfield, eighth; Carmon, Bound Brook, ninth. The exhibition two mile race between Raymond Poole against a tandem ridden by David Curtis and George Peterson, all of this city, was won by the former in 4 min. 6 sec. Just after crossing the finish line Poole's wheel caught in the street car track, completely wrecking it and throwing him to the ground. He was badly bruised.

None of the newspaper men who accepted Conrad Knoth's challenge for a three-mile foot race, put in an appearance and this event was postponed until Saturday, June 8.

NO LOCAL HORSES ENTERED.

Horse Show of Union County Hunt Club Not as Successful as Show Last Year.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 31—The third annual horse show of the Union County Hunt Club, held at the New Jersey Jockey Club's grounds, yesterday, was a successful affair considering the inclement weather.

The entries in the events were naturally not as large as usual and the crowd showed a considerable decrease in numbers from that of last year. There were no entries from Plainfield, but a number of society people, including Lewis E. Waring and Lewis Hallock, Jr., from that city, came over by train to attend the show.
